HARDING'S CABINET MEETS FIRST TIME IN 2-HOUR SESSION

President Urges Co-operation and Hears Reports From Secretaries on Problems.

COOLIDGE ALSO IS PRESENT

Hughes Confers With the President Before and Daugherty After the Formal Session.

SPEED UP COLOMBIA TREATY

Special Message, Asking Prompt Ratification by the Senate, Is Now Expected.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The first meeting of the Harding Cabinet was held in the Cabinet room at the White House executive offices this morning, with Vice President Coolidge, now on ex-officio member, sitting at the north end of the table opposite President Harding. For over two hours the President's official family sat in the buff-colored Cabinet room around the same mahogany table provided during the Wilson Administration when the Cabinet was enlarged by the creation of the Department of Labor. As was to be expected at an initial meeting of the President's advisers, today's meeting was not for the purpose of discussing for immediate decision pressing questions of national importance, but it was rather a get-together meeting in order to give the President an outline of the problems that already have been encountered in the executive departments.

It can be stated on authority that however serious a problem the Administration faces in the question of the disposition of American troops on the Rhine, while French and British forces are penetrating further into Germany, this topic was not brought up for discussion at today's Cabient meeting. Nor was any mention made of the Knox peace resolution.

The President as he left the Cabinet room this morning expressed his gratification over the spirit of co-operation shown by his advisers at today's meeting.

Charles E. Hughes, Secretary of State, was the first arrival this morning, and he had a short conference with the President before other executive heads assembled in the Cabinet room.

Seated in the new chairs that are provided at the beginning of each Administration the President, Mr. Coolidge and the ten Cabinet members were filmed in the Cabinet room and other photographs were taken on the White House lawn before the session began. The usual silver plates inscribed with the occupant's name have not yet been affixed to the chairs.

President Harding sat at the south end of the table facing an engraved portrait of Lincoln over the Colonial fireplace just behind Vice President Coolidge's chair. The President's first act was to inquire of Mr. Hughes as to his understanding of precedents in making public Cabinet deliberations. Mr. Hughes replied that his belief was that all such information should come from the President or his secretary. In this Albert B. Fall, Secretary of the Interior, concurred, whereupon the President bound his advisers to secrecy as to topics discussed and announced that all information furnished to the press would come from the executive offices.

It is understood that one matter discussed by the President and his Cabinet was the advisability of establishing the precedent that all news of departmental matters should come from their executive heads and cautioning subordinates not to discuss these affairs for publication.

Rising from his chair, the President welcomed his advisers to his Cabinet and urged a spirit of co-operation in the problems of the Administration and absence of jealousy. Beginning with Mr. Hughes and continuing down the table in order, the President called upon each Cabinet member to give an outline of the policies of his department, with particular emphasis upon methods of elimination of duplication of effort.

This discussion consumed the greater part of today's session, but at the end other matters were brought up for further deliberation, matters that the President's advisers are desirous of having settled early in the Administration. Mr. Hughes brought up the Panama-Costa Rica dispute, while Mr. Weeks spoke of the problem before the War Department in cleaning up the accumulation of business that has resulted since the war. Mr. Weeks is understood to have made to the Cabinet certain recommendations for straightening out the tangle.

While George B. Christian Jr., the President's secretary, was canceling appointments after 12 o'clock that had to be given up through the Cabinet's session, Laddie Boy, the Hardings' Airedale terrier, frisked in the corridor outside the Cabinet room, waiting for his master to appear.

At 1:25 P. M. Vice President Coolidge and Secretary of Navy Denby left the Cabinet room. They were followed a few minutes later by Herbert Hoover and Will H. Hays, who engaged in a short discussion before they left the executive offices. Mr. Hughes left with Mr. Fall. The last Cabinet member to leave was Harry M. Daugherty, Attorney General, who remained alone with the President for ten minutes in the Cabinet room.

It was announced at the executive offices that regular Cabinet meetings

Harrison Leaves Philippines Acclaimed by the People

MANILA, March 5.—Thousands joined in a demonstrative farewell here today to Francis Burton Harrison, retiring Governor General of the Philippines, marking his departure for New York after eight years service as Executive.

Nearly all organizations in Manila joined in a parade from the Governor's residence, Malacanang, to the House of Representatives, where addresses were delivered in English and Tagalog.

Harrison's last official message to the Filipino people was as follows:

"My greatest regret on leaving my post is the fact that I will no longer serve the people of the Philippines as a public official. Wherever I may be, however, I will do everything in my power for the advancement of the Philippine cause. I will work for its sacred ideals. I feel the most profound gratitude for the generosity and sympathy with which my administration was helped by the people of these islands."

The former Governor and his family departed for New York on the steamer Eastern Exporter, via Suez Canal and London, following a banquet tonight attended by several thousand persons.

RENT LAWS UPHELD BY APPEALS COURT

Judges Decide State May Regulate Business to Prevent Widespread Oppression.

ACTS ARE CONSTITUTIONAL

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 8.—The constitutionality of the rent laws passed at the extraordinary session of the Legislative in 1920 was upheld by the Court of Appeals today in a most sweeping decision. The determination of the Appellate Division, First Department, was reversed, that court having held that the Legislature could not constitutionally withdraw the right of the landlord to ejectment at the expiration of the term of a lease without impairing the obligations of the tenant's contract to surrender possession; in other particulars the Court of Appeals upheld the lower court.

The opinion, written by Justice Cuthbert W. Pound, upholds the right of the State to conserve public welfare under all conditions of life as they arise. It holds, in other words, that the Constitution is capable of taking care of any emergency that may arise. The decision follows closely the argument made by William D. Guthrie of New York, who argued before the Court for the Lockwood Committee and for which service he made no charge. The decision is a victory for Senator Charles C. Lockwood of Brooklyn and the Housing Committee, and the Senator was congratulated tonight.

Only One Judge Dissents.

The decision also covers actions for rent on leases executed after April 1, 1920, as well as dispossess proceedings in which stays had been agreed on before Oct. 1, 1920.

Chief Judge Hiscock and Judges Hogan, Cardozo and Andrews concurred in the opinion. Judge Frederick E. Crane of Brooklyn concurred in a brief opinion, basing his vote only on "circumstances due to war conditions." Judge McLaughlin dissented, holding that the legislation was objectionable on all the grounds stated by the landlords.

Judge Pound stated the four principal constitutional objections to the laws, first, that they denied to the landlords the equal protection of the laws; second, that they deprived the landlords of property without due process of law; third, that they interfered with freedom of contract; fourth, that they impaired the obligation of contracts. In holding these grounds untenable Judge Pound said:

"Whether or not a public emergency existed was a question of fact, debated and debatable, which addressed itself primarily to the Legislature. That it existed, promised not to be presently self-curative and called for action appeared from public documents and from common knowledge and observation. If the lawmaking power, on such evidence, has determined the existence of the emergency and has, in the main, dealt with it in a manner permitted by the constitutional limitations upon legislative power, so far as the same affects

SPANISH PREMIER IS ASSASSINATED, LEAVING CONGRESS

CAUGHT IN A MOTOR CAR

Actual Assassin Used Motorcycle and Fled—Chauffeur Is Also Killed.

FRIENDLY TO ALLIES IN WAR

Dato Was Leader of Conservatives and Had Little Sympathy for Americans.

MADRID, March 8.—Premier Dato was assassinated this evening while returning from the Chamber in a motor car. He was attacked by several persons, who fired a number of shots.

The actual assassin of the Premier was a man on a motorcycle, who fled.

The chauffeur of the automobile in which Premier Dato was riding was also killed.

LONDON, March 8.—The Spanish Premier, Eduardo Dato, has been assassinated, according to a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Madrid.

Premier During the War.

Eduardo Dato had been Premier of Spain several times during the troubled years of the war and in the reconstruction period which followed, when Spain was beset by discontent, strikes and riots of a revolutionary tendency and no Government was able long to maintain its stability.

Changes in the Cabinet succeeded each other with almost bewildering swiftness, and at times the first news of a new political crisis in Spain that would reach this country would be the bare announcement of the formation of a new Ministry. But, though Señor Dato at some of those times found his power waning and was forced to fight desperately in the elections to maintain even a semblance of his old-time power, he never was completely eliminated from the Government.

The Dato Cabinet, overwhelmed by one of these recurring crises, resigned in October, 1917. After varying vicissitudes Antonio Maura, a former Premier, who succeeded Dato, formed a new Ministry, to which leaders of the Dato group of the Conservative Party, headed by Dato, pledged their support. This Government, however, did not last long and in December, 1919, it was announced that Dato had agreed to form a new Cabinet.

The Ministerial Council met at the palace under the Presidency of King Alfonso, and Premier Dato promised a régime based upon peace and justice. The Conservative group headed by Maura and Juan Enrique Cierva pledged support to the new Government, though the Ministry was made up entirely of the Liberal-Conservative group.

That pledge was received by some with their tongues in their cheeks, though they hoped that Maura men would in reality aid in the efforts at preserving public order.

When a new Spanish Cabinet took office in September, 1920, Dato announced a program with its chief objects the settlement of industrial difficulties, the bringing about of proper food distribution and the elimination of profiteering.

Unrest in Spain continued, and in October of that same year Dato announced a new program of sweeping reform, including social and economic changes, though at the same time he made known his purpose to use repressive and preventive measures when needed in connection with the internal disorders which kept the country more or less in a state of uproar.

Weakened in December Elections.

In the December elections new signs of Dato's weakening were apparent when he got only a bare majority of members of the lower House. A crisis then was predicted as soon as the House met. There were conferences between the King and the Dato, Maura and Cierva group leaders in January of this year looking toward healing the breach between the factions, which served to intensify the dissension among the people, but little was accomplished, and Dato resigned late in that month.

Spanish statesmen, however, told the King that Dato was the only man capable of forming even a semi-stable

Nation-wide Tribute to Wilson Planned In Recognition of World Peace Services

A meeting to consider a nation-wide tribute to Woodrow Wilson in appreciation of his great services for world peace will be held at the Hotel Biltmore next Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The project is said to have been under consideration for several weeks. Hamilton Holt, Thomas W. Lamont, Charles P. Howland and Edwin R. A. Seligman are among those interested and members of the preliminary committee on organization.

Others on the preliminary committee include Franklin W. Cutcheon, Mrs. Malcolm Forbes, John Farwell Moors, Miss Virginia Potter, Miss Caroline Ruutz-Rees, Miss M. Cary Thomas and Mrs. Katrina Ely Tiffany. John Drinkwater and Edwin F. Gay will be the speakers at next Tuesday's meeting.

Among those who have given approval to the project and are expected to attend are Ralph Pulitzer, Frank I. Cobb, Bliss Perry, Raymond B. Fosdick, Cleveland H. Dodge, the Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick, Frank L. Polk, Mrs. Montgomery Hare, Mrs. John Blair, Mrs. Charles Simonson, Mrs. Otto Wittpenn, Mrs. Borden Harriman, Mrs. Frederick L. Cranford and Mrs. Charles Henderson.

Miss Potter said yesterday that the exact form of the proposed tribute had not been determined and would not be until after the formation of a permanent organization. She said that several plans had been suggested, none of them in the nature of a personal gift to the former President. It is intended to make the organization nation-wide, with branches in all the important cities of the country.

Glasgow Idle Demonstrate Before Wales for Price Cut

GLASGOW, March 8.—The Prince of Wales, who is visiting Glasgow, got an enthusiastic reception today. During the day there was a parade of unemployed, carrying banners with such mottoes as "We want the 1914 prices" and "The Prince has refused our dinner. We have no option." The last inscription referred to the Prince having declined to attend a public dinner in his honor, owing to opposition by the Laborites in the Town Council to the expenditure of funds for such a function.

A dispatch from London Feb. 21 said the Laborite members of the Town Council of Glasgow condemned the spending of public money on the feasting of royalty when hundreds of families were starving.

SLAYS MERCHANT AND KILLS HIMSELF

ENDS LIFE IN PHONE BOOTH

Fires Bullet Into His Brain After Exchanging Shots With Police—Believed to Be Robber.

An unidentified man, well dressed and about 30 years old, shot and killed Morris Bealkin, proprietor of a men's furnishing store at 26 Greenwich Street, late yesterday afternoon, fled from a crowd of 500 or more persons who pursued him, exchanged shots with a policeman, and then, driven to bay in a telephone booth in a Battery Place cigar store, killed himself with a shot in the brain.

The motive for the murder and suicide had not been definitely established by the police last night, but it was believed that Mr. Bealkin's assailant had attempted a robberq and shot the haberdasher when the latter tried to resist him, and had killed himself when he saw that he could not escape. Three cents in money was found in the suicide's possession, and it was the police theory that he was probably trying his first hold-up. A more experienced robber, they explained, would have thrown down his revolver and have thrown up his hands the moment he found himself cornered.

Homegoing crowds that filled Battery Place and the nearby streets were startled to hear two revolver shots just after 5 o'clock. Fifty persons walking south in Greenwich Street saw a young man run from the door of Bealkin's store with a revolver in his hand, and saw the proprietor fall face downward just inside the open doorway.

Hundreds Join Chase.

Led by Joseph Sharp of 78 Grafton Street, Brooklyn, a hundred men started in pursuit of the murderer. This number was augmented fivefold in a few seconds, as the fugitive, hard pressed, turned the corner and darted into a cigar store kept by Solomon Eppstein at 4 Battery Place.

"Hide me," the fugitive begged Eppstein. "A thousand men with guns are chasing me."

"You can't come in here," said Eppstein, as the fugitive attempted to force his way behind the small counter. The latter then turned to a telephone booth and was just about to enter it when the first of his pursuers appeared.

There is a bootblack stand at 2 Battery Place, adjoining Eppstein's cigar store. In the chair, having new laces put in his shoes, was Policeman William Kramer of the Old Slip Station. Standing by him in conversation was Policeman Leo S. Moore of the same station. Both had recently finished a tour of duty and were in civilian clothes.

"What's the matter?" called Kramer, as the chase came around the corner.

"He just shot a man in Greenwich Street," replied Sharp.

The two policemen, drawing their automatic pistols, entered the cigar store ahead of the crowd.

Fires at Pursuers.

The fugitive fired a shot, which went wild, on their entrance. Kramer returned his fire. The bullet struck the fugitive in the leg, just as he tried to get in the telephone booth, and was imbedded in the door.

Bealkin's assailant, who was holding his revolver in his left hand, put the muzzle to his left temple and pressed the trigger, before either of the policemen could reach him. He sank unconscious on the floor of the telephone booth.

Other policemen had in the meantime sent in a call for ambulances. Dr. Harrison took Bealkin to the Broad Street Hospital, where he died about an hour later. Bealkin had been shot twice through the abdomen and either of the wounds would have proved fatal.

Bealkin's assailant lived for nearly two hours after he had been taken to the Volunteer Hospital, but did not recover consciousness. The police found little to aid in identification. The laundry mark on his linen, "16-X," and the initial "E" on a belt buckle and a woman's handkerchief found in a pocket were the only clues discovered.

The man was about five feet, nine inches in height, 160 pounds in weight, of light complexion and was about 30 years old. He was well dressed and wore a dark suit, a brown ulster and a black velour hat. His finger nails appeared to have been manicured recently and there was a military service button in the lapel of his coat.

Bealkin was married and had three children, two daughters and a son. Mrs. Bealkin had left the store barely half an hour before the shooting. She was unable to identify her husband's as-

REBELS PREPARE TO ENTER PETROGRAD AS WORKERS REVOLT

Kronstadt Commander Reported Victorious, Having Silenced Minor Forts.

VAIN ATTACK ON FORTRESS

RAILROAD TO MOSCOW CUT

Probably by Fire of the Krasnoya Gorka Fortress, Which Has Gone Over to Rebels.

LONDON, March 8 (Associated Press).—The Petrograd workmen are revolting against forced mobilization and have attacked the Soviet troops, says a Helsingfors dispatch to The London Times.

The Soviets after street fighting took possession of the greater part of the city.

The revolutionary leader, General Kozlovski, is completely victorious, the dispatch adds, the artillery having silenced the minor forts, and is preparing to march on Petrograd. He has issued a proclamation to the effect that he is in a hurry to save the population from the oppression of a tyrannical clique.

The Krasnoya Gorka fortress is directing its fire against the Moscow-Petrograd railway line, says a dispatch to the Central News from Helsingfors.

Eight ships of the Baltic fleet participated in the bombardment of Petrograd, says a Riga dispatch to The London Times. A panic ensued among the Red troops and communists. The whole garrison at Oranienbaum, consisting of five regiments, deserted to the revolutionaries after shooting all regimental Commissars and communists, and also captured two ice-breakers between Petrograd and Kronstadt.

The Bolsheviki have sent agitators to Kronstadt with gold to try to check the revolt.

Reuter's Helsingfors correspondent says it is reliably reported that Bolshevist infantry attacked Kronstadt this morning, but were repulsed with heavy losses. The bombardment continued throughout the morning. The gun flashes of the Syasterbäk batteries shelling Kronstadt were plainly visible at Terioki during the night. Finnish troops are massing on the frontier.

Soviet Troops at Finnish Frontier.

A dispatch to The London Times from Abo, Finland, timed at 8 o'clock this evening, says Russian Red troops have been sent to the Finnish frontier to prevent assistance by Finnish White forces reaching Kronstadt. It is stated in Abo, the dispatch adds, that no such assistance from Finland is contemplated.

The British Foreign Office tonight denied having announced that the Bolshevist Commissaries in Petrograd had been killed or imprisoned. Reports to this effect had been current.

During a recent bombardment of the workmen's quarters in Moscow from artillery placed on the hills overlooking the city, says a Central News dispatch from Helsingfors today, several hundred persons were killed and numbers of others wounded.

More than 100,000 men and women, the dispatch asserts, are now on strike in Moscow.

The bombardment, says the message, followed a call for a general strike issued by leaders of the workmen and a demand for the immediate convocation of the Constituent Assembly.

Big Fortress Turned Against Soviets.

COPENHAGEN, March 8.—A dispatch from Helsingfors says that General Kozlovsky, having given the Communists in Petrograd three days in which to surrender, started a bombardment from Kronstadt Monday afternoon at 4:15. The bombardment lasted for several hours. The firing was very heavy, counting thirty shots to the minute.

The Petrograd batteries answered, apparently supported by those of fortifications near the city, and from the big fortress of Krasnoya Gorka cannonading was heard, but on account of the foggy weather it was not possible to determine at first if the shells were directed against Kronstadt or Petrograd. Later, however, big projectiles were seen to fall in Petrograd.

After a pause Kronstadt opened fire again in the evening at 9:50 o'clock, and Krasnoya Gorka now directed its cannon toward the open country, possibly to destroy the railroad connecting Petrograd and Moscow.

The heavy artillery of Kronstadt was not in action long, later firing being from the smaller guns.

Kerensky Directing Kronstadt Rebels.

COPENHAGEN, March 8.—Alexander Kerensky, Premier of the Russian Provisional Government which was overturned by the Bolsheviki late in 1917, is said in advices received here to be at Kronstadt. Kerensky, it is declared, is directing the revolutionary offensive against Petrograd, with that fortress as a base.

RIGA, March 8.—Several Red army Generals, late dispatches say, have been arrested at Petrograd. Telegraphic communication is interrupted between Reval and Petrograd.

The fortress of Krasnoya Gorka, which is reported to have joined the revolutionaries, was relied upon by the Soviet Government to quell the Kronstadt uprising. The Soviet had threatened to blow up Kronstadt from Krasnoya

GERMANY PASSIVE AS TOWNS ARE SEIZED; MAY MAKE NEW PROPOSAL TO ENTENTE; SIMONS MISSION AND ENVOY QUIT LONDON

Ebert Is Defiant in Proclamation to Germany; Urges Calmness, Says Country Is Defenseless

BERLIN, March 8 (Associated Press).—Friedrich Ebert, the German Imperial President, declared in a proclamation issued today that Germany was not in a position to use force to oppose the forcible methods of the Allies in occupying additional German territory, but that she nevertheless protested vigorously against what the President declared was an open violation of the treaty of peace.

The President's proclamation was as follows:

"Fellow-Citizens: Our opponents in the World War imposed upon us unheard-of demands, both in money and kind, impossible of fulfillment. Not only ourselves but our children and grandchildren would have become the work-slaves of our adversaries by our signature. We were called upon to seal a contract which even the work of a generation would not have sufficed to carry out.

"We must not and we cannot comply with it. Our honor and self-respect forbid it.

"With an open breach of the Peace Treaty of Versailles, our opponents are advancing to the occupation of more German territory.

"We, however, are not in a position to oppose force with force. We are defenseless.

"Nevertheless, we can cry out, so all who still recognize the voice of righteousness may hear.

"Right is being downtrodden by might.

"The whole German people is suffering with those of our citizens who are forced to suffer domination. With firm bonds must this sorrow unite us in one sentiment, one will.

"Fellow-citizens, meet this foreign domination with grave dignity. Maintain an upright demeanor. Do not allow yourselves to be driven into committing ill-considered acts. Be patient and have faith.

GERMAN MISSION LEAVES LONDON

STILL EXPECT AGREEMENT

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 8.—The German delegation has gone. Dr. Simons and the whole of his mission left the Victoria Station this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Up to the last the chief delegate was busy. Before luncheon he had a long talk with the German Ambassador at the Embassy, and the private wires from the Savoy Hotel to the Wilhelmstrasse did not cease work till very shortly before the departure of the deleagtion.

Early in the morning the members of the mission were busy packing. All of them bought souvenirs of their stay in England, and Sheffield may not be altogether unappreciative of the compliment one delegate paid her industry by taking two dozen Sheffield-make table knives. Several members of the mission, too, took back London-made clothes with them. "It is just seven years since I was last able to visit my tailor," said one, with a smile.

Dr. Simons would say only a few words to his interviewers. His disappointment at the failure of his mission was very evident. "Things cannot remain as they are for long," he said, "and it is my belief that the experts will soon come together again. There is only one way of arranging our difficulties, and that is by conference."

So far as the Germans are concerned, it is learned that no feelers have yet been thrown out, and things must remain in suspense till Dr. Simons has reported to his Government; but it is of some importance that Ambassador Sthamer today received instructions to go to Berlin, and he left London tonight. He has had a great deal to do with the conference work on the German side, and when he returns to London it may possibly be with instructions to open up a new avenue to discussions.

The German delegates took the news from the Rhine quietly, and it was the general opinion that discussions would be renewed at an early date.

There was a big crowd outside the Savoy Hotel to witness the departure of the mission. Most of the delegates, however, were not recognized, and the crowd's interest was occupied in watching the luggage labeled "Berlin" being put on the five or six trucks which were necessary to convey it all to the station. Some of the bags were new, several delegates evidently having seized the chance of buying some good leather, as an improvement on the Ersats product, with which all save the profiteers have still to be content in Germany.

There was only a small and undemonstrative crowd at the Victoria Station. The Ambassador and his staff were on the platform with a goodly number of Germans who have returned to live in London. A representative of the Foreign Office was in attendance.

From Dr. Simons downward the members of the mission all expressed hearty thanks for the arrangements which had been made for their comfort in London. "We have come to an agreement on one point," said a delegate, "and that is that we shall not forget our stay as British guests at the Savoy."

Dr. Simons and his colleagues were quite cheerful at the station. He and General von Seeckt, whose uniform and sword were packed away, posed time and again for the press photographers and talked smilingly with many of those on the platform.

When the train left several of the London Germans raised "Hochs!" but

EXPERTS HOLD NEW SESSION

But Newspapers Assure People Treaty Has Been Annulled and Entente Alone Will Suffer.

BERLIN, March 8.—Germany received the news from London in the same spirit of fatalism with which it expected it. The military occupation of Duesseldorf and the other industrial towns was watched with passivity. The Leipsig fair continued to do a big business, some foreign buyers even speeding the conclusion of contracts, and on the exchanges the mark lost nothing of what is left of its value.

The country seems to have been hypnotized by the newspapers and believes that the penalties are going to hurt nobody except the Allies. The text of nearly every article is the same—the Entente will discover that these measures do not pay and will then seek to reopen the reparations question on what is called a common-sense basis. "We only have to hold out until the world realizes that the penalties are only a French mockery, and then a start can be made in the task of liquidating the war."

Highbrow politics speaks in much the same voice as high finance, Vorwärts, the organ of academic socialism, declaring that "the military occupation will be painful but of lasting value by tearing up the Versailles Treaty. The Entente have themselves initiated its revision. They are now fighting against both justice and common sense and will themselves succumb in that fight."

Big business, too, is very sorry—for the Entente—Stinnes's principal newspaper prophesying the coming day when "the world will curse the men who listened not to the voice of common sense but that of hate and military shortsightedness. Confident in its good right," continues the paper, "Germany can await the future with perfect calm."

Almost the only paper which does not assume this posture is the Vossische Zeitung, which warns the people that the sanctions are a bitter reality and may be followed by other measures until Germany's creditors are paid. It describes the failure of the London Conference as the failure of German foreign policy and, demanding the reopening of the negotiations, admonishes the Government to realize that Germany's task is to make not conditions, but proposals which meet the interests of its creditors.

This view is perhaps more widely shared than the more noisily voiced public opinion suggests. At any rate, the committee of fifteen financial and industrial magnates appointed by the Government to prepare a basis for the London conference reassembled this morning in order, it is reported, to try to discover a new opening for negotiations.

Chancellor Warns the Entente.

BERLIN, March 8 (Associated Press).—Chancellor Fehrenbach, at the reassembling of the Reichstag today, announced the breaking off of negotiations at London. He said:

"The Allies have already begun to put the penalties into effect. This, in plain German, means an act of violence, for penalties have nothing to do with the usual principles of right. The conditions imposed upon us are to be secured by force. This rupture can neither be disguised nor justified by legal deceptions."

Chancellor Fehrenbach declared the Allies admitted that the impossible was DUESSELDORF, March 8 (by Telephone to Paris and Thence by Cable).—Without incident or commotion, the French, British and Belgian troops occupied the three German towns of Düsseldorf, Duisburg and Ruhrort today in accordance with the decision of the Allies as the first step toward extracting from Germany the reparations for war damage which she has refused to pay.

From the military point of view the operation was one of the utmost simplicity. The march of the squadrons of the three armies began last night, some French troops who had come furthest being in motion as early as 7 o'clock. These moved from the south, while the British and Belgians headed east.

When dawn came the advance guards, led by tanks and machine-gun corps, moved over the Düsseldorf Bridge. Two squadrons of British planes and four squadrons of French planes were flying over the city. By 7 o'clock the central square and all the principal strategic points and central buildings had been occupied.

Ten thousand French and 5,000 Belgian troops are being employed. Of British only two squadrons of cavalry were used in Düsseldorf, the British forces on the Rhine having been depleted by a draft of three battalions to Upper Silesia.

At the same time as the advance was made the Rhine flotilla, which had been delayed, appeared off Ruhrort. It was not until the afternoon that Duisburg and Ruhrort were occupied completely.

Proclamation to Townspeople.

"TO THE POPULATION:

"The official representatives of the German Government have just presented to the London conference propositions which show that the German Government does not wish to fulfill the engagements it assumed in signing the treaty of peace.

"Before this attitude the allied powers are constrained to pass to penalties. Unanimously they have decided to assure themselves new guarantees in order to force the German Government to execute the clauses of the treaty.

"In consequence the allied troops have received orders to occupy as guarantees Duesseldorf, Duisburg and Ruhrort.

"This occupation constitutes in no fashion a measure of hostility toward the population. Under the reserve of strict observance of orders which the military authority will judge indispensable to promulgate there will be no interference with the economic life of the region.

"Not only will the working population have all facilities for work, but the allied authorities are willing to help them to better their situation and in particular to assure their food supply.

"The allied command intends to maintain in the territories newly occupied a régime of liberty and order in which the prosperity of the country can develop.

"Commander in Chief of the Allied Forces of Occupation."

Around these posters a few townspeople collected, but the general attitude was one of apathy and almost complete indifference. The people of Duesseldorf seemed to wish to appear not to notice the allied invasion or the presence in their streets of allied uniforms.

Had Been Demonstrations.

This fact is the more curious as during the past week for almost the first time since the war ended there have been in Duesseldorf and other places in the Rhineland demonstrations against the Allies. On Sunday last several bands of young men marched up to the bridgehead which is occupied by the Belgians and within sight of the Belgian sentries sang German patriotic songs. In the Cologne sector a group of about 100 young Germans marched past the British sentries in military formation and, I am informed, were well armed.

I was received by the French General Gaucher, commanding the whole operation of occupation. He said that everything had been satisfactory and no incident had occurred. The delay in the occupation of Duisburg was due to the fact that the flotilla of gunboats and troop tugs had been unable to move up during the night owing to the lowness of the water and fear of shoals.

General Degoutte, accompanied by three armored cars, is touring the occupied area with the British General Morland and the Belgian General Roquoy. General Gaucher said he hoped to interfere little in normal conditions if the people behaved, as he came rather as a debt collector than a soldier. But he purposed to disarm the security police and expel any undesirables.

He has issued a proclamation with seven points:

1. There is a state of siege in the newly occupied area.
2. No disturbance of order and no sabotage will be tolerated.
3. Every one must carry proofs of identity.
4. No crowds will be allowed.
5. Road traffic will be controlled and rail traffic reduced, except workers' and international trains.
6. A censorship for the press, letters, cables and telephone is established.
7. No arms must be carried and arms and munitions must be given up.

Severe penalties by military court will be imposed in case of any infringement of the order.

Tonight it is perfectly quiet in Duesseldorf. The population remains and there are crowds on the streets. The Germans nevertheless seem at heart overawed and their spirit seems different from that at Frankfort at the time of the occupation, where whenever the troops moved they were followed by crowds. This time no Colonial troops of any kind are being employed by the French.

COBLENZ, March 8.—Everything is quiet on both sides of the Rhine. The seizure of the frontier Custom Houses was carried out during the morning. The cash found was impounded to prevent its being dispatched to the interior by German officials. Business is proceeding at the customs as usual, except that it is under strict supervision of allied officers.

Belgian General Rules Other Towns.

FRENCH MILITARY HEADQUARTERS, Mayence, Germany, March 8 (Associated Press).—The Belgian and French troops reached Duisburg and Ruhrort at 11:45 A. M. General Beaurein of the Belgian Army, it was announced, would assume command as soon as the occupation of these towns was completed. The French contingent of occupation is a battalion of chasseurs, who arrived in river craft, disembarking at the Ruhrort docks.

The military experienced no difficulties with the German railroads, traffic on which moved smoothly without exception.

PARIS, March 8 (Associated Press).—A detachment of 100 bluejackets to reinforce the French Rhine flotilla left Paris tonight by the Cologne express. Another hundred will leave tomorrow.

Fewer than 25,000 troops were used in carrying out the occupation of additional German territory, it was stated at the Foreign Office this afternoon. No Colonial forces and no negro troops whatever were included in this number, so that the Germans would have no basis for criticism on this ground.

The War Ministry announced today that it was not considering for the moment maintenance of the class of 1919 under the colors when its time expired, Marshal Foch having sufficient effectives for the operations foreseen by the Allies.

LONDON, March 8.—Great Britain's contribution to the occupational forces along the Rhine for the present is to be confined to cavalry, tanks and a small flotilla of boats, in addition to a small complement of soldiers. It is officially announced that no troops will be sent from England to the Rhine.

TO PLAN CUSTOMS PENALTIES.

Allied Experts Will Meet in Paris Today for the Purpose.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 8.—The allied experts will meet in Paris to work out the plans for the other two penalties on Germany, namely, collection of part of the value of German goods sold to allied countries and the establishment of a customs line.

The Parliaments of the allied countries will pass a law providing that a certain percentage, not to exceed 50 per cent. of the value of German goods sold in each allied country, shall be turned over to the Reparations Commission. The plan is to have purchasers pay to their Government a fixed percentage of the supreme price of German goods and turn over the remainder to the German sellers.

The customs penalties are of two kinds. First, the Allies will seize the German customs on the west, collecting duties under the present German Government. Secondly, the new customs line will be drawn on the right bank of the Rhine to impose duties on goods passing both ways, which duties will be fixed by the Interallied Rhineland High Commission, and the proceeds of which will go to the Reparations Commission. The presence of the Americans at the important gateway of Coblenz offers a problem for the Allies. General Allen is said to be disposed to allow the agents of the High Commission to take any action they like. In the event that he receives contrary instructions from Washington, the customs line for the Coblenz district will be drawn, instead of to the east of the Bridgehead, to the west, which will run it through territory occupied by French troops behind the Americans.

ITALIANS BLAME GERMANS.

Press Opinion Approves the Use of Force by Allies.

ROME, March 8.—The Giornale d'Italia, discussing reparations, says:

"Germany's game is obvious, for, in subordinating the question of payment to that of Upper Silesia, the Germans know they are asking an impossible thing. All their concessions are only a farce."

The Tribuna says:

"Germany does not understand that the solidarity of the Allies is unshakable. Nothing could be more unreal than the German idea of reparations, which, according to Dr. Simons, should be a change not upon the German nation but on the Allies, more especially the poorer of the Allies. The hour for penalties has struck. The allied watchword is: 'Enough.' Otherwise, the war guilt would be privileged, and the victims sacrificed."

scarcely above a whisper. Otherwise there was no demonstration.

The Government departments concerned were very busy today drafting the bill which is to embody the financial penalty to be enforced upon Germany, whereby in trade transactions with that country British merchants are to pay 50 per cent. of the money received into the treasury.

The Government hopes to introduce the bill tomorrow and get it through all stages promptly.

The summoning of the German Ambassadors in Paris and London to Berlin for consultation and the report from Berlin that the experts who prepared the German counter-proposals met again this morning to try to discover a new opening for negotiations, are regarded here as sure indications that the drastic action of the Allies is having the requisite effect on Germany. If, as has been suggested, the conclusions of the German experts were a good deal nearer the allied requirements than were the offers made by Dr. Simons, it may not be long before the Allies hear again from Berlin.

"Should the delays persist," says The Daily Chronicle, "it might become necessary to give an additional turn to the screw, but it is altogether premature to consider that at present."

With regard to any future pressure which could be put on Germany The Chronicle representative writes:

"It is understood that the Allies legally have power to occupy any portion of Germany desired, seeing that the Germans have violated the Treaty of Versailles. A blockade is considered impracticable and the occupation of Berlin purposeless, apart from the political weight attaching to such occupation.

"A meeting of the Supreme Council has been fixed for noon tomorrow to consider the enforcement of the sanctions."

The same writer says it is considered likely that Dr. Simons will now resign.

PARIS PRESS HINTS AT NEW PENALTIES

FALL BACK ON TREATY NOW

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 8.—All the Paris press except the extreme Socialist papers supports the Government in taking reprisals against Germany. The general view is that Germany has only herself to blame, and that the Allies gave her every chance to reach a peaceable settlement. Remarks of the writers as to the eventual penalties which may be needed are guarded, at the request of the Government, and every desire is shown to leave Premier Briand with his hands free to work out his difficult problem. For it is evident that, if the measures taken today and which will be taken in the next few days do not bring the needed results, other steps will have to be taken.

The Journal des Debats tonight says Germany has forfeited all the gains she would have received under the Paris accord and that the Allies are now absolutely free to enforce payment of the reparation commission's total, which was some 100,000,000,000 marks larger than the figures the Allied Council set and asked Germany to accept.

"The Commission on Reparations," says the Journal des Debats, "now resumes all its powers solemnly conferred upon it by the treaty signed by twenty-seven powers. It will fix before May 1 the total German debt. Germany must shoulder the embarrassment she brought upon herself. She must pay the price of her bad faith. The treaty has not been revised. Therefore it remains in vigor. We must go ahead and apply it."

Back Now to the Treaty.

The Temps says Germany should now learn it is futile to try to break up the allied front and asks Germany to reflect on what she has accomplished by the last year of popular campaign against the French. The Temps says the situation now is the following: "Germany has repulsed the project of agreement the Allies offered. We come back then to the Treaty of Versailles. This situation should not be obscured."

The Liberté says:

"Germany herself provoked the rupture and penalties. She repulsed all bargains offered her. She closed the doors to settlement. She did not even try to reach a settlement. If the present measures do not suffice, and they probably will not, the Allies will be forced after May 1 to enforce more extended penalties. But already we have something. The richness of the Rhine provinces is going to be separated from the rest of Germany by a customs barrier. That is the beginning. If Germany does not pay, economic and fiscal exploitation of the right bank of the Rhine will be developed to our advantage. Germany's refusal has one good side. Let us profit from it."

The Eclair, the journal of Premier Briand, predicts the Germans have surprises coming to them.

The Oeuvre says:

"Is it war resumed? We hope not. Anyhow, it is not our fault if the boche forces us to send him our best army corps. It is manifest that France has made all concessions possible. Germany has played with the patience of the Allies. Now she has only one thing to do, pay up."

Sees Gain for the Allies.

Figaro says:

"It is fortunate that the Germans broke up the London conference. In the first place, they thereby show to the whole world they do not wish to expiate their crime. In the second place, instead of a signature of no value we now take something real."

The Gaulois sums up the situation this way:

"After eight days of fooling the London conference has come to the conclusion which the attitude of Germany imposed."

The Figaro says it is much better to take the smaller steps decided on than the bigger steps France might have taken because today's actions were undertaken in conjunction with England and Belgium.

"The result of our union already is apparent," the Figaro says, "for President Harding has invited the American Senate to delay all debate upon separate peace with Germany so long as Germany does not meet our claims. Such aid from the United States is valuable, indeed, at this hour."

The Figaro says that even if the Germans sign now the Allies must continue to hold material guarantees of their good faith.

DUTCH CRITICISE THE ALLIES.

Think Germany Can Use Railroads for Exports Unhindered.

THE HAGUE, March 8 (Associated Press).—The Dutch Government, as much of Holland's commercial prosperity depends on the Rhine district, is watching closely any effect the allied occupation of the region or the proposed customs collections will have on Dutch trade.

While losses may be incurred through a decrease in the Rhine trade, Dutch officials take the view that nothing can prevent Germany sending as much merchandise as she pleases direct into Holland over the railroads, which are expected to handle it to their capacity.

The Dutch evening newspapers generally are unfavorable to the action of the Allies. The Hague Nieuwe Courant says the occupation of Duesseldorf and the other German cities is a violation of the Treaty of Versailles, and as a result Germany now undoubtedly will pay less attention to it than ever, while probably the production of coal will decrease enormously.

The Vaderland says the measures certainly do not improve the power of Germany to pay.

AMSTERDAM, March 8.—The Handelsblad says the result of the reparations conference at London is regrettable so far as Dutch economic conditions are concerned. It asks what Holland will do if the Allies demand a certificate of the origin of goods shipped through Holland as during the war. It expresses the hope that the Government will oppose this new disruption of trade and industry, which already have suffered so much.

The neutrals, the paper adds, are free of war hatred, and see in "this blow" only a continuation of the war. It also asks what America is going to do.

BERLIN PRESS DEFIANT.

Say Entente Will Discover Penalties Are Futile.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, March 8.—Nearly all the newspapers express the opinion that by application of penalties before May the Entente is actually tearing up the Versailles Treaty. Organs of all parties from the Kreuz-Zeitung to Rote Fahne approve with unanimity Dr. Simons's inflexible refusal to accept the Paris program.

The Lokal-Anzeiger says:

"Dr. Simons has done more than we expected possible to find a basis upon which further negotiations could be conducted. Doubtless France never wanted any peaceful arrangement. She desired penalties against a disarmed people in preference to any sum which might be extorted from Germany, knowing well that the fantastical billions could never be obtained anyway. However, the impending penalties are not half so bad as conditions would become had we accepted the Paris decision. Anyway France will soon find out that these penalties will be very unprofitable to her. Their application reopening the war means we are no longer bound by the Versailles Treaty."

The Rote Fahne says:

"Capitulation before the Entente would have been equal to the complete destruction of what remains of German industry."

The ultra-reactionary Deutsche Zeitung expresses great satisfaction that "by the rejection of the proposed provisional arrangement the Entente saved Germany from a great calamity." This paper, like all the reactionary organs, declares the Versailles treaty void.

Vorwärts, for once, agrees with the reactionary organs in declaring with much pathos "last evening saw an event of the gravest historical importance. The Allies tore up the Versailles Treaty, penalties being a violation of it. Thus the Allies themselves instituted a revision of the peace treaty. For the present we are sufferers but if we keep cool heads and do not permit our blood to boil we shall soon be the winners."

Theodor Wolff in the Tageblatt also contends France did not care for any peaceful arrangement. Foch wanted glory. Briand wished to retain his jobs. Premier Briand feared his friends, the Parisian war profiteers might not pocket the billions promised if by any arrangement the Germans became interested in rebuilding the devastated districts, and Lloyd George was anxious to retain Briand in his position, fearing Poincaré might become his successor. These are the reasons why Dr. Simons's proposals were rejected in London, concludes Wolff.

BELGIUM TO BE CAUTIOUS.

No Extension of Invasion Move Without Parliament's Consent.

BRUSSELS, March 8.—Premier de Wiart today told the Chamber of Deputies that a regiment of Grenadiers was going to the Rhineland to reinforce the troops of occupation, and that possibly a regiment of cavalry would join the forces later.

He assured the Deputies, however, that the Belgian troops would not participate in any extension of the present movement without the approval of the Government.

OUR TROOPS TO STAY ON RHINE AT PRESENT

Army's Withdrawal Is Not Now Being Considered, Secretary Weeks Announces.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Following the first meeting of the Harding Cabinet today definite announcement was made at the War Department by Secretary Weeks that in formulating its policy toward the Rhine situation this Government is not now considering a withdrawal of the American troops of occupation.

In reaching this decision in regard to its temporary policy the Administration is understood to have taken into account all the elements of the present situation in western Germany, where allied troops have advanced to enforce the terms of the Versailles treaty while the American forces remain behind on the lines originally occupied by them under the armistice agreement.

Although nothing definite has developed in other official quarters here to indicate the probable permanent policy of the new Administration, it is known that the situation now presented along the German border is receiving the close scrutiny of Mr. Harding and his advisers. It is expected that some more concrete expression of this Government's attitude may be forthcoming in the near future.

Apparently the Administration is less likely at this time to consider withdrawing the American forces than might have been the case if the allied advance had not been made. There is a disposition in some quarters to feel that withdrawal of the American forces at this time might be misconstrued abroad.

When the Army Appropriation bill was under consideration just before inauguration, Republican leaders in Congress proceeded on the expectation that the American troops would be out of Europe before the first of July. The bill with its curtailed budget for the Army of Occupation failed of final enactment and must be taken up again at the special session.

Also wrapped up in the Rhine situation is the question of passing a Congressional resolution to declare a state of peace with Germany, and it is believed the Administration will determine its attitude on such a resolution in the light of full information about present European conditions.

LEAGUE CHIEFS DISCUSS OVERTURE TO AMERICA

LONDON, March 8.—The mission of M. Viviani to Washington will be limited officially to conveying the French Government's salutations to President Harding upon his inauguration. It will be a visit of courtesy simply.

M. Viviani, however, desires an opportunity to go to the United States to explain, should the occasion arise, some aspects of the League of Nations. He has been one of the most active advocates of the League since the meeting of the Assembly at Geneva.

The Council of the League has been considering the propriety of sending some eminent European statesmen to Washington to inform the Government of the willingness of the League to make any changes possible to meet the American views with respect to the United States retaining all its sovereign prerogatives, if it should care to enter the League on that basis.

GERMANY QUIET AS ALLIES ADVANCE

expected of Germany in the Paris decisions. Neither sentiment, European relationships nor liquidation of the war was possible owing to the allied course of action.

"If they persist in this course," he said, "the evil can only be enhanced by it. The Allies are only creating fresh embarrassments for themselves."

The Chancellor said that force must be replaced by honest intent for world brotherhood and good-will. He declared Germany had never declined to take upon herself the consequences inseparable from defeat.

"We must show now the height of our fortitude, the extent of our patience and endurance," he added. "I have every confidence in the German people to do that."

His thoughts turned to the threatened parts of the fatherland, from which echoes of determination and endurance were reverberating, and he thanked "our brothers in the threatened territories for this proof of their patriotic sentiment."

He was ready to leave the war responsibility to the verdict of history, remarking: "I am of the opinion that history will have a verdict to pronounce not only on the guilt for the war, but also on the dictates of Versailles."

A motion supported by the Communists and Independents for a debate was rejected. The open discussion of the situation cannot begin, it was announced, until the return to Berlin of Dr. Simons, the Foreign Minister.

There will be no general strike in protest against the allied advance into Germany, it has been decided by the labor unions, the Communists have been urging such a strike, but the proposition to participate in one has been declined by the labor organizations.

It is semi-officially announced that the German Ambassadors at London, Paris and Brussels have been summoned to Berlin.

The experts who co-operated in the preparation of the German counterproposals met this morning. According to the Berlin Zeitung they will try to find a basis for fresh negotiations, if the Allies indicate a desire for a resumption.

FORMAL CHARGES LAID AGAINST HIMMEL

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 8.—André Himmel, "the Cinema King," was formally charged with swindling before a Paris magistrate this afternoon, his accuser being M. Rivary, a manufacturer, who loaned him 1,200,000 francs for his enterprises. Only formal evidence of identity was given, and the case is likely to develop a long period of interrogation.

Others besides Himmel are suspected of guilt, and today the Paris police made searches at the homes and offices of several business associates of the young man.

The magistrate's present object is to discover how and when Himmel withdrew the funds paid to his account by the Equitable Trust Company and what he did with most of it. Some money is accounted for as having been paid for several options taken up by Himmel, but he will have to explain before the magistrate what has become of some 700,000 francs which have not yet been accounted for.

More than 20,000 francs, it is alleged by the prosecution, was spent by Himmel on one of the banquets which he gave in Paris between his trips to America to those whom he wished to have associated with him in his undertaking.

PARIS, March 8 (Associated Press).—André Himmel, general manager of the Franco-American Cinematograph Corporation, at his preliminary examination here today contended that he had acted in good faith in connection with the corporation, and that he would have fulfilled his promises if his American associates had not defaulted on their agreements at the last moment.

PREMIERS TO HEAR AUSTRIA'S CASE NEXT

Hope to Assist That State by Bettering Trade and Through Private Credits.

LONDON, March 8.—The Allied Supreme Council during its sitting here yesterday notified the Austrian Government that it now was ready to discuss the Austrian question and would receive Austrian representatives for that purpose. The Austrian Government was requested to send delegates as soon as possible.

It is expected Chancellor Mayr will represent Austria and will arrive in London in time for the conference to begin on Saturday.

In treating the Austrian question, it was learned today, the Supreme Council considers a State credit for Austria highly improbable, but it is hoped to assist Austrian finances by influencing the States bordering on Austria to help her through the relaxation of customs duties, as well as by arranging credits through private financial sources. The question of transport in Austria will also be one of the problems discussed by the conference.

The Council held no session today, but will meet tomorrow to hear War Minister Gounaris of Greece in connection with the Turkish question. M. Gounaris will appear before the Council not on invitation of the Allies but at the initiative of the Greek Government.

VIENNA, March 8.—Hope is high once again in Austria. An invitation has been received here from the English Government as a result of which the Austrian Chancellor, Dr. Mayr, accompanied by the Finance Minister, Dr. Grimm, and the Food Minister, Dr. Gruenberg, will travel to London to discuss the Austrian problem with the English Cabinet and experts.

I understand the English proposals for reconstruction of Austria will form the basis of the discussion. The invitation has given the greatest pleasure here, as hopes of Entente aid had sunk very low, and Dr. Mayr in his recent speeches in Parliament had spoken in a decidedly minor key.

REBELS PREPARE TO ENTER PETROGRAD

Gorka if the rebels in Kronstadt did not surrender.

STOCKHOLM, March 8.—Refugees arriving at the frontier of Finland report that railway connections north and south of Petrograd have been cut as a result of the firing on the line from Kronstadt. The fog disappeared from the Finnish shore at 8 o'clock this morning, and great clouds of smoke were seen hovering over Petrograd. Some time afterward an airplane was seen to ascend and steer toward Systerbak [a few miles northwest of Petrograd], the aviator throwing out proclamations and bombs. Explosions of the bombs were seen from the Finnish shore.

Late this afternoon the bombardment between the fortresses, which had slackened during the day, had not yet been resumed.

Rushing Aid to Moscow Soviets.

WARSAW, March 8 (Associated Press).—Strong detachments of Russian Bolshevist cavalry, commanded by General Budenny, are being rushed from South Russia to Moscow to crush the insurgents, who are said to be gaining power daily in the Russian capital. Reports reaching Warsaw declare that many units of the Bolshevist infantry divisions are disloyal, but say the Chinese mercenaries in the service of the Communists are standing firmly by their Soviet leaders.

Many rumors of the overthrow of the Russian Soviet Government have reached Warsaw, but none has come through official channels. One report stated that a wireless dispatch from Petrograd had suggested to the Warsaw Government a discontinuance of the negotiations between the Soviet régime and Poland at Riga, owing to the downfall of Lenin and Trotzky. Announcement was made here yesterday, however, that no steps had been taken by Government officials to interrupt the negotiations, Polish authorities considering reports of the Russian insurrection as greatly exaggerated.

Boris Savinkow, leader of the Russian Social Revolutionaries, who has headquarters in this city, has expressed belief that the present disturbances in Russia may be the beginning of the end of Soviet rule. He feels, however, that from underground advices from Russia the present movement may be premature and easily suppressed. He is positive an outbreak on an enormous scale will follow. It is his opinion that the peasant revolt eventually will win over the majority of the Soviet army, with the possible exception of General Budenny, and will lead to the replacement of Lenin and Trotzky by a peasant Government. He believes that the new régime will perhaps establish a republic, but that is is more probable that some peasant leader may be proclaimed Czar of Russia.

SAYS REBELS ARE HOPELESS.

"Soviet Russia" Gets Reassuring Messages Two and Three Days Old.

MOSCOW, March 6.—The final stages of the Kronstadt adventure are marked by utter disillusionment among the participants in the mutiny. Fighting in progress among the mutineers themselves. A part want to surrender, realizing the hopelessness of their situation. This dissension began shortly after the arrival of Trotzky to take charge of the situation.

The Revolutionary Military Council of the Republic has issued the following proclamation, signed by Trotzky, Kamenev, Tuchacnevsky and Lebedev:

"The Government of the Peasants and Workers has ordered the immediate return of the mutinous ship into the hands of the Soviet Republic. It is ordered that all who have raised their hands against the Socialist fatherland should immediately lay down their arms, disarm the objectors and deliver them to the authorities without delay, release the arrested commissars and other representatives of the Government. Only those who capitulate unconditionally may expect the clemency of the Republic. Simultaneously it is ordered to have everything ready to crush the mutiny and the mutineers with armed force. The responsibility for the suffering which thereby may come to the peaceful population will fall wholly on the White Guard mutineers. This is the last warning."

Disillusionment was accelerated by the stores running low after the first days of pillaging. Frantic efforts by capitalist agents and other counter-revolutionists, together with Finnish White Guards who slipped into Kronstadt to maintain the morale of the mutineers and create a counter-revolutionary front, went to naught. The sailors became disgusted when the aims of the agents behind the scene were divulged and refused to submit to common leadership. Some groups of sailors want to organize a new Soviet; the crew of the Petropavlovsk wants to organize an anarchist commune; others are indifferent, as there are no more stores left to pillage. Agent provocateurs tried to induce the mutineers to start bombarding, but did not succeed.

The whole affair is expected to dissolve at any moment.

RUSSIAN TELEGRAPH AGENCY.

Another Muscow dispatch bearing date of March 5 read:

"The fortress of Krasnaya Gorka, which dominates Kronstadt from the land, is maintained in our hands. The garrison of Krasnaya Gorka is absolutely hostile to the mutineers and is eager to fight them. In Kronstadt, in the forts of Petrograd and Ustye the same situation prevails. Until now the mutineers have not been dispersed, only because the military authorities wish to spare the battleship Petropavlovsk, but if it should prove necessary Krasnaya Gorka will force the mutineers to surrender. Dissensions are breaking out among the mutineers, one faction supporting General Koslovsky, the other being against their officers and actually attacking them.

"In Petrograd there is complete quiet. Even in the two factories where food and fuel difficulties caused demonstrations by some the men now understand that they were made tools by a capitalist conspiracy. Eight thousand Petrograd sailors have held a meeting and unanimously passed resolutions supporting the Government.

"Washington B. Vanderlip arrived in Moscow two days ago and is now negotiating the consummation of his deals and projects. L. Martens and party arrived Feb. 18."

MANY RUSSIAN REVOLTS HIDDEN BY CENSORSHIP

Former British Secret Agent Here Sees Demand for Freedom Behind Present Uprising.

The present anti-Bolshevist uprising in Russia is not a new movement, but one of a series of uprisings which occurred during the last three years and remained hidden beneath the veil of Soviet censorship, Sir Paul Dukes, former British Secret Service agent in Russia, declared here yesterday. Sir Paul, who spent more than two years in Russia disguised as a Russian workman, is now in the United States and will begin a lecture tour here soon.

Sir Paul said it was his belief that the workmen, sailors and peasants only awaited the disappearance of counter-revolutionary troops, such as those of General Wrangel, from the Russian borders to start the uprising which is now taking place.

He told of a resolution passed by 10,000 workmen at the Putiloff iron foundry, with only fifteen dissenters, which called for free press, speech, meeting, inviolability of person, freedom of movement and abolition of the death penalty and torture. These workmen declared, he explained, that the Bolshevist dictatorship was not a Government of the Russian proletariat but that it ruled autocratically through the medium of the extraordinary commission, the Czar's secret police and gendarme detachments.

"On each occasion," said Sir Paul, "the workers put forward demands of an economic and political nature. They clamored for the restoration of the co-operative societies, attributed the constant food crisis to the Bolshevist food system which prevented free trading between towns and villages, and demanded free elections, free Soviets and the liberation of their comrades."

During the revolt of March, 1919, the workers were refused admission to Lenin to present their demands and reported, he added, that, "it was easier to gain access to Nicholas II. than to the President of the Soviet Republic."

MORE BLOODSHED IN THE VILNA REGION

Popular Uprisings Are Reported Despite Poland's Taking Over of Zeligowski's Authority.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The following official Lithuanian cablegram was received from Kovno today:

"Serious uprisings are reported from the Vilna region, and a number of people have been killed or wounded. The population is demanding food instead of propagandist literature. The liquidation of General Zeligowski's so-called Central Lithuanian Government has taken place, and a new Government, directly controlled by Poland, has assumed power.

One of the last acts of Zeligowski was to impose a fine of 50,000 marks on the proprietor of the Kurier Wilansky, a well-known Polish newspaper, for publishing pro-Lithuanian matter. As an offset to this, a new Russian newspaper, entitled Lithuanian, and pro-Lithuanian in policy, has begun publication at Vilna.

"At the recent meeting of the allied Premiers the French Commissioner in authority in the Memel district was requested to conclude an agreement with the Lithuanian Government to abolish customs duties between the Memel district and Lithuania and to shift the place of payment to the River Niemen and the sea."

A Lithuanian authority, commenting on the last paragraph of the despatch, said:

"This action implies the approach of a union between the Memel district and Lithuania, doing away with the old East Prussian frontier and substituting the new frontier, the River Niemen."

RUSSIANS IN PARIS SEE HOPE IN REVOLT

Milukoff Believes Soviet Rule Is Almost Dead—Wants Us to Feed the Rebels.

OTHERS LESS OPTIMISTIC

But Even They Think Outbreak Important as Showing the Decline of the Power of the Soviets.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 8.—Paul Milukoff, at one time Foreign Minister of Russia and leader of the anti-Bolshevist Russians in Paris, hopes that America will help feed the anti-Soviet forces now in revolt against the Moscow régime. He has great hope in the movement, which he says has its base in the desires of the vast majority of the Russian people.

"Things are coming about as we predicted at the recent meeting of the members of the Constituent Assembly in Paris," he said. "Intervention from outside having ceased, the Bolsheviki have no alibis any more for the famine, misery and shame they have brought upon Russia. They may again accuse the Entente, but the masses will not listen. The Soviets know that the peasants and workers are arising in the knowledge of their power and the necessity of ending the rule of Lenin and Trotzky.

"Personally, I believe the rule of the Soviets is almost dead. The present revolt is in able hands. General Kozlovski is an experienced artillery officer, who played only a small rôle in the war, but whose abilities are well known. He served the Bolsheviki against his beart. He does not aspire to a dictatorship, as did Kolchack and Denikin, but has simply placed his military ability at the service of the insurrectionists. This revolt will spread over all Russia. The blood which the Soviets spill to halt it will be in vain.

"I believe it right to warn certain powers that they were too hasty in trying to conclude accords with the Bolsheviki.

"Above all, it is necessary to feed the insurgents. That ought to be easy for America, which sent important stocks to feed Petrograd at the time of the march of General Yudenitch. If the insurgents can get food, their position will be such that all Russia, I am confident, will join them."

M. V. Roudnef, former Mayor of Moscow, was not so optimistic. When asked if he believed that the present movement meant the definite end of Soviet rule he replied:

"I believe it impossible. The Bolsheviki still have in their hands very strong military means, and the insurgents cannot break them quickly. But that does not mean that the movement is not important. It is the first real blow struck at the Soviet power. Nothing will stop these movements. The masses now see the impasse to which the Bolsheviki have brought them. The Soviets are condemned today."

M. Vinavar, leader of the Cadet Party, was hopeful.

"The events at Kronstadt," he said, "only confirm what we have long contended, namely, that the vast majority of Russians are hostile to Soviet rule. From personal information we know that more and more Red Guards seek to shake off the Bolshevist rule. Furthermore, it is a mistake to consider this as simply a movement against famine. It is political at heart. It is impossible to say yet what chances of success this particular movement has. The Bolsheviki may be able to break it for the time being, but they will not kill it."

Syndicalists Set Off Six Bombs and Kill Railway Official.

MADRID, March 8.—Syndicalist disturbances broke out in the City of Oporto, Portugal, last night, and, although they were immediately suppressed, much material damage was done, it is stated in reports received here. Six bombs were exploded in various parts of the city and one person was injured.

Men engaged in the demonstration fired at an automobile in which railway officials were riding, killing one official and wounding the chauffeur.

Ministry and he was persuaded to remain, agreeing to accept 154 votes in the Chamber of Deputies as a vote of confidence. The particular crisis at that time had its inception in the strike of officials which started in the Ministry of Finance and spread to other departments, crippling the Government.

In the February elections this year, Dato lost control of the Chamber of Deputies in the Cortes and thereafter his Ministry seemed to be tottering.

Dato was born in La Coruna, Aug. 12, 1858, and studied law. He passed his final examinations at the age of 19. When he entered politics he pushed rapidly to the front, becoming Secretary of State for the Interior in 1891 and Minister of the same department in 1899. During his occupation of the Ministry of the Interior he secured the passage of laws regulating workmen's insurance and the hours of labor for women.

In 1903 Dato became Minister of Justice, and in 1907 he was nominated Speaker of the House of Representatives and also became Mayor of Madrid.

He was first chosen Premier in 1913 and followed this with a second term in 1917. In 1918 he held the portfolio of Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs. Dato was married in his early youth and was the father of three children. While he was a Deputy he acted as lawyer for several English and French railroad and mining companies operating in Spain. For his work in this connection he amassed a considerable fortune.

LEADERS TO FRAME A REVENUE POLICY

Congress Chiefs, Mellon and Treasury Experts Will Confer This Week.

WANT FARM TARIFF FIRST

Western Senators Tell Penrose Agriculturists Must Have Help Quickly.

TO OFFER PLAN TO HARDING

New Sources of Income to Pay Soldiers' Bonuses Will Be Considered.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—A program for tariff and internal revenue legislation in Congress will be framed at a "co-operation conference" this week. It was announced today by Senator Penrose that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Treasury experts, Chairman Good of the House Appropriations Committee, and the Republican members of the House Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Finance Committee would confer on a day to be fixed later and decide upon a plan.

The indications, Senator Penrose said, were that an emergency tariff bill for the protection of agricultural interests would be first in the outline of policy to be submitted to President Harding.

As the White House dinner last night did not bring President Harding and his guests to a conclusion as to the precedence which should be followed in revising the revenue-producing laws, the conference of leaders was called in conformity with Mr. Harding's intention of having party co-operation before legislation appears in Congress.

There is a wide and vital difference among Republican leaders as to whether the war revenue laws should be revised first and tariff legislation allowed to wait until normal industrial conditions are reached here and abroad. This difference was accentuated in the views expressed at the White House dinner. Representative Joseph W. Fordney, Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, insisted that there should be a temporary tariff bill passed as a stopgap and the revenue laws then revised, to be followed by a permanent tariff enactment as soon as possible. Representative Longworth, also a member of that committee, disagreed strongly with the Chairman, insisting that the most important call on the Republican Party was to relieve the producers and taxpayers of the burdens of war taxation.

Mr. Longworth said that there was no great necessity to protect American industry at this time and that the excess profit, transportation and soft drink taxes should be repealed. He suggested that a flat 15 per cent. tax should be placed on corporations rather than a sales tax adopted as a substitute for the excess profits taxes. In this he was upheld by several others at the dinner, who said that a sales tax would work to the injury of the Republican Party.

Penrose Favors Tariff Delay.

Senator Penrose listened rather than advised. His views are known, however, and they do not agree with those generally expressed by other leaders. He wants tariff revision delayed until normal trade and industrial conditions are resumed, as, he says, there is no great revenue that can now be obtained from a high tariff. No American industry, he says, can suffer from the invasion of foreign goods, due to the present differences in exchange.

If he has his way, the revenue laws will be revised first and general tariff revision will come very late this year. Mr. Penrose, however, may consent to the re-enactment as a stop-gap of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law of 1909 with modifications, although he believes that this would require about as much time as to pass a scientifically devised measure and would be of little avail.

The forthcoming conference, which will last two or three days, is intended to reach a definite understanding. After this is obtained the Ways and Means Committee will get down to work so as to be able to report a bill for consideration in the first few weeks of the special session.

President Harding informally indicated at the dinner his desire to see an emergency tariff bill passed and the revenue laws revised next, to be followed by a scientific permanent tariff before Oct. 1.

The most insistent call for a protective tariff comes from the farmers, whose importunities led to the passage of the farmers' tariff, vetoed by President Wilson. Many Republicans are still influenced by these demands, and the Western Senators have informed Mr. Penrose that the farmers must have some protection as quickly as possible after the special session meets.

Willing to Heed Farmers.

"The agricultural interests of the country want the tariff situation disposed of first," said Senator Penrose in announcing the conference. "There is every disposition to realize the necessities and requirements of the farmers."

"Will there be a temporary tariff first?" he was asked.

"I cannot say as to that," he replied. "The conference is expected to obtain the views of those best qualified and after this we will decide our fiscal policy."

Senator Penrose believes that hearings should be held by the Ways and Means Committee and the Finance Committee at the same time so that the Finance Committee would be prepared to pass upon any measure that comes from the House without the necessity of holding hearings then and delaying action in the Senate. It is probable that this course will be followed and that hearings will be held during the recess upon the measure that the conference decides must be taken up first.

Mr. Penrose said that he had not studied the taxation situation in such a way as to permit him to determine what was the best substitute for the excess profit taxes.

"I have not been persuaded that the sales tax is practical," he said. "My mind is entirely open, and I want all the illumination I can get. There are several propositions bearing on the sales tax before me. The advocates of these propositions suggest them as a panacea; their opponents, including those who are regarded as financial experts, condemn them as wholly impractical.

"The drift of public opinion, as I gather it, is toward an emergency tariff bill to be passed first. If Congress goes at this carefully I believe it can pass such a temporary bill in a very short time."

Mr. Penrose said that in making up the revenue bill the committee would have to consider new sources of income to take care of the proposed bonus for soldiers. Secretary Mellon and his experts will be asked to offer suggestions for raising money to pay the bonus, which would require about $1,500,000,000.

Members of the Senate Finance Committee believe that it may not be necessary to resort to the direct tax of 15 per cent. on corporations. They are inclined to believe that a way may be found to tax undistributed profits and overcome the Supreme Court decision. If this can be done it has been figured that such a tax would yield about $750,000,000, and the rest of the loss from excess profits would be obtained by a tariff bill.

Senator Penrose said that great difficulties would be experienced in passing the Payne-Aldrich bill as such. He believes, however, that this law could be used as a skeleton and that some of the schedules might be used without much change. Mr. Penrose said that he appreciated the trouble that would be encountered in passing any temporary tariff measure.

COURT ALLOWS CABINET TIME ON CABLE SUIT

Justice Stafford of Washington Refuses Injunction Sought by Western Union There.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—In order to allow Secretary of State Hughes, Secretary of War Weeks and Secretary of the Navy Denby to study and formulate their own views of the cable dispute between the Western Union Telegraph Company and the Government over the laying of cables between Miami Beach and Miami, Fla., and the connection of the cable from Miami Beach out to the three-mile limit, Justice Wendell P. Stafford in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia declined today the request of the telegraph company for an injunction restraining those officials.

United States Attorney John E. Laskey informed Justice Stafford that while former Secretaries Colby, Baker and Daniels were familiar with the injunction proceedings and had been represented at coffee after the telegraph company had applied for an injunction, it would be unfair to the new Cabinet members to be enjoined before they could be heard. It is not known now, Mr. Laskey said, whether the new officials would permit the laying and the operation of the cables or fall in line with their predecessors and insist that the cables remain unconnected.

The controversy in the District Supreme Court is only indirectly connected with the injunction proceedings instituted by the Government in the New York courts. The appeal of the Government from a decision by Judge Augustus Hand refusing to restrain the telegraph company is being rgued today in the Circuit Court of Appeals in New York. These proceedings involve the connection of the Barbadoes cable, the end of which is now fastened to a buoy at the three-mile limit off Miami Beach.

The proceedings in the District Supreme Court involve the connection of the cable under a Government causeway between Miami and Miami Beach.

Before the Western Union can connect and operate the cables it will be necessary for it to win in both the Circuit Court of Appeals in New York and also in the local courts. At one end the Government wants an injunction and at the other end the telegraph company wants one.

TO FORM PATRIOTIC COUNCIL

Veteran and Civic Societies Will Meet on March 15 in Washington.

The National American Council, a central body for the co-ordination of the work of patriotic and civic societies throughout the country, will be organized at a gathering of Americanization workers in the New Willard Hotel, Washington, D. C., on March 15, it was announced yesterday. This agency is the culmination of the efforts of the National Committee for the Co-ordination of Patriotic and Civic Work created at a meeting held in this city on Dec. 1, 1920. The committee, which will have twenty-five members and will be the governing board of the National American Council for the first year, is now composed of representatives of nearly every patriotic and civic society in the United States.

Dr. David Jayne Hill, President of the National Association for Constitutional Government, will be permanent Chairman of the congress. Colonel F. W. Galbraith Jr., National Commander of the American Legion, will be among the speakers, and invitations have been extended to Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, and to the Secretary of the Interior.

The National Committee will present a complete organization outline of the National American Council. The principal points of the program are elimination of duplication of effort and waste of time and money, establishment of standards for so-called Americanization work, and establishing closer personal contact and better fraternal relations with the foreign born.

HARDING PHYSICIAN TO GET GENERALSHIP

Dr. Sawyer of Marion Will Be Made a Brigadier and Assigned to White House.

FIGHT IN SENATE EXPECTED

Democrats, Remembering Weeks's Opposition to Grayson, Will Attack His Action on Sawyer.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Dr. Charles E. Sawyer of Marion, Ohio, the Harding family physician, will be appointed a Brigadier General in the Army Reserve Corps and assigned to active duty at the White House as personal physician to President Harding, it was announced today by Secretary of War Weeks.

It will be necessary to send the nomination of Dr. Sawyer as a Brigadier General of the Reserve to the Senate for confirmation, but his assignment to active duty is an act within the province of the President alone. Through this assignment to active duty Dr. Sawyer will be able to draw the pay and allowances of a Brigadier General of the army. The pay amounts to $6,000 a year and the allowances, which are for quarters, light and fuel, will increase his emoluments to $7,512.

Observers here expect a spirited time in the Senate when the nomination is transmitted by President Harding. The memory of Republican opposition to the promotion of Rear Admiral Grayson, President Wilson's physician, is too fresh in the minds of Democratic Senators to permit them to overlook the opportunity of having fun with the Republican President and perhaps make some political capital. In Rear Admiral Grayson's case President Wilson had the advantage of the fact that Dr. Grayson was already an officer of the Medical Corps of the navy, with a service of thirteen years. The opposition to the confirmation of his nomination as a Rear Admiral was based on the ground that he was too young to receive such marked advancement, that his promotion was a case of personal preference on the part of President Wilson and that by promoting him officers who were his senior in rank and age were debarred from advancement to Rear Admiral, the highest rank in the Medical Corps.

Has Sanitarium at Marion.

Dr. Sawyer is 62 years old. He is the proprietor of a private sanitarium at Marion for the treatment of mental, nervous and alcoholic cases. He has been a lifelong friend of President Harding and is his family physician.

Dr. Sawyer has not had previous military service. His son, Dr. Carl Sawyer, served in the Army Medical Corps in the World War. As a Brigadier General in the reserve Dr. Sawyer will not be entitled to pay and allowances, but these emoluments will come to him when he is assigned to duty at the White House by the President's order. He is to serve as the physician of President Harding and it is expected that he also will be designated as the military aid to the President, dual functions which were performed by Rear Admiral Grayson. Under the present wartime regulations he must wear the uniform of a Brigadier General while in active service.

When the nomination of Dr. Grayson to be a Rear Admiral of the Medical Corps was sent to the Senate there was an outbreak of criticism among the Republicans. It was referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, which reported it favorably. Senator Weeks, now Secretary of War, led the fight against confirmation. He and his colleague, Senator Lodge, threatened to prolong the debate if the Democratic Senators pressed for a vote. Later he blocked an effort to obtain a vote on the nomination, and through his attitude and that of Senators who followed his leadership ther naval promotions were not acted upon.

The opposition of the Republican Senators was so successful that no action was taken prior to the adjournment of Congress on March 4, 1917. President Wilson, who had called the Senate in special session, renominated Dr. Grayson on March 7, and he was confirmed on March 17.

Wilson Left Way Open.

Through his failure to approve the Army Appropriation bill on March 4 President Wilson left open means for President Harding to assign Dr. Sawyer to active duty with pay and allowances. That bill contained a provision limiting the number of reserve officers to be appointed by the President, and also provided that members of the Reserve Corps should be assigned to active duty only at special service schools. President Harding's authority to appoint Dr. Sawyer as a reserve officer and assign him to active duty at the White House is found in Section 37 of the Army Reorganization act of June 4, 1920, which authorizes the appointment of an unlimited number of officers in the army reserve, subject to confirmation by the Senate, and grants authority for calling these reserve officers into active service for special duty.

The age limit of active service in the army is 64 years, or two years more than Dr. Sawyer's present age, but the President or the Secretary of War may continue an officer on active duty beyond the retiring age.

As a Brigadier General Dr. Sawyer will be entitled to allowance for eight rooms as quarters at $12 per room. This will make $1,152 annually. He will have a monthly allowance of $30 for light and fuel, or $360 a year. These two items, with his base pay of $6,000 per annum, will make his emoluments $7,512. He will be entitled to mileage when he travels with the President or on other Government service.

HARDING TO APPOINT FOR PARTY STRENGTH

Senators to Be Held Responsible if the Men They Endorse Should Fail.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—President Harding will hold Republican Senators to account for appointments made by him on their recommendation. The President is a strong believer in party responsibility and he has indicated that he wants the party built up into a stronger organization. With that end in view he is seeking to make political appointments that will give satisfaction in the ability of the persons appointed and in the strength they will add to the party.

It is the understanding that the President wishes recommendations for appointment to office to come to him "from the ground up." As this is explained through the light of example, it means that an applicant for office must have the endorsement of the party leaders in te locality where he resides and the approval of their choice by others occupying higher positions in the party organization in their States. He would have the Chairman of the State Committee and the National Committeeman pass upon the candidate's qualifications, after he has received the approval of those lower down in the party organization and would look to the Republican Senator or Senators from the State to give final judgment as to the wisdom of the appointment.

The Senators will be made to understand that if they recommend men who prove to be unworthy or lack the ability to perform the duties of the offices to which they are appointed, the President will place upon them the responsibility for whatever trouble arises through this means.

BROOKLYN AUTO SHOW.

Record Crowds See 43 Makes of Cars and 14 Trucks.

Brooklyn's motor car exhibition, which is in progress this week at the Twenty-third Regiment Armory, Bedford and Atlantic Avenues, is attracting a larger number of visitors who are really interested in the utility of the motor vehicle than has been the case at any previous show. Perhaps this may be due to the fact that commercial vehicles are being exhibited in the same building with the passenger cars, and delegations from some of the large business interests in Brooklyn spent considerable time yesterday studying the improvements in the light delivery wagons and big tonnage trucks.

Fully 300 vehicles of all conceivable models are in the armory. They include forty-three makes of passenger cars and fourteen of motor trucks, and fifty-four exhibitors are showing accessories. Among the cars are the Dodge, Buick, Cleveland, Chandler, Pierce-Arrow, Packard, Hudson, Essex, Paige, Jordan, Studebaker, Dort, Chalmers, Maxwell, Franklin, Oakland, Overland, Willys-Knight, Peerless, Ford, Haynes, Chevrolet, Oldsmobile, Marmon, Hupmobile, Reo, Velie, Cadillac, National and Cole.

As is natural, chief interest seems to be in the medium priced cars, and the fact that several sales have been made indicates to the dealers the opening of a favorable motor car season early in the Spring. The show will be open every day and evening this week.

HARDING BESIEGED BY OFFICE HUNTERS

Members of Congress and Others Start Big Drive on the President for Patronage.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—President Harding encountered today his first big patronage drive since he entered the White House. During the morning his offices were besieged by members of Congress and others, most of whom are understood to have made recommendations regarding appointments.

So far the President has made few decisions about any except the highest appointments of his Administration. Within the next few days, however, he is expected to select a considerable number of men for vacancies on various Government agencies.

One of the subjects to which he is giving most thought is the membership of the Shipping Board, but Secretary Christian said today that any talk of definite selections for the board was pure speculation. The President is expected to withhold from Congress all nominations to the Shipping Board until he has made a definite selection for the board Chairmanship. It was indicated today that several men still were under consideration for that post.

The stipulation requiring board members to sever their connections with private transportation concerns is understood to have formed a difficult barrier to the selections. The President still hopes, however, to induce some prominent shipping man to go into the board.

Callers at Mr. Harding's office included Senators Lodge of Massachusetts, Wadsworth of New York, Sterling of South Dakota, New of Indiana, Elkins of West Virginia, McCumber of North Dakota and Calder of New York, all Republicans; Senator Shields of Tennessee, Democrat; Fred Upham of Chicago, Treasurer of the Republican National Committee, and Charles D. Hilles of New York, former National Chairman.

Senator Lodge's call was generally understood to concern affairs in which the Foreign Relations Committee, of which he is Chairman, is interested.

After leaving the White House Senator Lodge visited the State, War and Navy Building, where he conferred with Secretary Denby of the Navy Department, and Henry P. Fletcher, Under-Secretary of State, but he refused to disclose the subject matter of his talks.

President Harding played today his first game of golf since his inauguration. Accompanied by Mrs. Harding, he motored to the Chevy Chase Country Club, where he usually played when a Senator. Laddie Boy, the President's Airedale pet, was taken along.

ALIENS EVADE INCOME TAX.

Foreigners Starting Back to Europe Are Detained in Detroit.

DETROIT, March 8.—Investigation of an unusual accumulation of baggage here from places in Ohio and Pennsylvania has disclosed a conspiracy to aid aliens returning to Europe to evade the payment of income taxes, John A. Grogan, Internal Revenue Collector, said today. The scheme, Mr. Grogan said, was to get them across the border into Canada before his agents could question them.

Nearly 300 Russians were prevented from leaving Detroit for Canada today until they had visited the Internal Revenue office.

Questioning disclosed, according to Mr. Grogan, that they had been approached by men representing themselves as railroad agents, who promised upon payment of $10 each to get them across the border into Canada without the knowledge of the Revenue Collector's office.

Diplomatic Corps Calls on Hughes.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Members of the Diplomatic Corps, headed by Ambassador Jusserand of France, dean of the corps, called today on Secretary Hughes to pay their respects. The formal call is customary when a new Secretary takes office.

would be held once a week, probably on Tuesday mornings. In view of accumulation of business that usually confronts an incoming Administration, it was said that temporarily the Cabinet would meet twice a week. The next meeting will be on Friday morning.

EXPECT HARDING'S AID ON COLOMBIAN TREATY

Senators Hear That He Will Send an Early Message Favoring Ratification.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—A special message to the Senate requesting immediate ratification of the Colombian treaty is being prepared by President Harding, according to reports among Senators today in the wake of last night's White House conference.

It was understood that President Harding had accepted the view of Senator Lodge, the Republican floor leader, and Secretary Fall of the Interior Department, that action on the treaty at the special session of the Senate was desirable. Disposal of the treaty was discussed by President Harding with Senators last night, but only in a cursory manner, it was said.

The treaty was not taken up today by the Senate, which remained in session only long enough to hear the journal read and have Senator Cummins of Iowa sworn in as President pro tempore.

Ratification of the treaty is understood to have been passed on briefly at today's Cabinet meeting. No decision was announced, but the view that affirmative action would be recommended gained weight among those close to the President.

WEEKS ANNOUNCES SINGLE ARMY PLAN

Regulars, National Guard and Reserves to Be Organized as One Effective Force.

APPEALS TO EX-SOLDIERS

Revised List of Promotions of Officers Above Majors to Be Sent to the President Soon.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The policy of the War Department under the new Administration contemplates organization of the nation's military forces into "one harmonious, well-balanced and effective army, consisting of the regular army, the National Guard and the organized reserves," Secretary Weeks announced today.

The regular army and the National Guard will be developed to the strength authorized by law, the announcement said, and the reserves will be organized as divisions and auxiliary troops, with full officer complement and sufficient enlisted strength to be capable of rapid recruitment to full strength.

Soldiers discharged from the regular forces were urged by the announcement to join either the National Guard or the reserves. Each component part of the army has a distinct and separate mission, the announcement continued, adding that a "spirit of mutual support and sustained co-operation between all the components of the army of the United States is essential to the development of the whole."

"Every trained soldier discharged from the regular army," said the announcement, "has a potential value to the nation, and if this training is maintained and prolonged in the National Guard or organized reserves, it will continue as an active asset."

A revised list of nominations for promotion of army officers above the rank of Major will be submitted by Secretary Weeks to the President soon, possibly early next week, for transmission to the Senate. It is expected that the list, as finally approved by the Secretary, will differ quite materially from that forwarded by former Secretary Baker during the last session of Congress.

Secretary Weeks is devoting much of his time to a study of the service records of the officers nominated by his predecessor, who failed of confirmation by the Senate, and of the records, particularly as regards the World War, of a number of officers who were not on that list.

COSTA RICA KEEPS PROMISE.

Panama Also Withdraws Troops—Hughes Awaits Its Reply.

BALBOA, Panama, March 8 (Associated Press).—Pursuant to the suggestion of the United States Government, the Costa Rican forces which recently have been operating against the Panamans have retired to the left side of the Sixola River, on the Atlantic side of the isthumus, in Bocas del Toro Province, while the Panama Government has promised to withdraw its armed forces from the region of Coto, on the Pacific side, leaving the civil authorities in charge.

Thus the situation will return to the status before the invasion by Costa Rica of the disputed territory along the frontier and leave the dispute open to arbitration.

The Panama Foreign Office last night suggested that a plebiscite be held in the disputed frontier regions.

Foreign advices indicate that Costa Rica was fully capable of occupying the disputed territory without much opposition. More than 800 Costa Ricans retired across the Sixola River. Opposing these, chiefly well-armed volunteers, Panama had less than 300 volunteers near Bocas del Toro. On the way from Port Limon to Almirante were 700 more Costa Ricans to oppose the Panamans in Bocas del Toro Province, while 1,200 Costa Ricans started Monday night for Port Limon. On the Pacific side of the isthmus Costa Rica had 1,000 cavalry within striking distance of Coto and 800 infantry bound thither. The Panaman volunteers at Coto numbered less than 500.

The embarkation of the Costa Ricans at Almirante was carried out under the eyes of various United States officials, while the American cruiser Sacramento and a submarine chaser and hydroplanes waited at Bocas del Toro.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Costa Rica having announced its intention of complying with the recommendations of the United States looking toward settlement of the Panama-Costa Rican conflict, State Department officials today awaited a reply from Panama to the identic notes dispatched to that republic and Costa Rica.

Denby to Go to Sea With Fleet.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Secretary Denby intends to be a seagoing head of the naval establishment. He announced today that he planned to go to Guantanamo, Cuba, the Winter base of the Atlantic fleet, and return with the fleet early in April if his duties permitted. Mr. Denby said that he intended to go to sea whenever possible, and to become thoroughly familiar with the administration of the fleets.

THE BORDEN BUILDING

Madison Avenue at 45th Street

It is entirely logical that institutions of character should choose the new Borden Building for their home. Equipment, environment, service, location—all are such as to attract the highest type of tenant.

The tower floors containing 4000 to 5000 square feet, offer unusual advantages of light and exclusiveness. A limited number of desirable smaller offices and conveniently located stores also available.

RENT LAWS REPEAL IS DEMANDED HERE

Investors Say Alternative Is the Building of Houses by the City or State.

SEE RECALL BY TENANTS

Albany Decision Will Deflect Millions From Housing Projects, Realty Associations Declare.

The news of the upholding of the rent laws by the Court of Appeals in Albany was received with consternation by real estate interests here yesterday. Two of the largest real estate associations in the city, representing hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of capital invested in real estate, immediately issued statements demanding the repeal of the laws just upheld.

Unless the Legislature took this step, said the real estate men, "there will develop the greatest crisis in the history of the City of New York—an unprecedented shortage of houses that will make the situation which occasioned the statutes passed in April seem mild in comparison."

The statements were made by the Real Estate Investors of New York, Inc., of which former Judge Francis M. Scott is counsel, and the Apartment House Owners' Association.

Arthur J. W. Hilly, Chairman of the Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering, said he felt gratified by the decision and never was in doubt about the ultimate outcome of the laws. The decision, he said, gives judicial recognition "to the fact that has been apparent to every one who has had occasion to observe conditions in this city, that an emergency existed and that the State had a right to protect its citizens in this crisis."

"The decision of the Court of Appeals means that there can be no immediate solution of the housing problem in New York City," according to the Real Estate Investors of New York, Inc., in a statement through Ernest L. Pratt, Executive Secretary. Continuing, the statement said that the rent laws stopped the building of apartment houses, and consequently when the present laws expire, in November, 1922, the situation would be even more acute than it is at present.

After declaring that a canvass of the builders in New York City, who have constructed hundreds of millions of dollars worth of apartment houses, has brought the unanimous declaration that these builders would not resume operations while the rent laws were on the statute books, the statement went on to say that during 1920 the building of stores, lofts and offices amounted to $51,000,000, and the amount invested in apartments only $13,000,000. Thus showing that money usually devoted to apartment house construction went into a field "not restricted by legislative action."

"Court decisions upholding the constitutionality of the rent laws are regarded as favorable to their interests by the vast tenant population of New York City," the statement said, "but when tenants realize the full effect of these laws in stopping the building of housing accommodations they will demand their repeal.

"The decision of the Court of Appeals terminates only one phase of the litigation precipitated by the laws. Their constitutionality will not be fully determined until the United States Supreme Court has handed down its decision.

"The decision of the Court of Appeals is merely on the constitutionality of the laws. It will not abridge one whit the rights of property owners as set forth in the legislative enactments. Tenants will have no more rights than they had before the decision was handed down.

"The decision is not the paramount issue. Public welfare is more important than any question of constitutionality and the effects of the rent laws have already shown that they are harmful to the public welfare, reacting upon tenants as well as property owners.

"In addition to causing complete stagnation in the building of apartment houses, these laws have tied up in the court millions of dollars, which were thus withdrawn from the ordinary channels of trade and commerce.

"Furthermore, these laws have permitted a doubling up of tenancy most dangerous to public health and morality, also creating unprecedented congestion in the courts and preventing consideration of cases other than rent litigation.

"Regardless of constitutionality or any other legal question, the supreme issue is the repeal of these laws. They must be repealed. The time is coming when tenants will realize this fact, for as long as they remain on the statute books, just so long will the solution of the housing problem be delayed. Neither the exemption nor any other unscientific method will solve this problem."

Stanley M. Isaacs, Chairman of the Law Committee of the Apartment House Owners' Association, said that capital would not engage in the "hazardous business" of building homes so long as it continues to be regulated "by instrumentalities so loosely conducted, so uncertain in their methods and so inconsistent in their rulings as the Municipal Courts of this city." This is particularly true, he said, when the jury which "regulates" is composed only of tenants "who at least in the immediate present profit by over-regulation."

Mr. Isaacs then predicted "the greatest crisis in the City of New York unless the statutes were repealed. He urged either the prompt repeal or substantial amendment of the existing laws or the building of houses directly by the city or State or by philanthropic organizations financed by the city or State.

It was with reluctance that the association made the recommendation that the city or State construct houses, said Mr. Isaacs, believing that the housing thus produced "will be constructed with extravagance and loss to the State or the city."

the class of landlords who now challenge the statutes, the legislation should be upheld.

"To uphold the right of the landlord to maintain ejectment would be to crack the legislative design into fragments which would afford little protection to the tenants in possession.

Property Rights Must Yield.

"The legislative or police power is a dynamic agency, vague and undefined in its scope, which takes private property or limits its use when great public needs require, uncontrolled by the constitutional requirement of due process. Either the rights of property and contract must, when necessary, yield to the public convenience and the public advantage or it must be found that the State has surrendered one of the attributes of sovereignty for which Governments are founded, and made itself powerless to secure to its citizens the blessings of freedom and to promote the general welfare.

"While in theory it may be said that the building of houses is not a monopolistic privilege; that houses are not public utilities like railroads, and that if the landlords turns one off, another may take him in; that rents are fixed by economic rules, and the market value is the reasonable value; that people often move from one city to another to secure better advantages; that no one is compelled to have a home in New York; that no crisis exists; that to call the legislation an exercise of the police power when it is plainly a taking of private property for private use and without compensation is a mere transfer of labels which does not affect the nature of the legislation, yet the Legislature has found that in practice the state of demand and supply is at present abnormal; that no one builds because it is unprofitable to build; that those who own seek the uttermost farthing from those who choose to live in New York and pay for the privilege rather than go elsewhere; and that profiteering and oppression have become general.

"It is with this condition and not with economic theory that the State has to deal in the existing emergency. The distinction between the power of eminent domain and the police power is often fine. In the main it depends on whether the thing is destroyed or is taken over for the public use. If property rights are here invaded, in a degree, compensation therefor has been provided and possession is to be regained when such compensation remains unpaid. What is taken is the right to use one's property oppressively, and it is the destruction of that right that is contemplated and not the transfer thereof to the public use.

Analogous to Abating Nuisance.

"The taking is therefore analogous to the abatement of a nuisance or to the establishment of building restrictions, and is within the police power. Emergency laws in time of peace are uncommon, but not unknown. Wholesale disaster, financial panic, the aftermath of war, earthquake, pestilence, famine and fire, a combination of men or the force of circumstances may, as the alternative of confusion or chaos, demand the enactment of laws that would be thought arbitrary under normal conditions. Although emergency cannot become the source of power, and although the Constitution cannot be suspended in any complication of peace or war, an emergency may afford a reason for putting forth a latent governmental power already enjoyed but not previously exercised.

"Legitimate governmental authority ought to be able to protect unobjectionable tenants, ready and willing to pay reasonable rents, from wholesale evictions for the further enrichment of profiteers who have brought themselves to the notice of the Legislature by their greed and extortion, without subjecting landlords who have not offended and tenants who have no substantial grievance to a restraint that a class has invited by its conduct. One class of landlords is selected for regulation because one class conspicuously offends; one class of tenants has protection because all who seek homes cannot be provided with places to sleep and eat. Those who are out of possession, willing to pay exorbitant rentals or unable to pay any rentals whatever, have been left to shift for themselves, but such classifications deny to no one the equal protection of the laws. The distinction between the groups is real and rests on a substantial basis.

Public Welfare Held Paramount.

"The rule alike for State and nation is that private contract rights must yield to the public welfare, when the latter is appropriately declared and defined and the two conflict. But if the law is arbitrary, unreasonable and not designed to accomplish a legitimate public purpose, the courts will declare it invalid.

"Laws directly nullifying some essential part of private contracts are rare and are not lightly to be upheld by heavy and sweeping generalization on the common good, but no decision upholds the extreme view that the obligation of private contracts may never be directly impaired in the exercise of the legislative power. No vital distinction may be drawn between the exercise in times of emergency of the police power upon the property right and upon the contract obligation for the protection of the public weal. The State, in an emergency caused by flood or fire, when multitudes are homeless, might conceivably compel owners of houses to take in undesirable occupants in order to shelter them from exposure to storm and cold. Why, then, would the State have no power reasonably to regulate for a time the terms upon which a landlord, under such conditions, may put his tenants out, as long as they promptly pay a reasonable compensation for the use of the property?

"No constitutional difficulty presents itself in the way of enforcing the laws on the ground of uncertainty as to what constitutes a reasonable rent or an oppressive agreement. Courts and juries are in civil cases constantly dealing with questions of proper care, just compensation, reasonable conduct, fair market value and the like. It is quite a different thing to say that Congress may not punish the act of making any unjust or unreasonable rate or charge in dealing with necessaries because the language is too indefinite and uncertain upon which to fasten criminal liability. The test is not what the jury may say, but what the jury may reasonably infer from the evidence. The exaction of an unjust and unreasonable rent makes oppressive the agreement under which the same is sought to be recovered.

"The question comes back to what the State may do for the benefit of the community at large. Here the legislation rests on a secure foundation. The struggle to meet changing conditions through new legislation constantly goes on. The fundamental question is whether society is prepared for the change. The law of each age is ultimately what that age thinks should be the law. Decisions of the courts in conflict with legislative policy, when such decisions have been thought to be unwisely hard and stiff, have been met by constitutional amendments, as in the case of the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the income tax cases which led to the adoption of the Sixteenth Amendment, and of this court on the statute which fixed an eight-hour-day and the prevailing rate of wages for employes of municipal contractors, and on the Workmen's Compensation law. Each of the latter laws was also approved by the Supreme Court of the United States.

Holds Common Sense Must Rule.

"The reaction on the courts is that a strong opinion in any real or fancied public need has been suggested as the sufficient test. But constitutional limitations on the power of Government are self-imposed restrictions upon the will of the people, and qualify the despotism of the majority. Such limitations do not yield to strong opinions merely. They are incorporated in the fundamental law to restrict power. They forbid the Government to take from the owner without compensation whatever private right to control the use of his property the many may earnestly desire to deprive him of.

"Isolated expressions of the courts may suggest that whatever the Legislature enacts on grounds of public policy should be sustained, but the courts may not uphold the exercise of unconstitutional and arbitrary power. What is arbitrary and what is beneficent must be decided by common sense, applied to a concrete set of facts. To uphold private contracts and to enforce their obligations is a matter of high public consequence, but the Legislature has a wide latitude in doing what seems in accordance with sound judgment and reasonableness in order to bring about a great good to a large class of citizens, even at some sacrifice of private rights.

"Curative action is needed. While some may question whether it may be said, without exaggeration, that these enactments promote the public health or morals or safety, they do in a measurable degree promote the convenience of many, which is the public convenience, and the public welfare and advantage in the face of the extraordinary and unforeseen public exigency which the Legislature has, on sufficient evidence, found to exist.

"The conclusion is, in the light of present theories of the police power, that the State may regulate a business, however honest in itself, if it is or may become an instrument of widespread oppression; that the business of renting homes in the City of New York is eminently such an instrument and has therefore become subject to control by the public for the common good; that the regulation of rents and the suspension of possessory remedies so far tend to accomplish the purpose as to supervene the constitutional inhibitions relied upon to defeat the laws before us. The order appealed from should be affirmed, with costs."

Senator Lockwood's Comment.

"The decision of the Court of Appeals completely vindicates the rent legislation proposed by the Housing Committee at the special session," commented Senator Lockwood.

"The constitutionality of all the laws is sustained in every particular, the court holding that when the rights of property and things conflict with the rights of people, the rights of people must prevail as being the first concern of Government.

"The committee and the people of the City of New York are under lasting obligation to William D. Guthrie, Julius Henry Cohen and Bernard Harshkopf, eminent attorneys, who have given unreservedly of their time and ability in the preparation and argument of these cases, on behalf of the people, in all the courts."

WANTS HOME RULE TO BEGIN APRIL 19

British Government Proposes That Date for Both North and South Ireland.

NEW SINN FEIN PLANS

Fiscal Autonomy Within Empire Suggested — Attacks Made on Crown Forces in Waterford.

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 9.—The Daily Chronicle's political correspondent writes:

"The date which the Government wish to fix as the appointed day for the present Irish Home Rule act to come into operation is April 19, both for the Parliament in the North and in the South. This arrangement has to be confirmed by the King in council. The elections will then follow. It is quite natural that the invitation to the South of Ireland to set up their Parliament should be given as soon as possible. For the Ulster Parliament, if this arrangement is confirmed, the date for the first meeting will be June 21.

"There will, it is understood, be a change of Viceroy when the new Parliament or Parliaments are elected. The inauguration of an entirely new régime makes this the obvious course. Sir Edward Carson has publicly advocated in Belfast the claims of Lord Londonderry. The latest opinion of the Dail Eireann, it is rumored, is that the basis for their agreement with the Govenment might be that Ireland should remain within the Empire with full fiscal autonomy by paying a fair share of the imperial debt.

"Other claims put forward by Sinn Fein at the moment are that there should be complete amnesty, that Ulster, though autonomous, should not be entirely severed from the South, while claims to control in matters naval, military or diplomatic are apparently waived. It should be noted that from the Government's point of view the Irish Parliaments must first be set up before there is further discussion of fiscal autonomy."

Rebels Active in Waterford.

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, March 8.—Dunmore police barracks, County Waterford, were attacked last night. Elaborate precautions were taken by the raiders to prevent assistance reaching the beleagured garrison, consisting of fifteen constables in charge of a sergeant. Not only were the roads blocked, but at Waterford, ten miles distant, armed men entered the watch house of the new swivel bridge over the River Suir, compelled the engineer to raise the bridge and then kidnapped him. This measure had the effect of holding up railway and pedestrian traffic.

Despite all preliminary arrangements by the Republicans, the attack on the barracks was beaten off without loss to the police.

From Kilmacthomas, in the same county, during the week end it is reported that armed and masked men held up the Rosslare express and kidnapped eleven soldiers proceeding on leave from Cork. Four others who were visiting sick relatives were allowed to proceed. These captives were marched to the village and billeted. Some of the soldiers' clothing was taken from them. They were released later by a military party from Waterford.

There were fierce but short bursts of firing in the Dublin district during the curfew hours last night. One civilian was seriously wounded in the city, while earlier in the evening a girl was wounded at Kingstown.

DUBLIN, March 8 (Associated Press).—Four persons were shot and killed in engagements between Crown forces and Sinn Fein detachments in Southern Ireland last night. A motor lorry was ambushed near Dallinrobe, and Captain Chatfield and two privates were wounded. Police auxiliaries engaged in an hour's fight with Sinn Feiners at Mublinhoe, County Tipperary, three civilians being killed and twenty captured. One man was killed at Toames, County Cork.

A police sergeant was shot and killed at Kilmallock, County Limerick, by five men, and the military forces retaliated by blowing up a store where the attack took place.

CARDINAL GIBBONS ASKS IRISH RELIEF SUPPORT

Appeals to Americans, Especially to Roman Catholics, to Aid Suffering Thousands in Ireland.

Cardinal Gibbons, in a message made public yesterday, endorsed the campaign for funds of the American Committee for Relief in Ireland, which will be formally launched on St. Patrick's Day, and, laying stress upon the non-sectarian character of the committee's work, urged the support of all for the relief of women and children in Ireland.

"I earnestly beg all kind-hearted and generous Americans to contribute to the fund for the relief of the many thousands now suffering want in Ireland," the Cardinal's statement says. "Authentic information reveals that villages, towns and cities have been in large part burned or wrecked, homes laid in ruins, factories and creameries destroyed and thousands of persons thrown out of employment, while they and their families are left dependent for food and shelter upon the charity of others. In many places the situation is acute and relief is now being administered by a committee of American and Irish Quakers without distinction of religion or politics.

"All the funds are to be expended solely for relief, under the supervision of men of the highest character and integrity. Contributors will have the satisfaction of knowing that their money is relieving and bringing comfort and consolation to the women and children of a race that has itself always been preeminently distinguished by generosity and charity.

"While the said plight of the destitute in Ireland appeals to our common sentiments of humanity, it ought to touch American hearts with special force. The Irish people, out of their poverty, have more than once in times past sent aid to suffering Americans. Nor should we forget that not even to the French nation do we owe more than we owe to the Irish soldiers of the American Revolution. To the French we have proved that a nation may be moved by sentiments of gratitude. Let us pay some small portion of our debt to the Irish by practical sympathy in their sufferings.

"I need not urge upon Americans of Irish descent their special duty to their own flesh and blood. They have given generously to all other suffering peoples. They will not forget their own.

"I recommend this cause to the Catholic clergy of this country, whatever be their own racial origin. The whole Catholic Church of America is most deeply indebted to the Irish people. It is not too much to expect that in every parish of our land effective means be taken to collect funds for the relief of the suffering in Ireland."

O'Callaghan Opposed in Pittsburgh.

PITTSBURGH, March 8.—The Public Works Committee of the Council today had under consideration a resolution asking Mayor E. V. Babcock to refuse a permit to Lord Mayor O'Callaghan of Cork to speak in Exposition Hall. The resolution points out that as the building in question is owned by the city, the granting of such a permit "might embarrass the national Government."

SAME BULLET HITS 3 AT ARMORY; 1 DYING

BALL GOES THROUGH MAN

Touches a Second on Shoulder, Strikes Ceiling and Falls on a Third in Group.

Three members of the Twenty-third Regiment were hit by the same bullet, one being fatally wounded, last night when in a group in the rifle range in the armory, at Bedford and Atlantic Avenues. A rifle, handled by Alexander E. Onneno, 19, of 641 Classon Avenue, was discharged and the bullet passed through the chest of James Colelli, 19, of 878 Sixtieth Street, also a member of Company B; touched Daniel Bornsdheim of 1,615 Metropolitan Avenue on the shoulder and then dropped back from the ceiling and struck another man without injuring him.

The Automobile Show is being held at the armory, which was crowded, but as the range is in the cellar the report was not heard above. Twenty-three members of Company B, under command of Lieutenant William F. Brill, were in the range gallery at the time. Onneno picked up a rifle and was going through the small arms manual with it when he accidentally pulled the trigger.

After Colillo was removed to the Swedish Hospital, where it was said that he would probably die, an investigation was conducted by Colonel Silas Fairservis and Assistant District Attorney Horey. They decided that the shooting was accidental. Onneno was held at the armory.

gallant and said she did not believe she had ever seen him before.

Mrs. Bealkin said her husband probably did not have more than $50 in the store and that he always caaried a gold watch and wore a diamond scarf pin. So far as the police could ascertain, nothing had been stolen.

The police late last night took fingerprints of the suicide on the chance that comparison with the record of fingerprints at Police Headquarters might show him to be a man with a previous criminal record. An examination of the records, however, showed that the man had no police record here.

A tremendous crowd collected in Battery Place after the shooting. While trying to force his way through the crowd, Policeman Sidney Kerr of the Old Slip Station accidentally placed his hand on the hip of a man he was trying to pass and discovered that the bulge he encountered was caused by a .38-calibre revolver. He arrested the possessor of the revolver, who said at the station house that he was George Corlanskan, 24 years old, of 87 Cortlandt Street, and who was held on a charge of violating the Sullivan law.

Harry J. Lise of 176 West Houston Street pleaded guilty before Judge Koenig yesterday in General Sessions to perjury and thus removed all doubt as to the identity of the baby whom he turned over to the police on Dec. 8, 1919, and who, he declared until recently, had been given to him by a strange woman in the Grand Central Terminal.

The baby, he said yesterday, was the one-month-old child of his brother, Alfred, of 18 Bedford Street, and he declared that he told the police it was an abandoned child to relieve his brother of its support, because of the straitened circumstances of his brother's family.

Lise also admitted that a note found pinned to the child's dress which read "For the love of Mike, take this kid!" was written by him to conceal his intention to dispose of the child. On the day following Mrs. Elsa Wentz of 725 Home Street, the Bronx, identified the baby as her son, who had been kidnapped several days before in the Bronx. The mother of the Lise child, however, admitted a few days later that her brother-in-law had taken the child from her home. Lise will be arraigned for sentence next Tuesday.

PLAN LAW CENTRE.

Bar Association to Build $1,350,000 Building Near Present Home.

Plans were adopted by the Bar Association, at its quarterly meeting last night, looking to the establishment of an uptown legal centre by the erection of a sixteen-story office building on the site immediately east of the association's present quarters, at 42 West Forty-fourth Street. The property, which is now owned by the Bar Association, extends 50 feet east of its present home through the block from Forty-third to Forty-fourth Street. The improvement will cost upward of $1,350,000.

The proposal provides for the letting of offices to lawyers on all but two floors of the building, which will be retained for the use of the association as consultation rooms and also to provide additional space for the association's law library.

Work is expected to be begun on the new structure during the Summer. The building is to be ready for occupancy by May 1, 1922.

The remedying of conditions in the Municipal Court was also discussed at the meeting and the report of a committee which has been working on that problem was adopted. The committee recommended the appointment of a Chief Justice to be the business manager for the entire Municipal Court system, a chief clerk and a chief marshal. It favors a system of arbitration and conciliation to clear the court calendars of much litigation. This report was also adopted.

TWO CHICAGO MEN KILLED BY GANGS

Political Lieutenants of Alderman Powers Are Shot Down Without a Chance for Lives.

CRIME CAREFULLY PLANNED

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, March 8.—Political gang hatred, which for years has smoldered in the Nineteenth Ward of Chicago and which caused several pre-election bomb outrages, broke loose again today. As a result two men, both lieutenants of Alderman John Powers, were murdered by bands of assassins. They had no chance at self-defense.

Paul A. Labriola, for fifteen years a bailiff of the Muncipal Court and father of two children, was shot down at Congress and South Halsted Streets this morning and Harry Raymond, known politically as "Ramondi," a cigar store owner in Garibaldi Place, was killed in his store early this afternoon.

At midnight one man was held at the Detective Bureau in connection with the crimes. He is kept incommunicado and his name is withheld.

The outbreak of gang murder is said by the police to be the aftermath of the bombing some weeks ago of a political meeting sponsored by Anthony D'Andrea, opponent of Alderman Powers in Nineteenth Ward politics.

That the crimes were premeditated is attested by a statement of Police Sergeant John Belske that for several days the district has been flooded with youths carrying "dynamite canes," with which they produced explosions similar to a pistol shot.

These explosions, coming from various quarters and continuing constantly throughout the day and until far into the night, dulled the attention of residents of the district. The actual murder shots were thought by auditors to be nothing more than the "cane" explosions.

That Labriola expected death is believed from his remark, "I hear they're out to get me, Paddy," to Detective Sergeant Alcock last night.

Labriola left his house in West Congress Street soon after 9 o'clock this morning. His slayers were posted on either side. Three men were around the corner to the east, and two others waited on the corner to the west. Labriola walked west. The two assassins waited until he was within two feet of them before firing. As his body dropped, the slayers continued firing.

Their three aids then ran up and fired bullet after bullet into the body. Labriola was shot nine times. Any one of the wounds would have proved fatal. The slayers fled into a nearby alley and disappeared.

Ramondi, also a Powers worker, was the second victim. Two men entered his shop and, after asking for cigars, placed revolvers to his head and fired three bullets into his brain. He is believed to have been killed by the same gang that "got" Labriola. He was shot while the district was being combed by detectives and policemen for Labriola's murderers.

YAP PROTEST REPEATED, UCHIDA TELLS DIET

But Japanese Foreign Minister Says He Considers the Question Definitely Decided.

TOKIO, March 7 (Associated Press).—The American protest to the League of Nations concerning Japanese control of the island of Yap, the Pacific cable station, was not the first objection expressed by the United States in this connection, said Foreign Minister Uchida in the Diet today in answering a question asked by Kotaro Mochizuki, a leader of the Opposition Party. Last year the United States protested directly to Japan, which replied fully explaining the Japanese standpoint, he said.

When the mandates were considered, continued the Foreign Minister, President Wilson protested, but when the final decision was reached America made no reservations, and Japan could only adhere to her policy to the end. He added that he considered the question of the Yap mandate definitely decided.

As for the question of the concession of Pacific cables to the United States, he said, he was unable to speak on it.

SURETY MAN KILLS GIRL AND HIMSELF

NOTES REVEAL LOVE AFFAIR

Letter to Wife Says He Made a Fool of Himself—Girl's Fiance Identifies Her Body.

Willis E. McCurdy, personnel manager for the American Surety Company of 10 Broadway, shot and killed Miss Alice K. Snowden, his confidential stenographer, on Rock Point in Central Park early Monday night, and then committed suicide with the same pistol. Their bodies were found lying side by side yesterday morning.

It was the sudden and tragic end of an unsuspected love affair. McCurdy, 32 years old, was married and lived with his wife and eight-year-old daughter, Frances, at 537 First Avenue, Astoria, L. I. Miss Snowden, 20 years old and attractive, lived with a married sister, Mrs. William Whitney, at 145 West Twelfth Street. She was engaged to be married to Charles H. Mills, a salesman for H. W. T. Mall & Co., who lives at 498 Jefferson Avenue, Brooklyn.

Notes Reveal Office Romance.

Neither those in the office with whom Miss Snowden and McCurdy worked, nor his wife, had any idea that they were interested in each other except as employer and employe. That the attachment had existed for some time, however, was disclosed by the tragedy. Several crumpled notes were found in McCurdy's pockets when his body was removed to the Arsenal Police Station. They were written on office memoranda paper, signed "Alice," and expressed her affection for him and impatience at the time which must elapse before she could see him alone.

There also was a longer communication in an unaddressed, unsealed envelope, to "Dear Nan" (McCurdy's wife), which was said to be a confession of his love for Miss Snowden, and the acknowledgment that he had made a fool of himself. From this, and the position of the bodies and the wound in the back of Miss Snowden's head, the police concluded that their deaths were not the result of a suicide pact, but that McCurdy had shot the unsuspecting girl and then killed himself.

Mills, Miss Snowden's fiancé, and Mrs. Whitney, her sister, gave the impression that McCurdy had become insanely jealous of Mills, and feared that the girl would carry out her expressed intention of leaving the surety company. Mr. Mills said that recently when Miss Snowden went to dinner with him in Brooklyn, he had seen McCurdy following them. Mrs. Whitney said her sister had told her that McCurdy had bothered her so that she was going to give up her position.

Shots Heard at 9 o'Clock.

The notes found in McCurdy's pocket evidently had been written early Monday, and referred to a meeting that evening. McCurdy had a 4 o'clock engagement with John Flynn, the credit manager of the company, but when Mr. Flynn returned from luncheon, he found a note on his desk from McCurdy saying he would not be able to keep the appointment. Where he was between this time and the time Miss Snowden left the office shortly after 5:30 o'clock, is not known, but it is thought that in this time he obtained the automatic pistol.

When Miss Snowden and McCurdy entered the park is not known, but at 9 o'clock two shots were heard by Oscar Granger, watchman at the boathouse on the Central Park lake, just opposite the point where the bodies were found and not more than fifty yards away. Granger tried to find out what had happened, but because of the inaccessibility of Rock Point did not look there.

This little promontory juts out into the lake for some distance. It is a long way from any path, and to get to it the couple had to walk through a little wooded area. On the edge of the point is a large rock, below which is a natural ledge, where they apparently sat for some time, concealed from view.

In daylight they could have been seen from the opposite shore, and early yesterday a boy saw the bodies and told Patrolman George Clinchy of the Arsenal Police Station.

Bodies Held for Identification.

Clinchy found Miss Snowden toppled, lying on her side, a handkerchief in one hand and her pocketbook in the other. Her position indicated that she had been sitting and was just about to rise when shot. McCurdy's body lay nearby, a bullet hole in the left side of the head just behind the ear. The pistol was between them.

The bodies were taken to the Arsenal Police Station, after having been viewed by Dr. Charles Norris, Medical Examiner, and papers were found in McCurdy's pockets which established his identity. There also was a copy of Kipling's "Vampire." Papers in Miss Snowden's pocketbook also suggested who she was. The police notified the surety company and then sent word to the families of both. They found that both Mrs. McCurdy and Mrs. Whitney had been telephoning to the police to find some trace of the pair. McCurdy was rarely away from home at night, and Miss Snowden only occasionally passed the night with friends.

Mrs. Whitney went to the station house and was there when Mills arrived. Mills identified the girl's body. The engagement ring on her left hand, he said, was one that he had given to her. Mills also said he knew the man, but refused to make an official identification.

McCurdy's body was held all day awaiting identification by some member of his family. At night the police learned that Mrs. McCurdy had gone to Philadelphia with her brother at noon. Before she left she told friends she could not understand why it happened. Her husband was always home, she said, and they had been very happy. She had come to know and like Miss Snowden through trips to her husband's office each Saturday, when he took his wife and daughter to luncheon before going to the theatre or to their home.

Officials of the company had looked upon McCurdy as one of their most trusted men, and as head of a department having charge of the employment of scores of girl stenographers and clerks he was regarded as one whose character was above reproach. He was the son of a former Presbyterian minister in Philadelphia, which was also his wife's home, a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and an athlete of some note during his college years.

MRS. H. M. HARRIMAN OBTAINS A DIVORCE

Newport Justice Also Gives Decree to Mrs. W. T. Bull, Both for Neglect to Provide.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., March 8.—Mrs. May Brady Harriman was granted today a preliminary decree of divorce from her husband, Herbert M. Harriman, of New York, by Justice Blodgett, on the ground of neglect to provide.

Mrs. Harriman deposed that she was married here by Judge Tanner on Aug. 18, 1908, and that she had been the owner of a house on Clay Street, this city, since 1914. She testified that her husband had paid nothing toward the expenses of the house or her own expenses, though he had sufficient income from a fund left by his father to support her. She also testified that he had no definite occupation, that he drank excessively for five years and had to be cared for by doctors and nurses in the house.

The Court also granted today the petition of Mrs. Leontine Curtiss Bull for a divorce from her husband, William T. Bull, son of the late Dr. William Tillinghast Bull, of New York and this city, on the ground of neglect to provide. Mrs. Bull deposed that she was married on Aug. 26, 1916, that her husband left her on Jan. 16, 1919; that he had an income of $1,000 a month from a trust estate, and that he had not supported her for two years.

On agreement of counsel, allmony of $225 a month was fixed, to be effective until Mrs Bull remarried or Mr. Bull died.

The respondents in both cases made no contest, though they were represented by counsel. The decrees will become final in six months.

MINISTRY IS ASKED TO SIFT MOOR CASE

Opponents of Madison Avenue Baptist Pastor Rally Around Mrs. Grace Humiston.

DR. STRATON CONSULTED

Minority Now Considers Issuing a Formal Statement Setting Forth Its Charges.

Failing to obtain a postponement of the congregation meeting and the election of officers of the Madison Avenue Baptist Church the minority, who seek to have the Rev. George Caleb Moor, the pastor, brought up on charges of misconduct, will now endeavor to have their complaint heard by the ministers of his denomination. It was announced yesterday that a move toward that end has already been begun. Those who are opposed to Dr. Moor have rallied around Mrs. Grace Humiston, an attorney of 512 Fifth Avenue, and a member of the church.

Mrs. Humiston on Monday visited the weekly conference of Baptist Ministers and asked two of them to undertake a presentation of her case. Both promised to use their "best offices."

The opposition then took the matter up with the Rev. John Roach Straton who called in Dr. Dean and the latter suggested that both sides get together. This getting together involved a postponement for three weeks of the meeting that was held on Monday night. A resolution for presentation at the meeting was prepared and it was said that Dr. Dean took it to Mr. Moor. This was the resolution:

"Whereas certain differences have arisen between the pastor and some of the members of the Madison Avenue Baptist Church, which differences it would be unwise to discuss in open meeting, therefore be it

"Resolved, That the meeting be adjourned for three weeks and the church request the Baptist ministers to appoint a committee to hear the evidence and informally advise thereafter both church and pastor as to the proper course to be taken."

It was reported that Dr. Moor would not agree to the presentation of this resolution. He did not object to individual members of the congregation going before the Baptist Ministers' Conference, but he was unwilling to have the church go on record as calling in others to settle differences between himself and a group of his parishioners. Mrs. Humiston asked that Dr. Dean be allowed to act as arbitrator, but to this it was said, Dr. Moor would not consent.

The issuance of a formal statement setting forth the charges is being considered by those who seek to oust the pastor. They believe that a majority of the church members are unacquainted with the situation.

"It is the belief of those who are pressing for the resignation of the minister that the so-called majority does not understand the facts in the case," said Mrs. Humiston. "Perhaps it would be as well if the whole affair was taken up by the ministerial body of the church, as they have more experience than members of the church, and besides, some of the facts should not be placed before the people.

"There will be no split in the church so far as the attendance is concerned, though those opposed to the minister have been invited to resign."

It was learned that the Rev. C. F. Hall, who had been nominated with Dr. Moor and the Rev. Henry Sanders, to serve a year in the permanent council of the church, had withdrawn his name.

Electric Cooking Appliances

TABLE cookery was rapidly introduced and accepted. Manufacturers of electric cooking appliances accurately sensed the needs of the modern home and developed products that combined convenience with utility. That immediate popularity should have resulted for the toaster, chafing dish, grill, waffle iron, percolator and the many other table conveniences, is not surprising.

We often wonder how many cups of coffee, how many crisp pieces of toast, how many waffles, chops and other delicious menu items are prepared with the Electric Service we supply to Manhattan's households. We hope they exceed our calculations, for we know of no simpler and tastier method of preparing food.

ITALY'S ART QUEST MADE UNOFFICIALLY

WISH TO TRACE SMUGGLERS

Acquisition by Metropolitan Museum Is Defended by Acting Director.

T. F. Bernardi, Italian Consul General, explained yesterday that his visit on Monday to the Metropolitan Museum of Art for information as to the source from which the Museum acquired the valuable Pinturicchio panels, was occasioned by a desire to ascertain how they were smuggled out of Italy rather than by the hope of effecting their restoration. The Consul General further asserted that he had not received any instructions from the Italian Government to investigate the Museum's acquisition of these panels.

"I have made no statement whatsoever about those panels," said Consul General Bernardi, "and I regret very much the publication of the article based on my visit to the Metropolitan Museum of Art. It has put me in a delicate, if not embarrassing, position as regards the authority of the Museum.

"I received no instructions from the Government to make any investigation, nor have I received any communication from the Ambassador regarding the panels. I have not made any report on my visit to the Museum, because I did not go there officially."

Consul General Bernardi explained that the exhibit which was announced by the Museum last January in a pamphlet describing the collection, had been mentioned in a dispatch to the Italian papers, one of which was sent to him with the item marked. He declined to give the name of the paper or the name of the person who sent it to him. The newspaper article, he said, had prompted his visit.

The Consul General denied that he had made any representations to the officials of the Metropolitan Museum of Art. He said he had spoken to one of the curators and asked him how the Museum came into possession of the panels. He was curious to ascertain these facts inasmuch as he appreciated the value of the collection, and had been informed that it was sent out of Italy without the necessary Governmental permits.

Joseph Breck, Assistant Director of the Museum, who is in charge during the absence of Director Edward Robinson in Greece, said that the visit of the Consul General was made known to him by one of the curators who had talked with Mr. Bernardi and informed him that his request for information concerning the source of the acquisition of the panels would have to be passed on by the Directors. As yet no formal request from the Consul General has been received said Mr. Breck.

Mr. Breck asserted that the Museum came into possession of the panels in a way that could not be questioned. The announcement of the exhibit last January showed that they were purchased in Paris, and it is assumed by the Consul General that they were smuggled from Italy to the French Capital, where they were sold to some art dealer who in turn sold them to the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

LOUISE HOMER 'JR.' TO SING WITH MOTHER

Young Soprano and the Contralto to Appear in Their First Joint Recital Here on Saturday.

Operagoers and musicians of this city are interested in an event, probably without parallel in recent concert annals, to take place in Carnegie Hall on Saturday afternoon of this week, when a mother and daughter—Mme. Louise Homer, the famous Metropolitan contralto, and Miss Louise Homer, soprano, already heard with Mme. Homer in other cities—will appear in their first joint recital in New York. To the pair on the stage on this occasion, it was pointed out recently, there will be added a further family group among the boxes, where Sidney Homer, the composer, with Sidney Jr. and the young sisters of Miss Homer, will hear the two singers for the first time in public here.

Miss Louise Homer, according to friends of the family, has followed in her mother's artistic footsteps in all but the range of her voice. It was about two years ago that a few intimates of the household heard Miss Homer sing and advised that her talent should be allowed to develop naturally along lines leading to a professional début. She has been her mother's pupil, has studied also with Herbert Witherspoon, and last season made her first trial of the stage in a concert with Mme. Homer. This début took place in Detroit.

Mother and daughter have since been heard together in some twenty-five cities visited during extensive concert tours. So constantly have these occupied her that it is some time now since Mme. Homer has appeared in this city, the family's Winter home, for, according to her manager yesterday, the artist has not sung in concert in New York since she gave a program for the MacDowell Club in war time at the Lyceum Theatre. She returned briefly to opera after the war, appearing in 1919 at the Metropolitan in "Martha" with Caruso.

Louise Homer "Jr.," as her mother's and her own friends call her, is the eldest of the children of Sidney and Louise Homer and is about 20 years old. Brought up in New York and at the Homers' Summer home on Lake George, she is said to have the same characteristics of refinement and culture that gave to Mme. Homer herself a place of unique popularity among Metropolitan singers in the companies of Conried and Grau. Miss Homer's brother, Sidney Jr., is a student in a preparatory school. Her sisters are Ann Marie and Katherine Hun, the Homer twins and Hester Makepeace and Helen Joy, still young children.

FLONZALEYS' FAREWELL.

Close Their 18th Season in a Flawless Concert, Assisted by Novaes.

The Flonzaley Quartet closed its eighteenth season all too soon for its admirers with a concert in Aeolian Hall last night that sold out the house days in advance and held an enthralled audience through an evening of chamber music of three supreme tone-poets in this most intimate of art-forms. The group of young players brought by E. J. De Coppet from a Swiss chateau in 1903 are now, as mature men, still associated, with but one change since the war.

They again recaptured the spirit of their early days in a quartet of Haydn, the D major, op. 64, No. 5. They recalled their later triumphant succession to the Kneisels with a favorite Beethoven work, the C sharp minor, op. 131, and in conclusion they added the yet ripening flavor, the "new wine in old bottles," of the great Brahms quintet, assisted at the piano by Guiomar Novaes.

It was, all told, a performance flawlessly given and enjoyed, filled with the delicate perfection of ensemble, the nobility of design, the blended mellowness of harmony, that are Haydn, Beethoven, Brahms at their best. At the close of the evening Mme. Novaes and the Messrs. Betti, Pochon, Bailly and d'Archambault received a prolonged ovation by way of a season's au revoir.

MUSIC

By Richard Aldrich.

Brahms's "German Requiem."

Mr. Stokowski devoted the seventh concert of the series of the Philadelphia Orchestra, given last evening in Carnegie Hall, to a choral performance, in which the Philadelphia Orchestra Chorus took part with the orchestra. The performance was devoted to a work cautiously announced and put down on the program as "Brahms' Requiem."

The true title of the work is "A German Requiem"; and there is a significance in this that is not affected by the news of the day. A "requiem" without qualification is universally understood as the Roman Catholic requiem mass, a setting of the liturgical Latin text. Brahms's composition is of a different sort. There is nothing liturgical about it. The text is made up of selections from the German translation of the Bible, chosen by Brahms himself; and he put the word "German" into the title to avoid misapprehension.

It is not a celebration of anything essentially German, however; for the biographers record that Brahms was led to its composition by the death of his mother. It has been called a series of richly pictured and imaginative reflections upon life on this side of the grave and beyond; of the lot of man and the experience of the spirit. The personal, the individual note in the Biblical texts that are connected in it is a significant element that distinguishes this work from those which conform to the impersonal utterance of the Catholic liturgy. And so resignation, questioning, aspiration, assertion of triumphant certainty, all find their expression in its changing moods.

The stirring moments reach a high pinnacle of exaltation, and in all its parts the music is profoundly moving. The opening chorus, the strangely haunting march in triple time, the chorus "For the Trumpet Shall Sound" are not easily forgotten. The two solo singers, soprano and baritone, have passages that are rewarding to a musical appreciation of them, though not always to a seeking after outward effect.

There has been much argument in the past concerning the place of Brahms's "German Requiem" in modern art. Perhaps it is inevitable that this should be so. Music that rises to so lofty a height, that speaks from the innermost recesses of a great heart, and in tones sometimes austere, and never with an obviously or superficially pleasing voice, is not for immediate and perhaps not for universal acceptance. But the "German Requiem" today seems of so lofty and serene a beauty as to place it indubitably among the great masterpieces of choral music.

The work has been too little heard in New York. The last performance here, before that given last evening, was on March 30, 1912, this being the last concert of a "Brahms Festival" given jointly by the New York Symphony Orchestra and the Oratorio Society. Last night's performance seems to have been but the seventh since the work was first given here in 1877; and that was nine years after its first publication.

Doubtless few, if any, of the previous performances of the "German Requiem" in this city has surpassed in musical beauty, finish and complete mastery that which Mr. Stokowski gave last evening. His Philadelphia Chorus, trained by an accomplished Boston musician, Stephen Townsend, commanded much admiration last season in its performance of Rachmaninoff's setting of Poe's poem, "The Bells." It gained more last evening for the high and sustained level of excellence of its performance.

The chorus is not very large in numbers, but its tone is ample, if not of surpassing beauty and highness of quality. But it showed a perfect knowledge and mastery of the work; a precise and fearless attack, finish and unanimity of phrasing; the capacity to carry out and turn a long phrase; fine shading in dynamics and rhythmic vitality. The chorus sang with enthusiasm; the performance was stirring and was of a sort to suggest that the singing can still make its effect and justify itself to a modern audience.

The two solo singers were Miss Florence Hinkle and Reinald Werrenrath, both admirable artists who had entered deeply into the spirit of the work and made their singing of the music a true interpretation. The baritone part is much the more extended. Mr. Werrenrath's performance had nobility and purity of style, and his diction was of the richest polish and clearness.

Mr. Stokowski achieved on the whole a beautiful and finely eloquent performance. His tempi differed sometimes, notably from those that Brahms indicated with the metronomic notation, but they justified themselves. Some of these choruses we should not have liked to hear at the tempo Brahms marked. The orchestral part of the performance was something much more than an accompaniment; it was an integral and significant feature of the whole, and it was as finished and as carefully adjusted to the total effect as the singing of the chorus itself.

Mr. Stokowski contrivde that there should be no applause after the several sections of the work till the intermission which divided the performance, and the end. Then it was of a warmth and heartiness that spoke of high appreciation.

Songs of John Louw Nelson.

A concert devoted to the songs of John Louw Nelson was given yesterday afternoon in Aeolian Hall. To sing them there were Charles Harrison, tenor; Mme. Jeanne Laval, mezzo soprano, and Mme. Marie Sundelhus, soprano, with the composer playing the accompaniments. Seventeen of his songs were sung, including a cycle of four "Songs of the Air," referring to aviation, the verses of which were written by C. Gouverneur Hoffman of the Royal Air Forces. Mr. Nelson's songs in general showed a pleasing melodic vein and a sufficient command of musical technique to give them suitable form. But there hardly seemed to be enough distinction in them to justify a whole afternoon of them.

Charles Carver, Young Bass, Sings.

Charles Carver, a slim young bass who can sing a love song with youth's air of loverlike sincerity, gave a recital of considerable interest at the Town Hall last night, his first in that place, though not first in New York. Frank LaForge assisted him in Richard Strauss's "Dreams at Twilight," requiring artists of both voice and piano; in Tchaikovsky's "Oh! Speak Not, Beloved," best sung of all, and in Wolf's "My Native Land," which was Mr. Carver's happiest venture in volume of tone and stress of meaning. A Grieg ballad forced his tone, and an air from Mozart's "Magic Flute" also taxed his physical reserve of voice, though not of dignified demeanor. Among his songs were others of Laparra, LaForge, Mme. Poldowski and Constance Herreshoff.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Augustus Thomas's newest play, "Nemesis," will be produced in Atlantic City by George M. Cohan next Monday night, with a cast including Emmett Corrigan, Carlotta Monterey, Pedro de Cordoba, Eleanor Woodruff, John Craig and Marie Goff. It is probable that the piece will be brought to New York this season.

Anna Pavlowa has been added to the program to be given at the Hippodrome next Sunday night in aid of the Boys' Club.

The cast of "The Night Cap," by Max Marcin and Guy Bolton, will include Violet Heming, George Gaul, Elizabeth Risdon, Jack Raffel, John Daly Murphy, Dudley Hawley and others. Rehearsals are now under way.

The final matinee of "The White Villa" will be given at the Eltinge on Friday. A theatre is being sought for regular performances.

"Cradle Song" has been withdrawn as the matinee play at the Times Square, but will resume after Easter.

A. H. Woods's production of "Woman to Woman" opened at the Playhouse in Chicago last night. Another new Woods production, "Gertie's Garter," began a Boston engagement on Monday.

Eva Tanguay will head the Sunday night program at the Century and Central theatres this week.

The Green Room Club will give its nineteenth annual revel at the George M. Cohan Theatre on Sunday night, April 19.

Ruth Draper will give the final program of her New York season at the Apollo Theatre on Sunday night.

An Unsolicited Tribute from FANNIE HURST Author of "HUMORESQUE"

My Dear Mr. Rowland:
Metro Pictures Corporation.

I came away so thrilled and moved by THE FOUR HORSEMEN OF THE APOCALYPSE that I had the same feeling I experienced the first and only time I saw Sarah Bernhardt. I didn't want to go home, but to walk miles and miles under the spell of what I had seen. I may seem a bit superlative in my appreciation of this film, but to me it amounts to a climax in the entire history of the screen. Last night marked a birthday! The eighth muse had come of age. Mr. Ingram, Miss Mathis, Mr. Ibanez, every one in fact connected with the masterpiece, is to be congratulated to weave that enormous story into a tapestry the size of a motion picture screen, and at the same time to keep its integrity of form, purpose and beauty is artistry raised to the nth power.

I'm a rather querulous picture goer, not half satisfied with conditions, but seeing the "Four Horsemen" has renewed my faith in the enormous potentialities of the screen.

Sincerely yours,
(Signed) FANNIE HURST

PROTESTING TOO MUCH.

Even the German press and Government admit that Foreign Minister SIMONS handled his case badly at London. He did not make his first offer understood. He denied that he had a second and better offer in his pocket, though under pressure he immediately produced one. His experts got tangled up in their own figures. And he appears to have misled Berlin into believing that the Allies were merely bluffing and would never carry out their threat to occupy additional German territory. All this makes up a rather sorry record for the chosen agent of the German Government.

The finishing touch was put to his work by Dr. SIMONS in the closing moments of the London conference. He entered a solemn "protest" against what had been done. It was an act of war against Germany. He would appeal to the League of Nations to prevent it. The whole thing was, he asserted, anticipating the proclamation of President EBERT, in direct violation of the Treaty of Versailles. This was a trifle cool coming from a man who had been making speeches in Germany to the effect that the Treaty was already dead and could never be enforced upon Germany. To exalt that Treaty in London as sacred and inviolable was a bit sudden, even for a German diplomat. But let that inconsistency pass. What are the facts?

They are that the Allies have been in terms and strictly proceeding under the Treaty. This was made perfectly clear in the language of the decision reached at Paris, and signed by the representatives of Belgium, Italy, France, England and Japan. They were careful to specify in each instance the article of the Treaty with which Germany had failed to comply. This was true both of the reparations clauses and those relating to army and navy affairs. There was a formal arraignment of Germany, item by item; and the whole document ended with this precise notification:

> The ultimate measures upon which the Allies have agreed among themselves, and which will be applied in case Germany refuses to discharge loyally and entirely her obligations as regards both reparation and disarmament, will not for the moment be communicated to Berlin. The notification of these penalties will be given immediately if the Germans decline to be at the London conference, or if, at London, they refuse to sign the agreement.

That is sufficiently straightforward. It is positively silly for the Germans to complain that they were "ambushed" at London. They had had the plainest notice of exactly what would happen. If the Allies had faltered in executing their announced intention, the Germans would have hailed it as a great diplomatic victory, and from it would have taken fresh courage to go on shuffling and delaying about the Treaty. Now, brought up with a round turn, they make the feeble objection that their final notification of the total of what they owe for reparation should not have been made till May 1. But the Treaty reads "on or before May 1, 1921." The Allies simply acted betimes.

The Germans in their zeal for protesting are already making indirect appeals to the United States. Says Germania, the organ of Chancellor FEHRENBACH: "In our opinion, the factor of America under Mr. HARDING'S leadership should be brought forward." The attempt may be made to translate this happy thought of the Germans into action. What then will be the attitude of the American people? What position will be taken by our Government? We all know what the pro-Germans here will do. No need to ask about them. And the Irish and other international trouble-makers will not be slow in siding with Germany. But it is incredible that the mass of our citizens, especially our soldiers who saw with their own eyes the brutal and needless ruin wrought by the Germans in France, can so soon forget the emotions which sustained us through the war. The resolve of those years to make Germany pay for her wanton ravage cannot have been forgotten. And the Administration at Washington, changed though it be, cannot have suffered such a sea change as to desire to let Germany off from making good as much as possible of the destruction she worked, or to lighten by a hair her just punishment for her crimes.

It is confessedly an uncertain and difficult situation created by the new advance of allied troops into Germany. But the duty of Americans is clear. They must neither by word nor by act give comfort to the evasive and intriguing Germans. They must not add to the grief of France by letting her suspect them of coldness to her righteous demands for reparation. Specific action may not be required of us. But where our sympathies and our hopes lie, the whole world should know.

PRIORITY.

The memorable precedents of 1890 and 1900 should steer the Republicans safely through the intricacies and perplexities of the problem, discussed at the White House on Monday evening, whether the tariff duties or the income tax laws should be first revised. The orthodox, unchanging faith and policy of the Republican Party find expression in the tariff enactments of the years above mentioned, followed by political results in no wise less memorable than the schedules themselves.

But under the whip and spur of the protected interests the party is always ready to take the risk of political reverses as a consequence of its sky-scraping tariffs. The immediate abolition of the excess profits taxes and of the higher surtaxes, the recasting in the mold of wisdom and fairness of the whole income tax system, with the substitution for revenue purposes of a sales tax, would have a magical effect in reviving the prosperity of American trade. Accompanied by a radical reduction in the costs of government, tax revision measures of that nature would release for the uses of business enormous sums of money now absorbed in taxes. But the unchanging Republican faith and policy to which we have referred are based upon the assumption that the prosperity of the country's business is always and invariably controlled by the customs duties; the higher they are, the greater the prosperity. So precedent and probability lead to the conclusion that the Tariff law will be revised first. That will give the people time and opportunity, while continuing to bear the burden of the income taxes, to make up their minds about certain political decisions to be taken a little less than two years hence.

INVESTIGATING THE RAILWAYS.

There was published yesterday a batch of official reports of railway earnings for January, including deficits by such companies as the Union Pacific, Louisville & Nashville, New York Central, Chicago & Northwestern, Great Northern, and others little lower. There were some increases, seeming to represent gains by companies whose traffic was diverted for purposes of war operation, but on the whole losses ruled. So strong is this tendency that there is springing up disappointment with the operation of the Esch-Cummins law, although there are signs in plenty that the trouble is to be sought elsewhere. Details of operation are not available as lately as totals, but there was no loss of business by the railways up to 1921. Clear through December, 1920, there was a gain even in gross earnings from fares, which have been complained of more than freight rates. Where the gross is a maximum record the trouble must be looked for in operating costs. The roads do not need to earn more, but to keep more of what they do earn. The Transportation act was not designed to regulate operation costs by individual companies, but to deal with the railways as a whole, divided into regional systems. That has not yet been begun, and therefore cannot be blamed in any degree for troubles unanimously regretted, and not so obscure that there is necessity for an investigation by Congress, as is proposed by Senator CUMMINS in defense of the act which carries his name.

The Senator cannot need the information for himself, for he reads the official reports. The country reads less than he and is in danger of thinking or being persuaded that the companies, having secured higher rates, are entering upon a policy of dissolute economics to hide their profits. The wage earners, or rather wage workers, have alleged that the railways were squandering their increased earnings on profits diverted from the railways to industries favored by interlocking directorates and were combining to smash the unions to reduce wages. On the other hand, it is alleged by such respectable authorities as the Boston Chamber of Commerce, the New England Traffic League and others that the railways are squandering their resources in the payment of unearned wages.

When the war operation of the railways ceased the Labor Board asked the companies to continue the rules established by the national administration of the railways by agreement with the national unions. The continuance of those rules is an irregularity, conceded by the companies in deference to the Labor Board. If the companies had stood on their rights, there would have arisen a dispute with the national unions, and the rules would have been brought before the Labor Board for consideration under embittered conditions. The course taken has resulted in raising questions between individual companies and their workers, and that is a clear gain by as much as strikes on individual roads are less disturbing than national strikes. But it also has raised questions of procedure between the Labor Board and individual companies like the one forced into receivership, and the Erie, which says that it is paying out $1.07 for each $1 collected. It is to be remembered that up to now the Labor Board has not asked the unions to revert to the conditions before the national agreements were reached, as they asked the companies to continue under the national agreement.

The basic question, therefore, is not errors of procedure by single companies, or even by the Labor Board, but the merits of the national agreement. Details of evidence cannot be recited here, but there is ample proof that wages have been doubled and tripled by means and for purposes as wanton as ever the concealment of profits by the railways, now so anaemic. The grievance is not the scale of wages for skilled labor, or for unskilled, but the payment of both sorts of labor for work not done and at rates made punitive by duress. When a "car knocker" is paid as a skilled mechanic, and a laborer as an electrician, and both are paid in the country wages at city rates, there is waste which no rates can make good, and deficiency of transportation when the workers are increased by hundreds of thousands. Opinion will change on this point. At present the railways are run as they would be under the Plumb Plan—for the production of wages, and not for production of transportation.

REVOLT IN RUSSIA.

The risings reported from Russia fall into three regional groups. First and apparently most serious is the revolt which began in Kronstadt and seems to have led to fighting all around Petrograd, though the city itself is still, so far as can be seen, in the hands of the Communists. The strikes and riots in Moscow are reported from Warsaw and Helsingfors; and, while news from Helsingfors is apt to be untrustworthy, it is possible that the anti-Bolshevist Russian groups in Warsaw have better sources of information. Then there is apparently a whole series of peasant risings in the south, which may be regarded as only an intensification of the continuing conflict between the Soviet Government of the cities and the rural population, which refuses to part with its grain.

As might be expected, the friends of the Bolsheviki here are laying the whole affair to imperialist exiles and dispossessed nobles. There is no evidence in any of the reports to support this ready-made denunciation. If there were any ground for it, the Bolsheviki themselves would be the first to make the charge, but among the names mentioned in the Moscow wireless as the leaders of the Petrograd rising the only one known to the outside world is that of VLADIMIR BOURTSEFF, the well-known leader of revolutionary movements against the Czar. As a matter of fact, BOURTSEFF is believed to be in Paris, but the Bolsheviki seem to think that this is his rebellion. Certainly his friends sympathize with it. KERENSKY, AVKSENTIEFF, TCHAIKOVSKY, SAVINKOFF—all the prominent Socialist Revolutionary leaders hope it will succeed, though they do not seem to expect the fall of LENIN. SAVINKOFF, for example, says that these risings have come too soon, but that presently there will be a rising that will succeed.

SAVINKOFF and BOURTSEFF and their associates are not Czarist emigrés; they are the great revolutionists of the old days, the men whose revolution was stolen by LENIN and TROTZKY. Under KERENSKY the Socialist Revolutionaries were in power; under SAVINKOFF they rose against the Bolsheviki in July, 1918; they formed the majority of the Ufa Government, which was superseded by KOLCHAK in the Fall of that year; and they are still fighting. Alone of the old parties which were turned out by the Communist revolution, they still seem to have a considerable underground organization in Russia, which keeps in communication with the leaders outside. Moreover, their chief attention was always given to the peasants—the peasants with whom LENIN has been constantly at war. Repeated defeats and the execution of hundreds of their leaders have not killed their fighting capacity. It is a commonplace of apologists for the Bolsheviki that no other faction but the Communists could keep things going in Russia. The Communists do not seem to keep things going very well, and it is at least conceivable that a party which has held together as have the Socialist Revolutionaries could endure prosperity as well as it has endured adversity.

The fate of this rising and of future risings will, of course, be settled in Russia. But it may be observed that, no matter how complete the victories of the Red armies over their enemies at home, the risings continue. So far the Bolsheviki have survived them all, but the clamor for recognition of their Government seems a little out of place when it seems that each new triumph leads only to another revolt.

"UNCLE GEORGE."

By a Conference of the Powers, composed of the two New York Senators, the New York member of the Republican National Committee and the Chairman of the New York State Republican Committee, Mr. GEORGE W. ALDRIDGE of Rochester has been selected for the post of Collector of the Port of New York. He has all the orthodox qualifications. He voted for Mr. HARDING on every ballot at Chicago. He is a good friend of Governor MILLER. He comes down to us from the early ages as the effective and mellow boss of Monroe County, which is or used to be full of "Aldridge Democrats." Everybody likes him, except a few reformers. Not that he hasn't been a reformer himself occasionally in his forty years of politics. It is difficult for anybody to bear malice against "Uncle GEORGE." Even when Governor HUGHES reminded him, after the Aldridge candidate for Mayor had carried Rochester by a majority of 6,000 in 1907, that it had voted against the Governor in 1906, there can have been no uneasiness in Mr. ALDRIDGE'S tranquil mind or anger in the Governor's.

As a member of the Rochester Board of Public Works, Mr. ALDRIDGE did a great deal of useful service to the city. If he kept building up his machine, the police stations, fire houses, municipal buildings, and so on, which he constructed were none the less valuable improvements. He showed energy and public spirit as well as a genius for practical policies. As Governor MORTON'S Superintendent of Public Works he was a good deal less successful, as the commission appointed by Governor ROOSEVELT disclosed. In the matter of canal improvements he was a little careless, engrossed, doubtless, by his political interests; but the traditional office of the canals is to irrigate politics, and $9,000,000 was a pot of money twenty-five years ago. In all his adventures in politics "Uncle GEORGE" kept the good-will of almost everybody but the perfectionists. His geographical site is correct. Both Democratic and Republican Administrations have more than once combed up-State for a Collector of the Port. There is so much local talent that the appointment of a resident might cause heartburning.

In accordance with Mr. ALDRIDGE'S principles, the office seeks the man. He is "not a candidate." He is an accomplished politician. Angels are not eligible. The Collectorship is usually regarded as a political job.

WOOD TO THE PHILIPPINES.

To obtain expert information about political and industrial conditions in the Philippines, President HARDING is sending General LEONARD WOOD there to observe and report. He of all Americans is best qualified for the mission. ELIHU ROOT was Secretary of War when General WOOD was Governor of Cuba. "I kept track of what was done," Secretary ROOT told the Senate Military Affairs Committee, "and studied the subject as carefully as any business man ever studied his own business; or any lawyer studied a case which he was to try." Mr. ROOT made three visits to the island, inspected the schools, public works, hospitals, prisons, asylums and army posts, and got all the information he could acquire "by conversation with soldiers and civilians and Americans and Cubans"; and WOOD'S achievement, he said, was "one of the most conspicuous and meritorious pieces of work ever done by an American." That is the opinion of eminent British administrators like MILNER, who have ranked WOOD as one of the greatest colonial administrators living.

The General's experience in the Philippines included a term of three years as Governor of Moro Province and the divisional command of the Philippines for two years. No American knows their people better. He went out in 1903, he returned in 1908, and his admirable reports tell the story of an understanding mind and capacity to do the right thing in emergencies. He ruled the Moros wisely and firmly. His administration of army affairs in Luzon materially improved the service.

There are notes to take in the Philippines that will be invaluable to President HARDING in the shaping of his policy. General WOOD will have to pass upon the question of the fitness of the natives for independence. Bearing upon this problem is the judgment they have shown in legislation. Self-government on a liberal scale they have enjoyed for some time. The Civil Governor and Congress have left them very much to themselves. Have they made a success of the experiment? Economically are they progressing? Has the time arrived for them to be an independent nation with a claim upon the United States for protection against aggression? Do they realize their obligations to this country? Has there been alienation of their regard? Have anti-American propagandists made headway among them? It is for General WOOD to answer these questions in his report. Congress is not very well informed about conditions in the Philippines at the present time, and President HARDING needs light for the discharge of a difficult duty.

PANAMA'S GRIEVANCE.

Secretary HUGHES stands, for the present at least, upon Chief Justice WHITE'S award in the arbitration to fix the Costa Rica-Panama boundary line, which the Panamans rejected in 1915 on the ground that it gave Costa Rica more territory than she claimed. The Costa Ricans are no longer militant—their troops are retiring from camps beyond the Coto River on the Pacific side and across the Sixaola River on the Atlantic side; but the Panamans nurse a grievance that their neighbor's title to land belonging to Panama has been affirmed by the American State Department. There will be no more fighting after the news reaches commanders on both sides, because, aside from the notice given by Secretary HUGHES, it is understood that hostilities will not be permitted.

The United States by the treaty of 1903 guarantees the independence of Panama, and as a consequence of that understanding Panama has no organized army. Panama should therefore have justice from the United States when a boundary line is in question. Process is provided for the reopening of civil suits when a wrong to one of the parties is charged. If the award made by Chief Justice WHITE embodies a topographical error owing to an obscurity in the "papers in the case" that came to him from the delimitation of ex-President LOUBET of France, Panama should have another day in court to present her evidence. Secretary HUGHES has made a good beginning in his first Pan-American complication. May the conclusion be felicitous and to both sides satisfactory.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

The Offer a Gift Well Earned.

Quite unlike any of the "drives" that have preceded it, and by good right immune to the curious antagonism, due to the enormous number of past appeals, that now meets most efforts to raise new "funds," is the effort making to get $100,000 with which to present to Mme. MARIE CURIE, when she comes to this country in May, a gift of a gram of the wonderful element, radium.

This is not in any sense a charitable undertaking, as the simple needs of Mme. CURIE and her two children are met by her salary as a Sorbonne lecturer, she being the first, and as yet the only, woman to hold a full professorship in that venerable institution. But in the further prosecution of the research work to which her life from girlhood has been devoted she is desirous of having this quantity, minute but sufficient, of the substance that gave her husband and herself an eminent and perhaps permanent place in the history of science, and she wants it for experiments in the course of which it may be destroyed or lost. It is this radium that an American committee, of which Dr. FRANCIS CARTER WOOD is Chairman, has undertaken to provide, in appreciation both of Mme. CURIE'S present achievements and of the high possibility that even greater results may follow the continued prosecution of her studies. Should that be the case, the benefits, like those that already have followed the discovery of radium, would be given free to the world, for Mme. CURIE never patents her processes and never exploits her triumphs in a commercial way. She works for science, not for money, and it might be said with truth that she will be the trustee rather than the owner of this American gift.

It is the desire of the committee that the $100,000 be made up of many small contributions, rather than of the few large ones that could be secured so much more easily. Checks should be made out to "The Mme. Curie Radium Fund," and sent to the Equitable Trust Company, New York City.

A Fiction Replaced by Facts.

Readers of the more sophisticated sort must have suspected that there was something of inaccuracy in the recent widely circulated accounts of a little girl out in Waukegan, Ill., who, after talking continuously for several days, was almost instantly restored to health and a normal degree of silence by the readjustment of two displaced vertebrae.

That was the tale as told at Waukegan. The facts, as might have been expected by anybody familiar with the tricks and the ways of charlatans, were quite different. They are presented in the current issue of The Journal of the American Medical Association.

What the little girl had was not a new and mysterious "talking sickness," but encephalitis, a malady only too familiar at present. It is called "encephalitis lethargica" because most of the victims sink into, and remain in, a state approaching coma, but some of them, instead of showing lethargy, are delirious. The child's case was of the rarer type. She was not cured, either instantly or at all, by the manipulation of her spine. She simply had after it one of the subsidences of delirium that mark the disease in this form. She is not fully recovered even yet, but the brain inflammation is slowly subsiding, exactly as it always does in the cases that do not end fatally, and the prognosis is favorable.

One may be sure, though, that the "chiropractor" will claim his fee, and that his marvelous achievement in effecting a cure when the orthodox doctors were helpless will be widely used for the magnification of his particular sort of quackery.

The Answer Should Be Emphatic.

Desirous as must be every good American that the meeting in Madison Square Garden, arranged for the evening of March 18 as an antidote and reply to the abominable "Rhine horror" assemblage of public enemies, should be a great success, it is impossible not to feel a little uneasy about it—to feel just a shade of doubt as to the possibility of filling the Garden for such a purpose.

That is not because of any question as to the sentiments entertained by a huge majority of New York's inhabitants in regard to the British and the French, and especially in regard to the Germans. But most Americans are so sure of their patriotism that they are not much inclined to make public profession of it; indeed, they not infrequently see something approaching affront, or even insult, in a demand that they make such profession.

That probably is supersensitiveness, but it is entirely natural and too common to be condemned offhand. This feeling may result in something less than a full attendance at the proposed meeting, but so vehement was, and is, the indignation aroused by the utterances of the German and Sinn Fein propagandists that these apprehensions may turn out to be entirely groundless. It certainly is to be hoped so, for unless the Garden and the surrounding streets are thronged by 100 per cent. Americans on the evening selected for the counter-demonstration, our alien residents surely will draw from that fact, and loudly proclaim, the conclusion that they speak for the United States when they denounce as atrocious the conduct of France, demand the destruction of the British Empire and exalt the virtue of Germany.

Legislation Without an Excuse.

Both branches of the New York Legislature have passed the bill making it a felony to offer a bribe to a baseball player or for a baseball player to take one, and it is said that the Governor purposes to make effective by his signature this specimen of freak law.

Of course, it is highly reprehensible to "throw" baseball games for money, and equally reprehensible is anybody who hires players to do it, but existing statutes provide sufficient punishment for such conspiracies to defraud; and, important as baseball is in the estimation of many, it certainly is not important enough to justify or even excuse the cluttering up of the criminal code with such special legislation as this.

Other games get along fairly well without protection of this kind, and if they didn't it would be for the same reasons that are supposed to make baseball need it—reasons that nobody likes to hear, so let them remain unstated.

A MARCH ON BERLIN.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The real reason for the Germans' failure to come to a settlement is that they do not fear the Allies. They have not yet felt the heavy hand of the conqueror. Their lands have not yet been devastated, their cities destroyed, their civilians murdered. They realize they are dealing with a civilized foe who will do none of these things, no matter what the provocation.

That is the real weakness of the Allies—from the German standpoint. They (the Allies) are too civilized. They fight with kid gloves on. They do not commit atrocities. The Teuton, sure in any event of a whole skin, can afford to put his tongue in his cheek and insolently say to France and England: "Come on—do your worst." He knows "the worst" will not be very bad under any circumstances—nothing like what a military advance into France or England would mean.

It is time the Allies adopted sterner measures. I don't say they should bomb hospitals, fire cities, or murder innocent civilians. Let us leave that sort of work to the German who is so expert at it. But they should not limit their operations to occupying a few frontier towns. They should march on Berlin and remain there until satisfactory reparations are made. That's what the German conqueror did to France in 1870. That's the only thing that would make any real impression on the still unrepentant German today.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The writer attended the "Horrors of the Rhine" meeting at Madison Square Garden Monday evening and has at home an official stenographic transcript of the entire proceedings. A review of the report brings forcibly to one's attention a fact which has not been noticed, or at least commented on in print. Though the "Horrors of the Rhine" was the subject of the meeting, references to such horrors were but perfunctory and not one speaker gave any specific instance of any outrage on any woman, nor mentioned one regiment, nor one conviction, nor one particular accusation. Surely, with the wealth of material the speakers professed to have at hand, sufficient evidently to warrant the giving of the lie direct to the Secretary of State of the United States, there must have been some outstandingly horrible examples which would have set the blood of so sympathetic an audience boiling, as that of the speakers professedly did when they thought of them. If so, however, they were a deep secret. And considering the willingness of the speakers to reveal their innermost thoughts on any point of fault of the allied countries, the failure to bring these out surely is passing strange.

On the other hand, when it came to the matter of German atrocities in Belgium, Northern France and Luxemburg, the unsupported word of no less a person than Lieut. Col. Anderson of the 165th Infantry was sufficient to set at naught all the investigations of the Bryce Commission and the findings of Herbert Hoover.

SCHUYLER PATTERSON.

Bronxville, March 5, 1921.

I SEEK A LIAISON WITH FATE.

I seek a liaison with Fate
That I may take him by the hand
And wander o'er this war-torn land
Where suffering souls were wont to mate
With hope, and dream of all that made this life seem so worth while.

I seek a liaison with Fate
That I may show these hearts bowed down
In grief; their beauty, youth and hopes all gone,
It could not be that God above could send such woe to those he loved,
So it must be a Destiny that hated all humanity.

I seek a liaison with Fate
That I may challenge him, my gruesome friend,
To tell me why a saddened end did come so truly when
He might have brought us joy and Peace—
On earth Good-Will toward men.

I seek a liaison with Fate
That he may through this vale of tears,
Of broken hearts and agonizing years,
Some comfort bring, before too late—
Perchance to show it was the Test
Of Love, undying Faith that God knows best,
That only He could lift this veil of mystery.
Ah! would that Fate might make a liaison with me!

WELCOME HARDING'S CALL.

Two Japanese Papers Commend His Suggestion for a Conference.

TOKIO, March 7 (Associated Press)—The text of the inaugural address of President Harding was received here only yesterday, and comment on it thus far gives little idea as to its general reception.

The Jiji Shimpo, commenting especially on President Harding's non-involvement policy, thinks it reveals the determination of the Republican Administration to stick to the policy of standing outside the League of Nations. The newspaper says, however, that Mr. Harding's plans toward approximate disarmament and the establishment of a world tribunal may be regarded as the nucleus of an association of nations. America now is isolated, the Jiji declares, but it welcomes the decision of President Harding regarding conference and counsel.

"We expect much from the United States for a solution of the restriction of armaments, which is a question of grave importance," the newspaper adds, "and hope the naval holiday project will be put into speedy execution by the efforts of the new President."

The most striking editorial appears in the English-printed Japan Times, which recently was taken over by Sometrara Sheba, formerly editor of the Hawaii Shimpo, who professes to be making The Times the unfettered voice of Japanese public opinion. The Times thinks the inaugural address a direct message to the Government and people of Japan, for, it declares, it is "hardly possible all the war talk of the last few months in America has left Mr. Harding unaffected." President Harding, the newspaper continues, probably believes Japan harbors thoughts of war and conquest and desires to put the matter to a test by summoning a conference for the purpose of attaining at least partial disarmament.

"If Japan wholeheartedly, without attempted reservations, meets the American suggestion half way, all fear of war in the Pacific will vanish." The Times asserts. If Japan hesitates, haggles or attempts to secure reservations for the continuance of her naval programme, she will bring the possibility, and even the probability, of war very close."

Basing its opinion on what it claims to be the undoubted desire of the masses of the Japanese people, the newspaper believes that the United States will find Japan ready, willing and eager to enter any path leading to peace and understanding.

HARDING GREETS DAVIS.

Tells Ambassador His Successor Will Be Named Soon.

LONDON, March 8.—John W. Davis, the retiring Ambassador to Great Britain, has received a cordial letter from President Harding, announcing that the President will comply with Mr. Davis's request that a new Ambassador be appointed as soon as possible, so that Mr. Davis may return to the United States.

The American correspondents in London had a farewell conference this morning with Mr. Davis, whom they had met regularly for informal discussions throughout the Ambassador's term. As a tribute of esteem and affection the correspondents presented to Mr. Davis a set of pipes.

FOR DAYLIGHT SAVING.

A delegation representing many civic associations of the city will go to Albany tomorrow to argue in favor of daylight saving at the hearing which Governor Miller will hold on the Daylight Saving Repeal bill recently passed by the Legislature. The Merchants' Association delegation will be headed by Waldo H. Marshall, William Fellowes Morgan, President of the association, will be unable to attend, as he is absent from the city.

Frank A. K. Boland, who made the principal speech for the Merchants' Association at the hearing on the bill before the joint legislative committees, will speak for the business men of the city, and Dr. Copeland will speak in behalf of the city's health. Dr. George David Stewart, President of the New York Academy of Medicine, will also speak.

Among the organizations to be represented will be the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, Central Mercantile Association, Queens Chamber of Commerce, Hotel Men's Association, New York Board of Trade and Transportation, Rotary Club, Harlem Board of Commerce, Fifth Avenue Association, Forty-second Street Property Owners and Merchants' Association, Dress and Waist Manufacturers' Association, Jewelers' Board of Trade, New York Cotton Exchange, New York Produce Exchange, City Club, New York City Federation of Women's Clubs, Bronx Board of Trade, National Retail Dry Goods Association, United States Lawn Tennis Association, National Association of Credit Men, and the Chambers of Commerce of the following cities: White Plains, New Rochelle, Mount Vernon, Pelham, Ossining, Peekskill and Yonkers.

CANADA'S GOVERNMENT COST

OTTAWA, March 8.—Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance, presented to the House of Commons today the Government's estimate of the cost of running the Dominion of Canada for one year.

The estimated total is $582,062,269, covering the main items of expenditure required in the fiscal year beginning April 1. Last year the estimated amount was $537,149,428, and this was increased by supplementary estimates to $613,225,411.

Of the amount which the Finance Minister estimates as necessary for the coming fiscal year $178,000,000 is for expenditure in connection with the Government railways. The acquisition of the Grand Trunk system, the terms of which are now being considered by an arbitration board, accounts for $57,000,000 of this amount.

HEADS FILIPINO UNIVERSITY.

Dr. Benton, Former President of Vermont, Signs for One Year.

MANILA, March 8.—Dr. Guy Potter Benton of New York, former President of the University of Vermont, was elected President of the University of the Philippines today, at a salary of $15,000 annually, with an allowance of $1,500 additional for house rent.

Dr. Benton signed a contract for one year, with the privilege of renewing it for nine years additional. He arrived here six months ago in the capacity of educational consultant for the Philippine district of the United States Army.

NEW SWARTHMORE HEAD.

Professor Frank Aydelotte, Former Rhodes Scholar, Is Chosen.

PHILADELPHIA, March 8.—Frank Aydelotte, American Secretary to the Rhodes Scholarship Trustees and Professor of English at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was chosen President of Swarthmore College today. He succeeds Dr. Joseph Swain, who retires in June.

Mr. Aydelotte was born in Sullivan, Ind., in 1880, and will be one of the youngest college Presidents in the country.

U. OF P. TRUSTEES TO NOMINATE WOOD

This Action Will Be Taken March 21, but Final Election Is Not Settled.

THIS FIXED FOR NEXT MONTH

General Confers With Trustees—Will Sail for the Philippines March 25.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, March 8.—Major Gen. Leonard Wood's election to the Provostship of the University of Pennsylvania seems to be a matter of two stated meetings of the Board of Directors. The first will be held March 21, when the General will be nominated. The election will take place at a meeting in April.

Members of the university's Board of Trustees had a get-together meeting with General Wood this afternoon in the office of Effingham B. Morris in the Girard Trust Company. The General, who was in the city a little more than three hours, arrived rather unexpectedly, and the meeting, with a luncheon, was arranged hurriedly. He was on his way to Chicago, whence he will go to the west coast to embark for the Philippines on a mission for President Harding.

During the major part of the meeting General Wood was in an adjoining room talking with his aid, Colonel T. W. McCoy. Before the session closed the General was ushered in and received certain information that was not made public.

Dr. Charles Custis Harrison, formerly Provost of the university and senior member of the Board of Trustees, made the following statement after the adjournment:

"General Leonard Wood's name will be placed in nomination at the next stated meeting on March 21. It is necessary that two stated meetings take place before a Provost can be elected. The second stated meeting will be in April. General Wood therefore could not be elected before April."

Those present at the informal Trustees' meeting were Dr. Harrison, Effingham B. Morris, George Wharton Pepper, A. W. Brunker, John C. Bell, Judge John M. Guest, Randal Morgan, John Cadwalader and F. Corlies Morgan, Treasurer of the Board of Trustees.

Dr. Harrison said the Treasurer had talked over certain matters with the General, but nothing was said of the $25,000 salary which it is reported General Wood would receive as Provost. The sum is twice as great as any received by a former Provost of the University of Pennsylvania.

"Guiding the destinies of the University of Pennsylvania would be an interesting task," said General Wood soon after 1 o'clock this afternoon, when he arrived at the West Philadelphia station. "I have a strong feeling of friendliness for the university. Since it conferred the degree of Doctor of Laws on me, several years ago, I have watched its progress closely."

At the conclusion of the meeting General Wood and his aid hurried to the North Philadelphia station to board the Broadway Limited train for Chicago. He was noncommittal to newspaper representatives who tried to interview him.

"It was a most pleasant meeting," said General Wood. "I was glad to meet the Trustees, who gave me a very cordial reception, but I cannot now discuss anything about the Provostship of the university. That will all have to come from the Board of Trustees."

Today's meeting was the first at which the Trustees of the university are known to have discussed General Wood for the office of Provost. It was the first time that several of those present had met General Wood, and not the least purpose of the conference, it is understood, was to sound out the soldier on what his policies and aspirations would be as a Provost.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Major Gen. Leonard Wood will sail for the Philippines about March 25, it was announced today at the War Department. He goes to the islands as the personal representative of President Harding to investigate and report on the question of independence for these Pacific possessions.

The General will be accompanied by a military aid and perhaps by W. Cameron Forbes, former Governor General of the Islands. It is expected that the mission will be absent from this country from three to four months. The General, however, will not be relieved of his command of the Sixth Corps Area during his absence.

Mr. Forbes is now on a steamer off the west coast of South America, and the War Department thus far has been unable to communicate with him. If communication is established and he accepts the invitation to accompany General Wood he probably will join the officer at San Francisco a few days before sailing.

The Times Review of Wilson Regime

From The Fourth Estate.

Worthy of a lasting place among the valuable documents of this period is the masterly review of the administration of Woodrow Wilson published last Sunday in THE NEW YORK TIMES BOOK REVIEW AND MAGAZINE. There was, besides, a personal appreciation of Mr. Wilson in five columns of informative reading in the editorial section.

The article, which occupies twelve pages, appeals to Democrats and Republicans alike, since it is impartial in tenor and deals frankly and fairly with every important phase of America's political and economic history that occurred during the Administration just closed.

One might well assume that the entire conduct of the war by the Wilson Administration was so familiar and had been so thoroughly discussed as to prohibit the presentation of new facts or of well-known facts in new dress. Yet the reader finds that this article not only refreshes his memory but brings out matters which even the short time that has elapsed since the armistice was signed has obscured or partially obliterated, and discusses others which have been forgotten or ignored as a multitude of important affairs have pressed for recognition and record.

Viewed as a simple review of President Wilson and his achievements and his failures in office, coming as his Administration was about to terminate and the party he represents was passing out, the effort of THE NEW YORK TIMES was a piece of newspaper enterprise that will be remembered for its fearlessness and its fairness.

It was the work of Elmer Davis, a Rhodes scholar, who has been a member of THE TIMES editorial staff for about three years.

MRS. M. S. M'CONIHE, JUSTDIVORCED, WEDS

Bride Decorated by France and Belgium for War Relief Work—Mr. Andrews Partner of Senator Edge.

Mrs. Margaret S. McConihe and Barrett Andrews, both of this city, were married on Monday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Schneider, Montclair, N. J. Their marriage will come as a surprise to many of their friends, and it follows close on the divorce between Mrs. Andrews and her first husband, Warren McConihe of 440 Park Avenue, granted on March 1. Mr. Andrews and his former wife were divorced in February.

The marriage was very quiet, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Dr. Cook in the presence of only a few relatives. Yesterday Mr. Andrews and his bride sailed on the Carmania, to spend six weeks in England and France.

Mrs. Andrews has been prominent in New York for several years, particularly on account of her active interest in war relief work. In recognition of her services for France the French Government awarded her the Médaille Reconnaissance with a star for distinguished service, and she also received a decoration from the Queen of Belgium. During the war she founded the Free Milk for France organization and became its President. One of her chief aids in carrying on this work was Miss Josephine Osborn, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Henry Fairfield Osborn.

Mrs. Andrews before her first marriage was Miss Margaret S. Schneider. She is a descendant of Edward Everett and of Governor Nathaniel Pitcher and is a grandniece of Mark Hopkins of Williams College.

Mr. Andrews was divorced by his former wife last November by an interlocutory decree which was not made public until Feb. 2, when she applied for a final decree in the Supreme Court. He is descended from Marcus Whitman, one of the earliest pioneers of the Far West and the founder of Whitman College, Oregon, of which Mr. Andrews is now a Director. He has been for some years actively interested in the publishing business. For some time he has been a partner of Senator Walter E. Edge of New Jersey.

During the war he took active part, serving with the First Division as a Colonel in the motor transport corps and also on the General Staff.

PHYLLIS E. MOORE TO WED.

Her Engagement to J. de R. Storey Follows That of Her Sister.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bassett Moore of 267 West Seventy-third Street announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Phyllis Elwyn Moore, to John de Raimes Storey, son of Mrs. Edward Storey of this city.

Miss Moore is a member of the Colonial Dames of America and the Junior League, and is a sister of Miss Angela Turner Moore, whose engagement to Hermann G. Place was announced several days ago. The wedding will take place on May 28.

Walton—Black.

Mr. and Mrs. Druid Alexander Walton of Louisville, Ky., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Louise Mitchell Walton, to Captain James Black of County Antrim, Ireland. The wedding is to take place April 16 at the home of the bride.

Zachariah—Souza.

Mrs. Eve Zachariah of 342 West Seventy-first Street has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Kittie Zachariah, to Edgar Milton Souza, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Souza of 605 West 112th Street.

Miss Zachariah is a daughter of the late Dr. Isaac Zachariah, for many years senior rabbi in New Zealand. She served with the American Expeditionary Forces abroad and has since been actively engaged in welfare work.

Mr. Souza is associated with the law firm of Leventritt, Cook, Nathan & Lehman at 111 Broadway. He is a member of the New York Bar Association, New York County Lawyers' Association, Sons of the American Revolution and the Ocean Country Club of Far Rockaway.

Unwin—Blake.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis M. Unwin of 456 West 149th Street have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Isobel Southouse Unwin, to John A. Blake, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Blake of this city. Mr. Blake is practicing law in New York.

Rosenberg—Hofstadter.

Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Rosenberg of 2 West Eighty-eighth Street yesterday announced the engagement of their daughter, Grace, to Samuel Harold Hofstadter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Hofstadter of 120 East Ninety-third Street.

Deans—Howell.

Mrs. John Sterling Deans of this city, formerly of Phoenixville, Pa., has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Mary Elizabeth Deans, to Dr. John Taylor Howell Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. John T. Howell of Newburg, N. Y.

Weinstein—Kosches.

The marriage of Samuel Weinstein and Miss Mildred Kosches, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kosches of 75 Washington Avenue, took place at noon yesterday at the St. Regis, the Rev. Dr. Nathan Stern officiating. The bride's sister, Miss Estelle Kosches, was the maid of honor, and Dr. Mandel Weinstein was his brother's best man. A reception and breakfast followed. Mr. and Mrs. Weinstein are going to California on their honeymoon, and on their return will live in this city.

Roosevelt at Navy Club Reception.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, the new President of the Navy Club, met the enlisted men last night for the first time at a reception given at the club, at 15 East Forty-first Street. He spoke briefly on forming a service men's committee to act with the Board of Directors. A citation for the men of the Marine Corps who fought at Château-Thierry was presented by Miss Fannie Howland from General Mangin of the French Army. The reception was followed by the regular Tuesday night dance.

President Burton Has Pneumonia.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., March 8.—President Marion Leroy Burton of the University of Michigan, confined to his home since last Saturday is suffering from pneumonia, his physicians announced today. They do not regard his condition as alarming.

William Volk Corrects Error.

In connection with the dry raids made on March 5, THE NEW YORK TIMES said one of the places raided was that of Volk Brothers, 661 Eighth Avenue. William Volk has written to THE TIMES to the effect that this saloon was sold by Volk Brothers nine years ago.

PLANS TO EQUIP SHIPS WITH TOURIST OFFICES

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 8.—Every French transatlantic liner will soon have a tourists' information and booking bureau, by the aid of which visitors to Europe can beguile the tedium of the sea passage and save their time ashore. Such is, at least, the latest scheme of the French National Touring Office, which will first be put into effect on the new liner Paris of the Compagnie Générale Transatlantique. Everything in the way of information is to be provided, and a library of guide books will be carried which will explain not only what places are best worth visiting, but how the tourists's time can best be saved. The bureau will also give personal advice about hotels and routes and will take orders and make reservations by wireless. Even railway tickets will be sold and automobiles may be hired in midatlantic, so that when the travelers disembark they will find every detail arranged for them as comfortably as if they had sent a courier in advance.

The service of these bureaus will be free, as is all the information at the National Touring Office, which has the French Government backing and is being run to encourage touring in France and at the same time improve conditions for tourists.

CARUSO, BETTER, FACES LONG CONVALESCENCE

Tenor's Friends Are Warned Not to Expect Too Early a Return to Perfect Health.

Caruso's improvement continued yesterday, but he has lost so much weight and strength during his illness of nearly three months that it will be several months before he regains full strength and health. Members of his family and associates in the Metropolitan Opera Company have been warned not to expect any miracles of recovery and have been informed that the convalescence will occupy a long period even under the most favorable conditions. This is the bulletin of the physicians yesterday:

"Dr. JOHN F. ERDMANN.
"Dr. SAMUEL W. LAMBERT.
"Dr. EVAN M. EVANS.
"Dr. ANTONIO STELLA.
"Dr. FRANCIS J. MURRAY."

It was said that Caruso's condition was as good as could be expected at this stage of pleurisy and that, although his condition had fluctuated since the third operation, the general trend had been toward recovery. The fever has almost entirely abated, the patient rests fairly well and his appetite is usually good.

DEPLORES LACK OF MANNERS

Detroit Educator Says Campaign of Improvement Is Needed.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, March 8.—Samuel C. Mumford, a member of the Board of Education, will suggest a "better manners" course for pupils in Detroit public schools.

"Detroit needs a 'better manners' campaign," he said today. "Our schools should have better manners' classes. We are getting worse each day. Soon we will be a nation of half civilized brutes if we follow today's trend. Such little things as a man failing to remove his hat in an elevator in which are women, or to yield his seat to her in a street car, show the general trend.

"But the thing goes deeper than that. We exhibit lack of courtesy to women and to men as well in all our relations of daily affairs. The great 'I' is the all-powerful factor. The children of today do not respect their parents. Ample proof of this lies in the fact that many parents come each week to our schools to ask how they can establish control over their children."

PRINCESS ANASTASIA GAINS.

Condition After Operation Encouraging—Gives Credit to Dr. Hoover.

ATHENS, March 8 (Associated Press.)—The condition of Princess Anastasia, who was operated on yesterday for an intestinal disorder, was encouraging this morning. The pulse of the patient was 130, but it was regular. Her temperature was 99.2 and her respiration normal. The patient was cheerful and had been able to take liquid nourishment.

Princess Anastasia is said to have told Dr. Alden Hoover, who was present at the operation, that he had saved her life.

The patiena was on the operating table for seventy-five minutes and the operation was described as difficult.

A serious obstruction was found in the intestines, and the surgeons declared another operation, not particularly serious, might be required after a few months. The Princess stood the shock well, and Dr. Hoover described her as a "courageous and exemplary patient." He added that if the operation had been delayed another week the Princess's illness would have terminated fatally. It is understood that as soon as he had examined the patient Dr. Hoover insisted upon an immediate operation.

AUNT OF PRINCESS HURT.

Mrs. W. B. Leeds, Related to Anastasia of Greece, Fell Down Steps.

Mrs. William B. Leeds, an aunt of Princess Anastasia of Greece, is in a serious condition at her home, 155 West Fifty-eighth Street, suffering from injuries received last Friday when she slipped and fell on the doorsteps at the home of her physician, Dr. John Hudson Storer, 30 Edgecombe Avenue.

Mrs. Leeds, whose husband was an uncle of the late William B. Leeds, former husband of the Princess Anastasia, injured her teeth and face, and concussion of the brain resulted. Her condition is considered serious, because of her advanced years. Last night she was reported to be resting comfortably.

HUSE ASKS A NAVY EQUAL TO ANY TWO

DENIES PROPHESYING WAR

Conflict Between America and England "Inconceivable" and Would Ruin Both.

A plea for an American navy as large as the combined sea forces of any other two countries was made last night at the American Legion dinner in the Hotel Pennsylvania by Rear Admiral H. McL. P. Huse, commandant of the Third Naval District and former member of the Allied Naval Armistice Commission.

Admiral Huse referred indirectly to a speech made by him two weeks ago at the Society of the Cincinnati in the Waldorf in which he was quoted as referring to the possibility of a war between this country and England, and said that he believed such a contest was "inconceivable." He declared that the United States ought to have a large navy, "not to make war, but to defend her peace."

Discussing disarmament, he said that this "two-power" American navy need not conflict with any such international plan, because this country could base her building plan upon the programs of other nations. He pointed out that he was merely defining the relative strength of this proposed American navy with that of other countries.

War With England "Inconceivable."

"No man who has had a close view of war or its results can contemplate another war with equanimity," said Admiral Huse in a section of his speech, which he read from his prepared copy. "The two great sea powers today are England and the United States. They are bound together with ties of blood, of language, of laws, of history, of literature. A war between these two great countries is inconceivable. It would be a blow such as our civilization has never yet received, a catastrophe greater than the late war. I have been charged with prophesying such a war. That is not true.

"We have closed one century of peace between the two English-speaking nations. I believe that we have now entered upon another.

"No country was ever kept out of war by a policy of unpreparedness. Our purpose must be not to make war, but to defend our peace. I believe that a strong American navy is one of the most potent factors for peace in the world. I go so far as to say that we should have a two-power standard. That is, that the navy of the United States should be as big as that of any two countries in the world.

"I also thoroughly believe that an international agreement to reduce naval building programs is possible and the two statements are perfectly consistent. We have the wealth to carry out the two-power standard and all the world knows it; and that is why we need sacrifice nothing in entering into an agreement with other nations. America would then require no building program; her building program would be determined by the actual building programs of other nations, just as the building program of the leading naval powers of the world was determined two years ago.

"In order that there may be no misunderstanding of my meaning I will briefly summarize what I have said in the following statement:

"1. America requires a navy not to make war, but to defend her peace.

"2. There is no reason to believe that we are going to war with any one. Certainly a war with England is inconceivable, and would probably ruin both countries.

"3. A large American navy is the best guarantee of peace in the world.

"4. The terms 'large' in this case should be interpreted to mean a navy equal in strength to that of any other two navies in the world.

"5. There is nothing in the above statement inconsistent with an international agreement for an early cessation of building vessels of war. On the contrary, it puts us in the best possible condition to discuss such a proposition.

"These remarks are presented to you as the opinion of a military man. You must bear in mind that there is no such thing as a powerful navy, used as an absolute term; the power of a navy is a purely relative term. Suppose all the great nations had decided upon certain naval building programs, and then suppose that these nations should agree among themselves to cut down their building programs by one-half or three-quarters or nine-tenths, if you like; the relation of the forces would remain the same as before.

"The fact is that there is much more common ground between military men and advocates of disarmament than is generally understood. Unfortunately, the common ground has been avoided by both, and agreement has thus been utterly impossible.

"I will conclude with just one remark: That man is unwise who lays aside his gun while the shooting is going on."

America Must Be Prepared.

Pleading for preparedness and a large navy, Admiral Huse declared that while this country was preparing for the last war the allied navies protected us largely, and added:

"We must not forget that debt. But we can't count on it next time. There'll be another war—we knew ten years ago that there would be one. We can't depend on our allies to defend us again. We must do it ourselves.

"The Pacific Fleet, under Admiral Rodman, and the Atlantic Fleet, under Admiral Wilson, must be ready to fight at the drop of the hat—and they are ready. They must be complete units, with destroyers, seaplanes and all auxiliaries."

The naval officer was speaking at a dinner given by the New York County Chapter of the American Legion in honor of Colonel Frederick W. Galbraith, National Commander of the Legion. About 700 members of the legion posts in this county greeted the new commander and cheered references to his clashes with Edmund von Mach, Chairman of the so-called New York Campaign Committee against the Horror on the Rhine, which held the mass meeting in Madison Square Garden a week ago.

Henry W. Buxton, county Chairman of the Legion, referred to the incident in the hotel in Washington when Galbraith ordered von Mach to leave the room after inviting the legion commander to speak at the Garden meeting.

"That invitation would have made the blood of any legionaire boil," said Chairman Buxton. "I want to tell Colonel Galbraith that the posts of the legion in this county are behind him to a man."

Pleading for the wounded soldiers who still need hospital attention, Commander Galbraith declared that they should never be allowed to suffer if the task of aiding them "costs the last drop of blood and the last dollar." He said it was the information of the American Legion that there were at least 20,000 veterans outside of hospitals who needed institutional care and that this number was increasing at the rate of 1,500 a month.

William Henry Owen.

William Henry Owen, 80 years old, a veteran of the Civil War and father of the Rev. William H. Owen Jr., rector of Trinity Church, Mount Vernon, died yesterday in the rectory of the church. Mr. Owen was born in New York City and came of Revolutionary stock on both sides of his family. He was until his retirement some years ago a member of the dry goods importing firm of Brown, Draper & Owen of that city.

LEGION HEARS CHARGES OF VETERANS' NEGLECT

Complaints Are Made of Wrong Teeth Pulled and Inexplicable Pension Reductions.

Charges of neglect by the United States Public Health Service and the Bureau of War Risk Insurance in their treatment of disabled soldiers were made yesterday at the fourth of a series of hearings at City Hall by a committee of the New York State American Legion, of which Colonel Cornelius W. Wickersham is Chairman.

John S. Donato, Eighty-sixth Street, Brooklyn, testified that a doctor at Polyclinic Hospital had pulled four of his sound teeth and overlooked four hollow ones on the opposite side of the jaw. Donato explained that the doctor misread an X-ray photograph and did not examine his mouth. He also said his disability pension had been reduced from $80 to $18 a month without explanation.

Mrs. Emily Webrock of Glendale, L. I., testified that her brother, Sergeant Louis W. Braun, who had his right leg and right arm shot away at Tiencourt in 1918, had received no compensation for five months and that letters to the War Risk Bureau had remained unanswered.

AUTO INSURANCE CHANGED.

Aetna Company's Policies Will Not Cover Losses Under $100.

An important change in the method of automobile insurance was announced yesterday by the Aetna Casualty and Surety Company and the Automobile Insurance Company, which is affiliated with the Aetna. These companies will not hereafter write policies for motor car insurance involving payments of losses for sums of $100 or less. This step, said E. H. Morrill Jr., manager of the brokerage and agency department, was taken to curtail the number of automobile traffic accidents.

"There are many responsible car owners who use the same care in operation of their uninsured car as though it were uninsured, but who contribute through their insurance premiums to the losses of careless and irresponsible owners," said Mr. Morrill. "When the insured pays the first $100 or $50 of each of his collision losses he will be more careful and he will enforce more care on the part of his chauffeur."

The benefits of eliminating the sale of full coverage collision, in the opinion of the Aetna company, will contribute to better conditions of street safety, reduce accidents and decrease insurance cost to the owner.

CHARLES W. HILLARD DEAD.

Vice President of St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Dies at City Home.

Charles W. Hillard, Vice President of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway Company, died at his home, 1,038 Fifth Avenue, yesterday. Funeral services will be held at his late residence tomorrow at 2:30 P. M., and will be private.

Mr. Hillard was born at Northampton, England, on June 9, 1855, and came to the United States in 1876. He began his railroad career as private secretary to H. H. Porter, President of the Chicago, St. Paul & Minneapolis Railroad, and remained with that road until 1882. After serving on a number of railroads he became Vice President of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway Company in 1907.

EX-SENATOR PAYNTER DEAD.

Kentucky Judge Who Defeated Senator Blackburn Was 69.

FRANKFORT, Ky.—March 8.—Former United States Senator Thomas H. Paynter, one of the most widely known lawyers in Kentucky, died at his home here today after a long illness.

After serving almost three terms, he resigned as Representative from the Ninth Kentucky District during the Fifty-third Congress to become Judge of the Kentucky Court of Appeals. In 1906 he defeated Senator Joe Blackburn in the Democratic legislative caucus for the United States Senate and served until 1913. He was 69 years old.

Major Frank M. Sears.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., March 8.—Major Frank M. Sears, head of the medical detachment of the First Ammunition Train in the Army of Occupation and since demobilization United States Public Health Officer for this district, looking after sick and wounded soldiers, died this morning following an attack of pneumonia.

Mrs. Josephine Tinanus McDowell.

Mrs. Josephine Tinanus McDowell, the wife of William O. McDowell of 201 Grafton Avenue, Newark, died late Monday night at the Memorial Hospital in Newark following an operation performed Feb. 25. She was born in 1850 at Columbia, S. C., a daughter of the late Colonel Henry Tinanus of the Confederate Army. She lived at Fernandina, Fla., where she attended St. Mary's Priory, until her marriage in 1873, when she moved to Bloomfield, N. J., and five years later made her permanent home in Newark. Miss Rachel McDowell of the staff of THE NEW YORK TIMES is a daughter.

The Rev. Hilary Walsh.

The Rev. Hilary Walsh, founder and Superior of St. Patrick's Monastery at Kingsbridge Road and Sedgwick Avenue, the Bronx, died suddenly yesterday. He had suffered with heart ailment for some time. Father Walsh was one of the best known members of the Passionist Order in this country. He was born in Kansas City, Sept. 18, 1869, and was ordained to the priesthood in West Hoboken in 1895. He traveled for years throughout the State on missionary duties. Funeral services will be held Friday morning at the West Hoboken Monastery. Interment will be in the monastery crypt.

George Livingston Watts.

DURHAM, N. C., March 8.—George Livingston Watts, North Carolina's largest individual taxpayer and reputed to be the State's wealthiest citizen, died here yesterday at the age of 70 years. In addition to his gift to this city of the Watts Hospital, which cost more than a million dollars and is one of the largest in the South, Mr. Watts also made large donations to the Union Theological Seminary and Davidson College.

Bishop Uriah F. Swengel.

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 8.—Bishop Uriah Frantz Swengel of the United Evangelical Church, died at his home here tonight at the age of 75. He was one of the founders of United Evangelical Publishing Company and contributed largely to the church publications.

Obituary Notes.

MORRIS C. MENGES, at one time well known in Sheepshead Bay as a horseman, died yesterday at his home, 311 Cumberland Street, Brooklyn, of pneumonia. He was in his seventy-third year. Mr. Menges became well known when he brought suit for $1,000,000 against the late General Louis Fitzgerald and others for services rendered by him in the purchase of the Western Maryland Railroad. Mr. Menges obtained a verdict for the entire sum with interest. The case was appealed and after passing through several courts Mr. Menges received $300,000.

THOMAS W. HILL, 76, Vice President of a Cleveland trust company and for thirty years a Cleveland bank official, died there yesterday.

OSCAR A. CONSTANS, Freight and Traffic Manager of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad for the Northwest region, died in Chicago yesterday. Mr. Constans was born in 1862 and entered the service of the railroad in 1883 as a clerk at Columbus, Ohio.

WICKERSHAM RAPS PROTEST ON RHINE

Says We Have Gone a Long Way Since Armistice Night to Permit Such a Meeting.

MORE LEGION POSTS OBJECT

Resolutions Call on Miller to Remove Hylan Because of Garden Demonstration.

Protests against the "Rhine horror" mass meeting in Madison Square Garden were voted yesterday by several additional posts of the American Legion. A protest also was voiced by George W. Wickersham, who spoke before the Kings County Republican Committee in Kismet Temple, Brooklyn.

"When I read of the meeting in Madison Square Garden ostensibly held to protest against the colored troops on the Rhine," he said, "I thought we had traveled a long way since armistice night. When I read how the meeting was conducted, as a glorification of the Teutons, I wondered how many there remembered the sinking of the Lusitania, the bombing of hospital ships, the firing on Red Cross hospitals, Edith Cavell and the long list of atrocities that forever made the German name a thing of shame.

"Remembering all that, I wondered how it was possible for such a meeting to be held in htis fair city of ours under the protection of the municipal authorities.

"Men in this country cannot hold allegiance to two nations. There is no room here for the hyphenated American. This is no place for the organization of propaganda in aid of insurrections in other countries.

"The man who avails himself of the liberty of America to sow discord between America and those with whom we fought the great fight in Europe is unworthy to possess the name of American citizen.

"One would think from reading the newspapers that we had been at war with England. There are many things that we may object to in other countries, many things we may criticise. But when we recall that France lost 1,500,000 men in the war and England 900,000, what shall our answer be to those who sow dissension between us and them and spoil the great victory by creating a new era of jealousy, hatred and animosity? No self-respecting nation allows itself to be made a part of such propaganda that today seeks to force us into bad relations with those with whom we stood shoulder to shoulder in the great war."

Condemnation of Mayor Hylan for permitting pro-Germans in this city to "renew their insidious propaganda," and a demand for the expulsion of Colonel Andersen, who spoke at the Garden meeting, incorporated in a resolution submitted to the 308th Infantry Post of the American Legion last night at 27 West Twenty-fifth Street, were excluded from the resolution as finally passed after a heated debate.

As amended, the resolution follows:

"Whereas, there was held at the Madison Square Garden, in the City of New York, on Feb. 28, 1921, a meeting of German sympathizers ostensibly to protest against the maintenance of negro troops along the Rhine; and

"Whereas, The speakers at this meeting, by word and act, insulted the President of the United States and the United States itself and the memory of our fallen comrades; and

"Whereas, The purpose of the meeting developed to be an effort to cause ill feeling between ourselves and our former allies, now, be it

"Resolved, that the 308th Infantry Post of the American Legion severely condemns those who were responsible for arranging the meeting, those who encouraged the unpatriotic and un-American nature of the entire affair, and be it further

"Resolved, that the post recommend to the proper authorities that the necessary steps be taken to prevent the recurrence of any similar affair."

Defends City Officials.

Sidney M. Louis, a Vice President of the post, who amended the original resolution, said that there were many things for which the city deserved condemnation, but that in this case the authorities probably did not know the exact nature of the meeting. Because speakers went beyond the proper freedom of speech was no reason, he said, for condemning the city. As for Colonel Anderson, said Mr. Louis, he might have been "an innocent victim of circumstance," but that his service in France belied the contention that he was pro-German.

The Thirteenth Regiment Veterans' Association, at its armory in Brooklyn last night, appointed a committee to draft a resolution condemning the Garden meeting, which will be forwarded to Governor Miller, calling upon him to remove Mayor Hylan. Ex-Lieutenant George J. Cox, commander of George D. Russell Post of the United Spanish War Veterans, introduced the motion for a resolution to be drawn, urging the Governor to act as speedily as possible. There was but one objecting vote and after the dissenter had been howled down the motion was made unanimous.

The Women's Republican Club also adopted a resolution yesterday characterizing the meeting as designed to "destroy the friendship between England and America" and declared it to have been "seditious and un-American." There was debate as to whether the resolutions also should contain a demand on Governor Miller for the removal of Mayor Hylan, but it finally was decided to omit that part because of the short time remaining in the Mayoralty term.

The Nathaniel B. Thurston Post of the legion adopted a resolution protesting "against the action of the authorities of the city in permitting such a disloyal and unpatriotic demonstration to be held and demands that proper action be taken to prevent a recurrence."

The "Rhine horror" demonstration was approved in resolutions adopted by the Concord Unit of the Steuben Society of America, with headquarters in Thornwood, Westchester County. The resolution criticised the legion men who would have stopped the meeting and praised Commissioner Enright and Mayor Hylan for giving adequate police protection.

RUTH GETS FIRST HOMER OF SEASON

FOUR MORE PLAYERS ARRIVE

Special to The New York Times.

SHREVEPORT, La., March 8.—Jack Clifford served up a slow one to Babe Ruth at Gasser Park this afternoon, and Babe turned it into a fast one which disappeared from view beyond the centrefield fence. This clout by Babe, his first circuit drive of the budding baseball season, came with two runners aboard and it was the turning point in the best game played by the Yankees to date. Ruth's team took the measure of a team captained by Ping Bodie, 3 to 2.

Up to this afternoon the practice games of the Huggins troupe were marked by poor pitching, loose fielding and a resultant flock of hits and runs. This afternoon it was different. Pitchers held sway from start to finish, except when Ruth was at the plate. Babe slapped out two singles before hitting the home run which provided all the runs scored by his team. An error by Chick Fewster and another by Camp Skinner made possible the two runs which Bodie's team scored in the seventh inning.

Chance for Young Boxmen.

With the pitchers showing to such advantage Huggins allowed a quartet of his recruits to work four innings each, the game being stretched to eight innings. Alex Ferguson worked the first four frames for Ruth's team and he did not allow a hit. Jesse Doyle worked the next four and yielded three scattered singles. But for errors the Pingoes would have been blanked for the entire eight innings.

Bill Piercy did all that any human might be expected to do against a team which carries Ruth in the clean-up position. Babe drove sharp singles to centre field each time he faced the Californian and Chick Fewster got another single, but no runs developed during Piercy's four innings. Clifford came into the picture in the fifth inning, got away safely in that frame without a hit or a run being registered by the lower end of the batting order and then tried to slip the slow one past Babe.

The score was 0 and 0 when the Ruths took the cudgels in the sixth. Christensen was safe on a miscue by Mike McNally and Agnew sacrificed. Fewster hit to left for his second single and then came the slap by Ruth which carried the ball well out of Gasser Park. A single by Carlson, errors by Fewster and Skinner and a single by Clifford accounted for the two runs scored by Bodie's team in the seventh frame.

The teams lined up as follows:

RUTHS.	BODIES.
Christensen, cf.	Connelly, cf.
Agnew, lf.	Mitchell, ss.
Fewster, 2b.	Bodie, 2b.
Ruth, 1b.	Wingo, lf.
McMillan, 3b.	Carlson, rf.
Skinner, rf.	Ward, 3b.
French, ss.	McNally, 3b.
Gault, c.	Hawks, 1b.
Ferguson, p.	Devormer, c.
	Clifford, p.

The squad was augmented today by the arrival of Bob Roth early in the morning and the appearance of Bob Shawkey, Walter Pipp and Wally Schang later in the day. Roth was in uniform at the park this afternoon, but did not do any strenuous work. He plans to go slowly for a time owing to the fact that he recently underwent an operation. Shawkey, Pipp and Schang arrived too late to get into togs, but all will be in uniform tomorrow.

Forty Players in Camp.

Huggins now has forty players in camp with four yet to arrive. Of the absentees Frank Baker is known to be entirely satisfied with his contract and he received permission to delay starting for Shreveport until later in the week. The status of Roger Peckinpaugh, Bob Meusel and Rip Collins is not so clearly drawn, and report has it that none of this trio has reached a satisfactory agreement as to terms. All were known to be determined holdouts when the first squad of Yankees headed for camp ten days ago, and failure of any of the trio to arrive strengthens the belief that all is not as serene as was indicated in a message received here from the New York office last Thursday.

Huggins is adopting an attitude of watchful waiting in regard to the absentees and apparently is not certain as to when they will reach the camp. All except Baker were supposed to be here now. The task of signing up the holdouts has been carried on from the Yankees' home office, while Huggins devotes his energies to whipping the other players into trim for the real business ahead.

Jack Quinn and Tom Godfrey were not in uniform today owing to attacks of stomach trouble, but both are able to be around. They took things easy in the grand stand today while the eight-inning game was in progress. All the other players are in good trim and Babe Ruth is entering into the conditioning campaign with such vim that he will shake off much of his extra weight in a week or ten days.

Captain Tedford Is Sole Veteran at Columbia Diamond Drill.

Eighty baseball candidates, of whom only one was a first-string veteran of last season, assembled for the opening workout at Columbia yesterday when Coach Andy Coakley marshaled the recruits in the baseball cage. The only regular was Captain James Tedford, and the outlook is that the unique honor will be his for some time. With the possible exception of ex-Captain Schnaars, all of last year's aggregation seem to have left the fold for good and all, and Coach Coakley is now faced with the task of rebuilding practically an entire new team.

The size of the squad, however, was some compensation, it being a record breaker as far as recent years are concerned. Despite the young army at his command, Coakley kept the workout moving at a brisk pace and alternated the various platoons in the light batting practice that was the order of the day.

HERZOG TO PLAY IN A. A.

Former Giant Signs Contract With Columbus Team.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 8.—Charles "Buck" Herzog, who played second base for the Chicago Cubs last year, has signed a contract with the Columbus American Association team, Manager Rowland announced tonight. Herzog, formerly identified with several other National League teams, was released last Fall by the Cubs.

Omaha Buys Griffin From Yankees.

OMAHA, Neb., March 8.—The purchase from the New York American League Club of Frank Griffin, outfielder, formerly of the Memphis Southern League Club, was announced by the management of the Omaha Western League team.

Kauff Summoned From Camp For Conference With Landis

Special to The New York Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 8.—It was announced this morning that Benny Kauff left here late last night for Chicago in answer to a summons from Commissioner K. M. Landis. Judge Landis's reason for issuing the summons is not known, but it is presumed that the new arbiter of organized baseball wants to chat with Benny concerning the Zimmerman affidavit, which alleges that Kauff turned an attentive ear to offers made by a gambler during the last Giant-Cubs series of 1919 in Chicago.

REGULARS RISE UP AND SMITE ROOKIES

Turn Tables on Giant Youngsters and Win 4-2 Victory—Rapp Keeps Up Good Work.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 8.—The regulars and recruits of the squad of the New York Giants now nibbling away at the national pastime in this fair Southern city grappled with each other again today in a practice tussle, and this time the veterans of McGraw's combination wreaked vengeance on the aspiring upstarts for the thrashing endured on Monday. The score was 4 to 2, exactly reversing the verdict handed down in the earlier encounter.

Sallee and Perritt, the two elongated veterans, twirled for the regulars, putting in three innings apiece on the hill. They were opposed by the newcomers from Toronto, Ryan and Shea, who had rather the better of the afternoon's mêlée in the matter of hits perpetrated against their benders and twisters. Shea was the star performer of the day, George Burns being the only party to slash out a safe drive during his incumbency of the post on the mound. Four hits were made off Bill Ryan, six off Sallee and only a brace of them off Pol Perritt.

Burns, the war horse left fielder of the Giants, was the sole player on either side able to hit safely more than once. He cracked out two singles. Gonzales whaled out a three-base drive and Grimes made a two-bagger.

The great work of Goldie Rapp at third base for the first-string men was again the feature of the matinee. This prize recruit, the possessor of a neck so long that he will have to coil it up like a garden hose in the dugout at the Polo Grounds, stopped hard drives and bounders unerringly, using either hand or both, or his knee caps or his elbows, whichever was handiest. His throwing across the diamond to George Kelly or to Earl Smith at the home plate was a joy to watch, also, so accurate and speedy was it. He seems to hurl the sphere from any position in which he happens to find himself after fielding the drive, not bothering much about getting set for the throw.

Frank Frisch once more demonstrated that he is just as much at home at second as he is in his own father's house. In the third session he made a great capture of Spencer's catapultic drive for the first out. Then he caged Brown's puzzling bounder, stepped on second to put out Walker, who had singled, and threw to Kelly in time to nip Brown at first.

The regulars sewed up the conflict in the opening inning, when a single by Young, with timely errors by Grimes and Brown, allowed Burkett, Frisch and Kelly to filter across the plate. King and Rapp followed with singles, but they were wasted as far as rungetting was concerned.

In the second period the plebes tallied twice. Grimes doubled to the outfield, took third on Gross's single and completed his trip while Hunter was forcing Gross at second. Mike Gonzales then came through with a triple to deep right, Hunter being caught at the home plate in the effort to score. Ryan's single scored Gonzales.

Ross Young got all the way around in the third on a base on balls, kindly proferred by Ryan, and long flies launched on the warm, sunny atmosphere by George Kelly and Lee King.

Leo Dixon, the recruit backstop, will be farmed out to the Indianapolis team of the American Association, according to announcement made today by Manager McGraw.

TAYLOR JOINS DODGERS.

Second-String Catcher of Last Year Now in Robins' Camp.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 8.—With the arrival of Zack Taylor here this morning, the squad of Robins under Manager Wilbert Robinson's direction is now complete with the exception of the eight who are holding out for higher salaries. Taylor is the promising young pad and mask artist who was with the champions last season, although he got few opportunities to break into the box scores. He comes from Winter Park, Fla., and is ready to fight it out with Otto Miller for the first string backstop job on the Brooklyn Nationals.

Zack blew into camp in time to take part in this morning's strenuous workout. He did not work behind the plate, but was content to engage in a game of catch, as it was the first time he handled a pellet since last year. The session lasted an hour, and Robbie kept his big squad going at top speed all the way.

George Mohart, John Miljus, Al Mamaux and Clarence Mitchell each performed on the slab for a few minutes, and the set of moundsmen lobbed the ball over the plate in a manner that made their offerings very soft picking for Jimmy Johnston, Ray Schmandt, Bernie Neis, Tommy Griffith and other maulers who are fast finding their batting lamps.

AKRON APPEALS TO LANDIS.

Wants Commissioner to Settle Controversy Over Franchise.

AKRON, Ohio, March 8. — Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis will be asked to intervene in the Akron International League franchise muddle, President Joe Thomas of the local club announced tonight. Thomas stated that he will go to Chicago tomorrow to lay the situation before Judge Landis in an attempt to retain a berth in the International League for Akron.

Failure recently of Akron business men to raise money for retention of the franchise was followed by announcement that Newark, N. J., sportsmen would take it over for $25,000. Upon refusal of the owners to sell for that price the league declared the franchise forfeited.

Tiger Ball Tossers Outdoors.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., March 8.—Princeton's baseball squad got its first taste of outdoor work today, when Coach Clarke cut his squad to forty players and took them out onto the grass diamonds at University Field.

COCHRAN INCREASES MARGIN OVER RIVAL

American Now Leads Horemans in Cue Tourney by Score of 1,200 to 920.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., March 3.—Completely outclassing his rival, Welker Cochran tonight opened up a wide gap in his 3,600-point balkline billiard match here with Edouard Horemans, completing the fourth block with a total of 1,200 points, as against 920 amassed by the Belgian champion. Horemans was completely outclassed and, during the session, succeeded in chalking up only 51 markers.

Cochran reached his goal in four innings, going out with an unfinished run of 134. The New Yorker showed some of the finest billiards of his entire career, his draw and follow shots being exceptionally brilliant.

Starting with a run of 49, Cochran clicked off 19 in the second inning, 98 in the third and then capped the exhibition with his unfinished run.

Horemans's form tonight was far below that which he displayed in the afternoon, when, while not showing any brilliancy except for his wonderful massé shots, he forced Cochran to extend himself to keep the advantage he held at the end of last night's session. The score at the conclusion of the afternoon play was 900 to 869, with Cochran leading.

Cochran displayed excellent form during the matinee session, once reeling off a run of 151, which is high for the engagement so far. Horemans hung on tenaciously, however, and averaged 45.62. His high run was a 64.

The scores:

AFTERNOON.

Cochran—6 151 9 60 43 20 0 7 4. Total—300. High run—151. Average—33 3-9. Innings—9.

EVENING.

HUGHES WINS WITH CUE.

A. A. B. A. Pocket Billiard Champion Defeats Simel, 75-58.

Morgan Hughes, pocket billiard champion of the American Amateur Billiard Association, was not in his best form last night, but he was the victor, nevertheless, in his match with Arthur Simel in the national A. A. B. A. tournament at Doyle's Academy. Hughes won by a score of 75 to 58 in ten frames, making a high run of 14, while Simel's best was 10.

In the continuation of the English billiard tournament for the A. A. B. A. national amateur championship, which is also being held at Doyle's, Robert Morrison, who is the present holder of the title, defeated George Bird last night by a score of 200 to 188 in thirty-one innings. Here was another case of a champion not doing himself full justice. It took Morrison a long time to strike his stride, and he was trailing Bird most of the way. His best break was only 29, while Bird's was 33. However, Morrison speeded up sufficiently in the last stages to gain the victory, though with little to spare. This was Morrison's second victory in the tournament.

CANNEFAX STILL IN LEAD.

Beats Layton in Evening Block of 3-Cushion Match, 60 to 39.

After dropping the afternoon block of their 720-point three-cushion billiard match to the champion, John Layton, by a score of 64 to 60, Robert Cannefax, the former titleholder, made a strong comeback in last night's block at the Strand Billiard Academy and won by a count of 60 to 39. The evening match ran sixty-one innings. Cannefax was going like a whirlwind, and his superb play made Layton's seem less impressive than it really was. No shot seemed too difficult for Cannefax, and when he didn't connect he nearly always left them safe. His high runs were a seven and two sixes, while Layton piled up two fives and a four. The total score is now 240 to 195 in Cannefax's favor, made in 250 innings.

The scores at the end of each tenth inning in the two blocks were as follows:

AFTERNOON GAME.

Layton	14	21	30	41	52	64
Cannefax	3	17	24	42	51	60

EVENING GAME.

SHOEMAKER IN GOOD FORM.

Defeats Daw, 125 to 98, in National Pocket Billiard Tourney.

CHICAGO, March 8.—J. Howard Shoemaker of New York defeated Harry Daw of Detroit 125 to 98 in fifty-two innings tonight in the national amateur pocket billiard tournament. Shoemaker made 27 safeties and Daw made 25. Shoemaker's high run was 17 and Daw's 16.

C. A. Vaughn of Chicago won his second game in the tournament by defeating Gus Gardner of New York, 125 to 94, today.

W. H. Leu of Rockford, Ill., defeated C. Earl Patterson of Chicago, 125 to 70 in thirty-two innings, which makes a four-cornered tie for second place in the tournament. C. A. Vaughn of Chicago is leading with two games won and none lost. The players tied for second are J. Howard Shoemaker of New York, C. E. Patterson, Harry Daw of Detroit, and W. H. Leu.

WICKERS IS CUE VICTOR.

Defeats Gelston, 100 to 81, in Pocket Billiard Tourney.

Play was started last night in the tournament for the metropolitan pocket billiard championship of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players at the Broadway Academy, Ardie Wickers defeating Robert Gelston by a score of 100 to 81. The match was evenly contested throughout. Wickers had a high run of 15 and Gelston of 16. The winner made a particularly spectacular shot during his run of 15, a double kiss on the fourteenth ball, that stirred a long round of applause from the big gallery in attendance.

Tonight's match in this tournament will be contested by H. Foss and J. Nolan.

FRISCH DEFEATS LETZTER.

Shows Fine Form in Three-Cushion Tourney and Wins, 35 to 20.

In the annual three-cushion record tournament of the American Amateur Billiard Players' Association at Thum's Academy last night Harry Frisch, playing brilliantly, had little trouble in defeating Mannie Letzter by a score of 35 to 20. Letzter, who had been playing well in this tournament, winning all his previous games, had an off night. Frisch had a cluster of 5 for his best effort, while Letzter's high run was 2.

RE-ELECT HOCKEY CAPTAIN.

Teammates Again Honor Anderson at Columbia.

Columbia's hockey team, which recently ended the first season that the ice sport has enjoyed at the university in eight years, met yesterday and re-elected Ewen Anderson captain for next season. Anderson, who played hockey at Montclair Academy before coming to Columbia, was chosen leader of the first team after he had flashed brilliant form at cover point in the early practices. He will have practically all of this year's aggregation under his command next season.

Bill Taxing Race Tracks Not Opposed at Hearing

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 8.—Proposal for a State tax of 12 per cent. on the gross gate receipts of running and trotting races was furthered today, when no opposition was expressed, at a hearing on the bill of Assemblyman Charles H. Betts of Wayne, pending enactment in the Legislature. One result of the hearing was the announcement by Assemblyman Betts that the bill would be amended to provide exemption from taxation of the harness racing meets conducted at Goshen, Monroe and Middletown, as requested by Pierre Lorillard of Tuxedo, who appeared at the hearing. These events, Mr. Lorillard told members of the Assembly Committee on Taxation and Retrenchment, were held solely to encourage breeding of horses.

PROPOSES CHANGE IN RULE OF DOWNS

Cochems, Prominent Gridiron Official, Would Equalize Ground-Gaining Chances.

Charging the Intercollegiate Football Rules Committee with stultifying the natural growth of football by attempting what he terms the impossible—to establish an equilibrium between the offense and the defense—E. B. Cochems, who has officiated in several of the big Eastern games in recent years, has advanced a brand-new rule proposal. Mr. Cochems, in a letter to THE NEW YORK TIMES, opposes the recently advanced suggestion of Mr. Coffin of Harvard that the duration of a football game be limited by the number of plays instead of by the watch, and advocates that the rules be changed so as to allow each team alternately a certain number of consecutive downs.

Mr. Cochems is a former University of Wisconsin gridiron star, having been a member of the Badger team that met Yale at New Haven in 1900 and a teammate of Pat O'Dea, the Australian punting wonder, who still holds the world's record for drop kicking. Mr. Cochems's letter follows:

"The length of the game according to periods is all right and should be left alone. The idea of timing a game according to plays, as proposed by Mr. Coffin of Harvard, is an obvious attempt to defeat the practice of some teams to procrastinate in order to kill time. The officials of today, however, are of such high-class calibre that this unsportsmanlike conduct can be safely left to them, and they are adequately empowered by the rules as they stand to control the game.

Distance and Downs as Factors.

"In spite of the fact that the game rests upon the principle of downs to distance and that it is impossible to state what distance any team can make against another team in any down or number of downs, the Rules Committee goes on year after year trying to make rules stating exactly what teams can do in a certain number of downs. It used to be five yards in three downs, then ten yards in three downs and now ten yards in four downs. And herein lies the whole trouble, for in each change the committee is obliged either to release or restrict some of the powers of the offense in order to establish an equilibrium—an exact or equal offset between the defense and the offense.

"This is obviously an impossible task, because no two teams of eleven men each were ever equal in playing power. But the worst feature of this predicament of the Rules Committee lies in the fact that they are forced to restrict the freedom of play and limit its scientific possibilities by this fatuous search for the impossible. In so doing they have all but wrecked the game in the past and stultified its natural growth for the future.

Advances New Plan.

"Let the committee make this simple change: Instead of the rule of downs to distance, let them make a rule giving each team alternately a certain number of continuous downs, say five or seven, the continuity of these downs to be only broken by a fumbled ball in the possession of the opponents or the interception of a forward pass. It is clear at once that the enactment of such a rule will absolutely eliminate the necessity for restricting the powers of the offense, inasmuch as there is no required distance to go in any given number of downs—the present requirement which is based on the ability of the defense to meet and stop the attack. By placing no limit whatever on the distance a team must make in order to maintain possession of the ball, it is therefore immaterial what distance it actually does make and what uses it makes of its offensive power. As both teams will have this equal or alternative right, both will be treated with equal justice and both equally divide the time of play. The chief benefit to be derived from this rule will be the opportunity afforded of developing to the maximum the scientific possibilities of the game and of releasing the full powers of the offensive arm."

NAVY TRIES UNIQUE PLAN.

Spring Football Work Is Combined With Lacrosse Practice.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 8.—Something entirely new in Spring football practice is being tried at the Naval Academy this year. The practice will be combined with that of the lacrosse squad. The idea comes from Lieutenant Commander W. A. Richardson, who played both games as midshipman and who will conduct the football end of the work. He will be assisted by Larsen, centre, on the football team, and a regular on the lacrosse twelve.

For fifteen minutes during each afternoon, the football players on the squad will handle the football and go through formations. The members of the lacrosse squad who will be with the football aggregation next Fall are Hamilton, Conroy, Cruise and Waters, backs; Parr and Titus, ends; Herlihy, Walhouser, McLane, line men. Ewen, end; Willkie, guard, and Waters, a back, are also on the lacrosse twelve, but will graduate before another football season.

PLANT ELECTED OFFICER.

Chosen Vice President of Walkers' Club of America.

The Walkers' Club of America held its eleventh annual election of officers last night at the Morningside A. C. Harry Morrell was elected President, and Willie Plant, holder of many championships, Vice President. The other officers chosen were as follows:

Treasurer, A. V. Arnold; Recording Secretary, I. T. Ettinger; Financial Secretary, A. F. Kiefer; Pathfinder, Robert Dunnigan; First Assistant Pathfinder, I. C. Geist; Second Assistant Pathfinder, John J. Dolan.

GUNBOAT SMITH RETURNS.

California Heavyweight Meets Al Roberts Here Tonight.

Gunboat Smith, veteran California heavyweight, will return to the ring before a local crowd tonight at the Commonwealth Sporting Club of Harlem, where the Gunner will engage in his first bout in several years. Smith is slated to clash with Al Roberts, the Staten Island heavyweight, in the principal scrap of twelve rounds.

YALE LOWERS RELAY SWIMMING RECORD

Wins Wesleyan Meet and Sets New Intercollegiate Mark for 160-Yard Team Race.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., March 8.—Yale defeated Wesleyan 44 to 9 in the swimming meet here in the Fayerweather Natatorium. Yale broke the intercollegiate record in the 160-yard relay, and equaled the record for the 40-yard swim.

The new time made by Yale in the relay was 1:16 4-5. The old mark was 1:22 1-5, and was held by Northwestern University. Binney of Yale tied the intercollegiate record in the 40-yard dash held by Reefe, University of Chicago, Binney's time being 19 seconds. Pratt, Yale, broke a Wesleyan pool record in the 220-yard swim, and Thurston, Yale, likewise broke a Wesleyan pool record in the 100-yard swim.

The summaries:

100-Yard Relay—Won by Yale (Jolliffe, Pratt, Solley, Binney); Wesleyan (Hannan, Sutherland, Thomas, Berrien), second. Time—1:16 4-5.

40-Yard Swim—Won by Binney, Yale; Williams, Wesleyan, second; Thurston, Yale, third. Time—0:19.

220-Yard Swim—Won by Pratt, Yale; Cook, Yale, second; Berrien, Wesleyan, third. Time—2:31 1-5.

Plunge—Won by Guernsey, Yale; distance, 60 feet; time—0:25. Wood, Yale, second; distance, 60 feet; time—0:33 2-5. Southwick, Wesleyan, third; distance, 60 feet; time—0:57.

100-Yard Swim—Won by Thurston, Yale; Williams, Wesleyan, second; Banks, Yale, third. Time—0:57.

CENTRE FIVE BEATS BROWN.

Marver Is Big Factor in Piling Up 40 to 28 Score.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 8.—The Centre College basketball team defeated the Brown five here tonight, 40 to 28. Centre led all the way through the game, though in the first half the Brown men played a stiff game, and at the end of the half the score stood 16 to 12 in favor of the visitors.

Marver starred for the visitors, shooting nine baskets, while Joslyn did the best work for Brown, with six.

The line-up:

Bedford	L. F.	Mallory
McMillan	R. F.	Joslyn
Janver	C.	Albright
Armstrong	L. G.	Leddy
Malden	R. G.	Miller

Substitutions—Centre: Flippin for Armstrong, Robb for McMillan, McCall for Marver. Brown: Doyle for Mallory, Woods for Leddy.

Referee—Kelly. Time—20-minute halves.

CRESCENTS TAKE ANOTHER.

Defeat Fordham in Basketball Game by Score of 44 to 27.

The Crescent Athletic Club basket ball team won its thirty-second victory of the season last night in a game on its home floor against a picked team from Fordham, which was dubbed the Fordham Collegians. It was the Fordham 'Varsity with the exception that Kinney, the Maroon coach, filled in at right forward. Crescent won by a score of 44 to 27.

Crescent was to have played Port Chester last night, but the game was called off at the eleventh hour, and Fordham consented to improvise a team to fill the emergency. Coach Kinney was the star for the visitors, scoring 19 points. Parmele made 20 for the winners. The line-up:

CRESCENT A. C. (44).		FORDHAM COL. (27).
Parmele	L. F.	Fallon
Stewart	R. F.	Kinney
McTigue	C.	McMahon
Griffin	L. G.	Healy
Simms	R. G.	Culloton

Umpire—Ed Thorp, De La Salle. Time of halves—20 minutes.

TULSA FIVE UPSETS DOPE.

Eliminates Detroit Team in Second Day of Tourney Play.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 8.—The Tulsa (Okla.) University five furnished the sensation in the second day's play of the National Amateur Athletic Union's basketball tournament here this afternoon, when, by a score of 38 to 33, it eliminated the Young Men's Order of Detroit, Mich.

The Livermore (Cal.) Athletic Club defeated the Spartanburg (S. C.) Athletic Club, 52 to 33, and the Atlanta (Ga.) Athletic Club defeated Yale (Mo.) Athletic Club, 34 to 21.

WISCONSIN BEATS OHIO.

Badger Five Gains Tie for Big Ten Championship by Victory.

MADISON, Wis., March 8.—The University of Wisconsin defeated Ohio State 34 to 24 in a Western Conference basket ball game here tonight.

The victory leaves Wisconsin in a tie with Michigan and Purdue for the Conference basketball championship.

FAILS TO REACH DECISION.

Rickard Holds Back Answer to Bout Offer Until March 15.

There are no new developments in the proposal to conduct the scheduled world's heavyweight championship battle between Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier in Montreal. The expected acceptance or rejection of the offer of $700,000 made Promoter Tex Rickard by C. F. Graham, representing the Eastern Canada Securities Company, Ltd., was not forthcoming yesterday. The Montreal sportsman and Rickard resumed their discussion of the proposition in Rickard's offices at Madison Square Garden yesterday afternoon, as was scheduled, but at the conclusion of the confab there was no report of progress.

LEONARD-KANSAS BOUT OFF.

Lightweight Champion Reported Ill and Cannot Train.

The fifteen-round lightweight championship bout between Benny Leonard, the titleholder, and Rocky Kansas of Buffalo, tentatively set for March 17, was positively declared off yesterday, following receipt of word by Tex Rickard that the champion was suffering from influenza. The match was scheduled for Madison Square Garden and was contingent on the outcome of the battle between Kansas and Richie Mitchell in Milwaukee this evening.

Leader—Egg. Record—1,053 miles 5 laps, made by Cameron and Kaiser in 1916.

The biggest crowd of the present race crushed its way into Madison Square Garden last night to watch the cyclists round out the forty-eighth hour of their grind in the thirtieth six-day race at Madison Square Garden. Every available inch of the amphitheatre offering a view of the saucer-shaped track was occupied by a throng estimated conservatively at 8,000.

The magnet was the prospect of keen riding by the survivors of the first two days of riding. Oscar Egg and Peter Van Kempen, Swiss-Holland team, and Walter Rutt and Willie Lorenz, the German combination, were out in front of the field, still in possession of the lap they gained in Monday night's mad riding, circling the saucer like men possessed to retain their advantage in the face of the efforts to overhaul them. Sporadic sprinting outbursts came during the afternoon and evening sessions, but when the spasms ended Egg and Van Kempen and Rutt and Lorenz were still the pacemakers, and the other riders were just that much more weary as a result of their frantic pedaling.

Another defection in the ranks of the cyclists came in the late afternoon when Orlando Piani, sterling Italian speed demon, withdrew. Piani found the going injurious to his digestive apparatus, causing an attack of illness which forced him to forego the test awheel. The Italian retired at 4:30 in the afternoon and his partner then received the four hours' grace customary in permitting a lone rider to secure a new partner before being declared out of the race. At 8 o'clock Jean Alavoine of France withdrew, leaving his partner without a mate.

Form New Combination

The riders affected, Reggie McNamara, who started with Piani, and Lloyd Thomas, who was teamed with Alavoine, quickly formed a combination and at 8:30 o'clock returned to the track, two laps back of the two leading teams. This was the second shift in partners for Thomas, who started the grind teamed with Willie Spencer. The field comprised eleven teams when the night sprints started an hour of continuous thrills and wild excitement. The pace is beginning to manifest itself on the hardy cyclists who have weathered the storm of the opening hours. Complaints are being heard against the practice of conducting a total of thirty point sprints every twenty-four hours. The pace is a killing one through the length of time required by the sprinting instalments and the condition of the riders suffers accordingly.

At the end of the matinee spurts, Egg and Van Kempen were in the lead in the point score with 280 tallies. Rutt and Lorenz had 196. At the head of the teams one lap back of the leaders were De Greaves and Reilens with 105 points. Other scores in this group were Chapman and Lawrence, 87; Van Bever and Miquel, 70; Brocco and Coburn, 59; Smith and Taylor, 39; Piani and McNamara had compiled 115 points up to these sprints. The remaining three teams, Parisot and Leonard, Beyl and Lemay and Kennan and Byron, were each two laps back of the leading teams.

Thomas Starts Jam.

After an hour of hectic riding in the night sprint series, Egg and Van Kempen increased their lead to 94 points over Rutt and Lorenz. The Swiss-Holland team accumulated a total of 340 points for the sprints to date. Rutt and Lorenz had an aggregate of 246 tallies. The five teams one lap back of the leaders had scored as follows: De Greaves and Reilens, 136; Van Bever and Miquel, 118; Chapman and Lawrence, 102; Brocco and Coburn, 71; Smith and Taylor, 51.

The sprints resulted as follows:

Second sprint—Van Kempen, Lorenz, Coburn, Van Bever, Reilens and Taylor.

French Invasion of Germany Causes Guillemot's Recall

Josef Guillemot, star distance runner of France, will sail for home March 17 on La France, it was learned yesterday. The French athlete, who is a corporal in the Chausseurs à pied, stationed at Joinville le Pont, just outside of Paris, has been called back to his army duties because of the French advance into German territory. Guillemot has been resting at the Hotel Brevort since his defeat in the international 3,000-metre race at the Guaranty Club's indoor athletic meet. The French runner plans to return here to compete in the national cross-country championship race in November. It is understood Guillmot will make his permanent home in this country, establishing a residence in this city and competing as a member of a local club.

WOMAN GOLF STAR SAILS FOR BRITAIN

Alexa Stirling Leaves to Represent U. S. in National Tourney —Other Players Going Soon.

One of the passengers on board the Carmania, which sailed for Liverpool yesterday, was an auburn-haired American girl whose doings on British and French golf courses for the next few months will be watched with eager interest by golf followers throughout the country. She was Miss Alexa Stirling, the Atlanta, Ga., girl, who holds the coveted title of being the undoubted premier woman golfer in the United States and Canada and whose past performance entitle her to first rank among the leading women golfers of the world.

Miss Stirling, who, for the last five years has stood head and shoulders over women golfers on this side of the water, has left to uphold American honors against the leading women players of the old world in the British women's national championship tourney to be played on the Turnberry course, Scotland, during the week of May 30. From Turnberry she will cross over to France to take part in the French women's championship event to be held at Fountainebleau June 8-12.

Miss Stirling is the first of many American golfers who will journey to Britain to take part in golfing events to be held there during the Spring and Summer months. It is expected that seven other American women players will start in the Turnberry tournament, and, while all have not yet made positive statements, the chances are that the following will go: Miss Marion Hollins and Mrs. W. A. Gavin of New York; Mrs. R. H. Barlow and Miss Mildred Caverly of Philadelphia, and Miss Elaine Rosenthal, Miss Edith Cummings and Mrs. F. C. Letts Jr. of Chicago. Mrs. Letts is the Western champion.

With her customary modesty, Miss Stirling had no predictions to make regarding her chances of winning the British title, an effort that American women have been making for years without once meeting with success. "I expect to meet most of the best women golfers in the world in the tourney, and I am making no predictions," said Miss Stirling to a reporter of THE NEW YORK TIMES as she was about to board the Carmania. "All that I can say is that I will put forth my best efforts to bring back the title. I know that in Miss Cecil Leitch, the present champion, the British have a representative who deserves recognition as being one of the best of the women golfers of all time. But there are also several others on the other side who approach very closely to the standards she has set.

"As far as my own game is concerned, I think that I am playing perhaps a bit steadier game than I have ever played. Even if I should fail, the experience I hope to gain will be helpful and useful."

FAVORITES WIN ON LINKS.

Van Vleck and Willoughby Come Through in Palm Beach Tourney.

Special to The New York Times.

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 8.—Favorites came through in the first flight matches played in the Palm Beach golf championships on the Country Club links today. Eddie Van Vleck and Hugh J. Willoughby, looked upon as strong contenders for the title, won their matches by a large margin.

The summary:

Palm Beach Championship, First Round, First Sixteen—C. E. Van Vleck defeated Peter H. G. Frelinghuysen, 7 and 5; Hugh Willoughby defeated Malcolm Meacham, 7 and 5; George Douglas defeated O. L. Bralley, 2 and 1; William Langford defeated Bertrand Cruger, 2 up; Alfred G. Kay defeated C. C. Bolton, 4 and 3; Hamilton Kerr defeated R. S. Allen, 4 and 3; W. S. Averill defeated W. V. Swords, 1 up; A. J. Mendes defeated Quentin Feltner, 1 up.

MISS CUMMINGS WINS MATCH

Makes a Record in First Round of Belleair Tournament.

Special to The New York Times.

BELLEAIR HEIGHTS, Fla., March 8.—The first round of game play in the women's championship at Belleair furnished no surprises. Miss Edith Cummings, driving a very long ball and playing her short game almost as well, defeated Mrs. C. F. Fox of Huntingdon Valley by 3 and 1, and made a record score in doing it. The Onwentsia golfer, who will shortly sail for England to play in the women's championship, had a putt on the last green for 86, but missed it. She will find a worthy opponent in the finals should both she and Mrs. F. C. Letts Jr., the Western champion, win tomorrow.

The summary:

Championship Division—Miss Edith Cummings, Onwentsia, defeated Mrs. C. F. Fox, Huntingdon Valley, 3 and 1; Miss Bernice Wall, Oshkosh, defeated Miss Ester Tallman, Minneapolis, 3 and 1; Mrs. G. K. Morrow, Engineers' Club, defeated Mrs. C. G. Alexander, Chicago, 6 and 5; Mrs. F. C. Letts Jr., Onwentsia, defeated Mrs. Myra D. Patterson, Englewood, 7 and 5.

Second Division—Miss Edith Hopwood, Uniontown, defeated Mrs. Marion Wilbur, Detroit G. C., 1 up; Mrs. R. S. Quigley, Lockhaven, defeated Mrs. S. E. Wallford, New York, 1 up; Mrs. W. C. Denison, Shaker Heights, defeated Mrs. A. Mueller, Decatur, Ill., 5 and 4; Mrs. E. W. Stiffel won by default from Mrs. R. Jeffery, Columbus, Ohio.

MRS. FALK WINNER IN TENNIS TOURNEY

Champion Among 9 Survivors in Play for Women's Metropolitan Indoor Title.

Nine players were the survivors of the field of forty entrants as the result of yesterday's play in the second and third rounds of the first annual tournament for the women's metropolitan indoor tennis championship on the courts of the Seventh Regiment Armory. The doubles were started with sixteen teams entered and this field was reduced to eight.

In the singles, the national indoor champion, Mrs. E. A. Falk, the former Miss Helene Pollak, won her third round match handily from Miss Helen Simpson by scores of 6—4, 6—0. Miss Simpson put up a sturdy resistance in the opening set, but her game faded before the champion's speedy backcourt stroking in the second.

The match which completed the second round was a particularly hard fought encounter between Mrs. F. G. Schmitz and Mrs. Benjamin F. Stenz, both steady and experienced players. Mrs. Schmitz won by the tight scores of 3—6, 9—7, 6—3, after being several times in the shadow of defeat in the second set. Mrs. David C. Mills won her third round match from Mrs. G. B. Stanwix, 7—5, 6—2, after keen opposition. Mrs. Mills is a probable semi-finalist in the same quarter of the draw with Mrs. Falk.

In the doubles the strongest team entered appears to be that composed of Miss Marie Wagner, the State champion, and Mrs. B. F. Stenz. They won their opening match without the loss of a game from Mrs. Ingo Hartmann and Mrs. C. C. Parsons. Other strong teams are Miss Caroma Winn and Miss Gertrude Della Torre, Miss Martha Bayard and Miss Jessie Gott, and Mrs. Percy Wilbourne and Mrs. E. H. Thompson. Miss Bayard and Miss Gott won their initial match in two well played 6—4 sets from Mrs. W. H. Pritchard and Miss Lillian Sharman.

The summaries:

Singles, Second Round—Mrs. F. G. Schmitz defeated Mrs. B. F. Stenz, 3—6, 9—7, 6—3. Third Round—Mrs. E. A. Falk defeated Miss Helen Simpson, 6—4, 6—0; Miss Lillian Sharman defeated Miss Madeleine Westervelt, 6—1, 6—2; Miss Rene Christy defeated Miss Henrietta Gawron, 6—3, 6—3; Mrs. D. C. Mills defeated Mrs. G. B. Stanwix, 7—5, 6—2; Miss Caroma Winn defeated Miss Florence Sheldon, 6—2, 6—1; Miss Mary Hurd defeted Mrs. H. V. Kaltenborn, 6—2, 6—2; Mrs. T. J. Strauss won from Mrs. E. H. Thompson by default.

Doubles, First Round—Miss Adele Cragin and Miss Ceres Baker won from Miss Henriette Gawron and Miss Irene Samuelson by default; Mrs. H. V. Kaltenborn and Mrs. Walker Fulcher defeated Miss R. F. Maisel and Miss Hermiule Niederman, 6—2, 6—0; Miss Marie Wagner and Mrs. B. F. Stenz defeated Mrs. Ingo Hartmann and Mrs. C. C. Parsons, 6—0, 6—0; Mrs. Percy Wilbourne and Mrs. E. H. Thompson defeated Mrs. G. B. Stanwix and Miss Helen Simpson, 5—7, 6—2, 6—3; Miss Caroma Winn and Miss Gertrude Della Torre won from Mrs. L. G. Morris and Mrs. B. F. Briggs by default; Miss Louise B. Cottus and Miss Caroline Robinson defeated Mrs. C. Clarke and Mrs. J. O'Rourke, 6—3, 7—5; Miss Martha Bayard and Miss Jessie Gott defeated Mrs. W. H. Pritchard and Miss Lillian Sharman, 6—4, 6—4; Mrs. L. G. Schmitz and Mrs. A. Humphries defeated Miss Adelaide Hooker and Miss Helen Hooker, 6—3, 6—1.

RACQUETS DRAW MADE.

Gould and Wear Have Dixon and Reynolds for First Opponents.

BOSTON, March 8.—Drawings for the United States amateur doubles racquets championship tournament, to be held here beginning Friday, were announced today. Jay Gould and J. W. Wear of Philadelphia, the champions, will oppose Homer Dixon and Earl R. Reynolds of Chicago; G. R. Fearing Jr. and Philip Stockton of Boston will play Maurice Heckscher and Hewitt Morgan of New York, Constantine Hutchins and Roger W. Cutler of Boston will meet C. C. Pell and Stanley G. Mortimer of New York, and Fulton Cutting and F. T. Frelinghuysen of New York will play against Paul E. Gardner and Howard Lund of Chicago.

GOULD HOLDS TITLE AS CLUB CHAMPION

Squash Tennis Star Defeats Bulkley in Class A Tourney on Columbia Courts.

Jay Gould, court tennis champion and runner-up for the national title in squash tennis, retained his title as squash tennis champion of the Columbia Club by taking three straight games from H. Duncan Bulkley in the final round of the club's Class A tournament, by scores of 15—2, 15—1, 15—4. Gould won his way into the final by victories over E. W. Putnam, F. H. Simonds Jr. and I. H. Cornell. Bulkley found his stiffest opposition in the semi-final round when he met W. A. Kimbel and won by 4—15, 18—13, 18—15, 15—7. Bulkley had previously vanquished a former club champion in the person of Lyle E. Mahan by scores of 4—15, 17—15, 15—0. Gould played unbeatable squash in the final, outguessing and outsmashing Bulkley in all three games.

The Columbia Club's Class B tournament was reduced to nine contestants yesterday. They are H. V. Mahon, Willis Putnam, Harold Burt, L. A. Coffin, K. Kurhardt, Harold Kellock, W. A. Kimbel, Beech Whitlock and F. D. Shaw.

Good progress was also made yesterday in the Class A tournament for the championship of the Harvard Club. Among the survivors of a field of twenty-three entries are Anderson Dana, Ralph G. Coburn, W. Prentice Sanger, A. H. Tomes and P. M. Morrison. Coburn had a strenuous time beating R. S. Whitlock, runner-up for the Class B national title. Coburn won by 18—15, 7—15, 15—6, in one of the hardest matches that the tournament has produced. The Harvard Club's Class B tournament started with forty-eight entries. F. S Ritchie, A. M. Hyde and E. P. Pierce gained their brackets in the round before the semi-finals yesterday. The tournament for the championship of the Yale Club will start on March 21.

WANT TENNIS HOME RULE.

Local Clubs In New Metropolitan Centre Adopt Slogan.

Home rule for local tennis clubs is the slogan of the new Metropolitan Tennis Centre, the organization of which is to be completed at a meeting on Saturday at the Hotel McAlpin. All clubs within a radius of thirty-five miles of New York, and including the whole of Long Island, have been invited to enter the centre as charter members. The centre is designed not only to aid each club member in its local activities, but to give it a greater voice in the proceedings of the National Association than could be possible under the old arrangement.

Announcement was made yesterday of the plan of government to be submitted at the forthcoming meeting. This plan was drawn up by the Committee on Organization, of which Haddon Ivins is Chairman. It is designed to have an executive committee made up of the four officers, President, Vice President, Secretary and Treasurer, and of the representatives from the following subdivisions of the centre: Manhattan and the Bronx, Counties of Kings and Queens, Long Island, exclusive of Kings and Queens, Westchester and Conecticut, New Jersey and Staten Island.

The executive committeeman from each subdivision will be Chairman of a home committee of three in each section so that each section wil have supervision of its own tennis, with due responsibility to the central organization. Thirty-two clubs were represented in the initial meeting of the organization, and it is expected that this number will be greatly increased next Saturday.

Friends Seminary Five Wins.

The Friends Seminary basketball team of New York defeated its closest rival, the Brooklyn Friends' School quintet here yesterday afternoon by a score of 28 to 22. Wright of the New York five was the star of the game and did most to lengthen the winning team's total.

FEDERALIZED POLICE IS ENRIGHT'S PLAN

Conference of Chiefs of All Cities Over 10,000 to Be Held on May 2.

FIFTY AT MEETING HERE

Up-State, Jersey and Connecticut Men Pledge Co-operation With Local Force.

A plan for the federalization of police methods was outlined yesterday by Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright at a conference at the Police Club here of about fifty police chiefs from up-State, New Jersey and Connecticut. Commissioner Enright announced that the police heads of all cities of 10,000 or more population would be invited to a conference here on May 2, with a national co-operative police plan as the objective. The expense of the convention, which will close with the police parade on May 7, will be borne by the New York department.

Co-ordination and standardization of police methods was the chief topic yesterday and a sympathetic understanding of the police problem was indicated by those in attendance. Commissioner Enright's plan involves the co-ordination of laws and ordinances and the establishment of a central source of police information to aid in the rounding up of criminals.

Enright Describes Plan.

Declaring that criminality was a disease and should be segregated rather than scattered, Commissioner Enright asserted that when the plan was perfected "we will make this territory as uncomfortable for the criminal element as it is humanly possible to be." He also predicted the establishment of a central police organization operating under the Federal Government to serve the cities and States without interfering with their autonomy.

"Nationalization of police records must be perfected so that radicals and criminals of all types may be properly located and labeled. If such a method had been in execution the Wall Street explosion never would have occurred," he said.

"I feel sure that the experiment to be made in this territory will result in the nationalization of the police business. Under the proposed plan the telephone companies of New York and New Jersey have offered their co-operation. Information will be quickly exchanged and immediately handled and co-operation will be perfected both for the apprehension of criminals and for the recovery of stolen property. When the plan is in working order it will be impossible for a thief to get out of the cordon of cities with a stolen automobile."

Mayor Hylan declared there was a gross lack of co-operation between police departments, and promised his support for any plan that would be worked out. Incidentally, he remarked: "We have been endeavoring to break up whatever connection there might have been between the underworld and Police Headquarters and I believe that this has been accomplished under Commissioner Enright."

Charles Fitzmorris, Chicago's Chief of Police, who came here to attend a skating meet, thought crime was a little better organized than police departments. The Chicago auto thief could dispose of his loot in Cleveland, while the Cleveland thief sold cars in Chicago, and it long had been the police practice, he added, "to clean your own doorsteps and dump the refuse on others."

Chief Inspector Lahey Praised.

Chief Inspector William J. Lahey, who was recently suspended from the department when he was charged with accepting on behalf of a patrolman a reward from which the proper deductions for the Police Pension Fund were not made, was introduced by Commissioner Enright as "the head of 11,000 men in the department, who rose from the ranks, and who is the most efficient and best that the city has ever produced." The need for co-operation, Inspector Lahey said, was very great. Individual co-operation between detectives of various cities already existed to a considerable extent, he said, but this really reacted to the detriment of team work.

A committee of fifteen members was appointed to perfect plans for the police co-operation in the metropolitan and neighboring districts.

A resolution of endorsement of the Enright administration of police affairs, submitted by Chief W. Atwell of Mount Vernon, was unanimously adopted.

TWO HELD FOR FRAUD IN PEDDLERS' BADGES

Inspector of License Bureau and Former Employe Said to Have Fleeced Aliens.

Charged with selling badges to alien peddlers who could not secure licenses, Don St. John of 522 Herkimer Street, Brooklyn, an Inspector for six years in the Bureau of Licenses, and George Ringler of 66 Essex Street, a newspaper photographer, were arraigned yesterday before Magistrate Bernard A. Rosenblatt in the Essex Market Court. St. John was held in $500 bail and Ringler in $200. Assistant District Attorney Rose Rothenberg said last night that she believed men either within the License Bureau or outside were doing a thriving business in these badges.

Following the receipt of complaints that peddlers without licenses were carrying badges, Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield ordered an inquiry, which was said to have implicated Ringler.

Jacob Baum, a peddler of 93 Ludlow Street, said that he had paid the photographer $50 for a badge. Ringler at one time was connected with the bureau as a special investigator.

COL. LUCAS KILLS HIMSELF.

Ex-Commander of New York Engineers Despondent Since Wife Died.

Colonel Eugene W. Van C. Lucas, a civil engineer and former commander of the Twenty-second Regiment of Engineers, New York National Guard, shot and killed himself in his room at 116 West Sixty-ninth Street early yesterday morning. Since he suffered a nervous breakdown two years ago he had been under treatment by Dr. Thomas D'Arcy Lucas of 155 West Eighty-fifth Street. He was found by Mrs. Lydia Sheppard, his landlady, with a bullet wound in his forehead, and died before the arrival of Dr. Lucas, who was called.

Colonel Lucas, who was born in Mount Vernon, graduated from West Point in 1887, ranking third in his class. In 1906 he retired with the rank of Major and devoted himself to engineering work. During the Spanish war Colonel Lucas, then a Major, was assigned as divisional engineer of volunteers.

He became Chief of Engineers of the New York National Guard in 1912, and was later assigned to command the Twenty-second Engineers. In 1916 he went to the Mexican border with the Twenty-second Engineers, and following their return he retired. When this country entered the World War Colonel Lucas was again placed on the active list and was sent to Camp Meade, Md. He retired after the signing of the armistice and came to live in this city.

WHITMAN JURY HEARS CITY CONTRACT CASE

Ex-Governor's Aid Continues Inquiry Into Rewards Paid to Detectives—Police Trials Delayed.

More evidence relating to city contracts was presented to the Grand Jury yesterday by ex-Governor Charles S. Whitman. Among the witnesses were two contractors, William Charlesworth, 840 West End Avenue, and Joseph Marrone, St. Nicholas Avenue and 116th Street, and an insurance adjuster, H. W. Sherwood, 68 William Street. Former Street Cleaning Commissioner Arnold B. MacStay was present but was not called. Mr. Whitman said he hoped to finish the matter in hand tomorrow.

William Chilvers, assistant to Mr. Whitman, continued his inquiry yesterday into rewards paid to detectives for the recovery of stolen stocks and bonds. He examined the books of about twenty bond houses and found one entry of a large reward paid to two detectives. He will continue this inquiry today.

Several trials of police officers were postponed yesterday. Judge C. C. Nott Jr. postponed until Friday the trials of Police Captain William A. Bailey, charged with accepting an unlawful fee, and Patrolmen Robert A. O'Brien and Cornelius J. Flood, charged with the murder of James Cushing, 16 years old, in July, 1918.

Mr. Whitman and Assistant District Attorney George N. Brothers said they were not ready. Mr. Whitman made a brief statement to the court ending "and the prosecution is not ready to betray its hand."

Judge Otto A. Rosalsky put over for two weeks the trials of former Detectives John J. Gunson and Joseph Mooney, charged with bribery and extortion in connection with the alleged payment of vice graft money. At the same time the case against Frederick Franklin, a plain clothes patrolman, charged with a similar offense, was marked ready and passed pending a further investigation by Assistant District Attorney Joab H. Banton, who will determine whether the case should be prosecuted or dismissed for lack of evidence.

MODELS CLAMOR FOR PAY.

Inquiry Today Into "Revue de Fashion," and Promoter Is Sought.

Interesting developments are expected today at the investigation Assistant District Attorney Smith will conduct into the activities of men behind the "Revue de Fashion," held last week in the Pennsylvania Hotel.

"Several persons whom I desire to question about the affair cannot be found," said Mr. Smith yesterday, "but I have learned that about $15,000 was obtained. I don't know how that money was divided nor how many persons shared in it, although I do know that many who subscribed toward the fashion fund are clamoring for their money.

"Whether any crime has been committed depends on developments at the inquiry tomorrow. If I could find John Channing Bernard, the man who was alleged to be the head of the 'Revue de Fashion,' many things perhaps could be explained. The name of a lawyer frequently has been mentioned by persons who believe that they have been victimized. He was said to have shared the receipts with Bernard, but no proof has been developed.

"I have invited several persons to call tomorrow. Among them will be Miss Lillian McIntyre, at the head of a committee of three of the sixty girls who appeared as models and who said they received no pay."

ACCUSED POLICE UNCAUGHT.

Inspector Cannot Identify Three Accused of Disorderly Conduct.

Inspector Thomas Underhill of the Fourth Inspection District said last night that the investigation he is conducting has failed to disclose the identity of the three policemen alleged to have been drunk and disorderly near the Blue Point Oyster and Chop House, 161 East Forty-second Street, early Monday morning.

J. Henry Smythe Jr., Executive Secretary of the Benjamin Franklin Memorial Committee, who made the complaint against the policemen, one of whom, he says, seized him and was about to strike him when he shouted a warning about his glasses, said yesterday that if the police are unable to find out the names of the offenders there is something radically wrong with the Police Department.

The police were told the names of several persons, in addition to Mr. Smythe, who saw the condition of the policemen, and Inspector Underhill said last night that he expected to go to the bottom of the affair.

OPPOSE WOMEN USHERS.

Fire Chiefs Say They Lack Judgment in Emergencies.

CHICAGO, March 8.—Women ushers in theatres lack judgment in times of emergency, and this is not conducive to public safety, according to 85 per cent. of the city Fire Marshals of the country, who have replied to a questionnaire sent out by Alderman J. O. Kostner, Chairman of the City Council Buildings Committee.

Not one of the answers favored women as ushers in theatres, the other 15 per cent. being indirect.

"Women would not be of any value in case of trouble with a crowd," wrote John McNarrey, the Kansas City fire chief. Edward Grenfell of Portland, Ore., answered that "men ushers were safer."

Simon J. Fennell of Rochester, N. Y., wrote: "I do not think women show as good judgment as men ushers, nor are they as reliable in case of an emergency."

FORD STORE FRAUD CHARGED

Investigator Asserts Employes Got $30,000, Using Bogus Charge Slips.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, March 8.—Employes of the Ford Motor Company have defrauded the company's retail store of more than $30,000 in one month, Thomas Kelley, an investigator, asserted today. John Zukowski and Frank Sokol, employes, and Hektor Podlowskowski, a printer, are held on charges of larceny, but Kelley asserts several others are implicated.

Counterfeit charge slips were used in recording purchases, and Zukowski and Podlowskowski, it is charged, evolved the plan, the latter printing the tickets. At the Ford store each purchaser receives a ticket on which is endorsed the value and description of his purchases. He takes this ticket to a cashier, where his purchase is charged. The counterfeit tickets, showing small purchases, would be presented to the cashier, it is alleged, instead of the real ticket showing a much larger amount.

IDA VON CLAUSSEN IN CELL.

Woman Once Ejected from White House Held for Auto Sale.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 8.—Ida von Claussen, said to bear the married name of Mrs. Raymond Maybury, who was ejected from the White House by order of ex-President Roosevelt, spent last night in a cell here.

She was arrested on a State warrant issued in Newark charging her with breach of contract. According to the police she purchased an automobile there and sold it before completing payment. Her arrest was brought about through her application at headquarters for the arrest of a person alleged to have stolen a trunk from her.

Is Your Factory Running Upside Down?

That is not an absurd question. Up to a year or two ago, textile mill owners might have thought that it was. Now some of them know that it is a serious business—a grim matter of dollars-and-cents profit—a question involving greatly increased production in the same space at a lower cost.

Within the past few years a new principle has been developed which literally has turned textile mills upside down. Instead of preliminary processes stating on the ground floor—which has been the rule for generations—a scientific study of routing and conveying, places these earlier processes on the top floor; the product progresses downward via mechanical conveyors in a continuous stream.

This steady, uninterrupted flow of materials through any plant, this shortest distance between the receiving and the shipping room, is the pathway of efficiency—of making the most money in the shortest time for all concerned—for labor, for owners, and for customers.

Perhaps your plant, factory, or business is partially or altogether upside down. Or it may be possible to revolutionize your production methods with Lamson Conveyors and not change the position of a single machine.

The principle of mechanical conveyance can be applied in many businesses. Let the Lamson representatives find out if it fits yours. They will investigate your methods of production and develop a system for conveying your materials mechanically. If they convince you that it is profitable for you to change to a Lamson System, it doesn't mean that your factory will be shut down. Lamson Systems generally can be installed unit by unit; each one beginning to pay for itself as soon as installed.

Important Change--Automobile Collision Insurance

Aetna Casualty & Surety Co.
Automobile Insurance Co. of Hartford, Conn.

NEW YORK BRANCH, 100 WILLIAM ST.,

will discontinue writing Full Coverage Collision Insurance on all cars located within the Boroughs of Manhattan, Bronx and Brooklyn and will accept only risks under the $50 and $100 Deductible forms.

The Aetna believes that the elimination of the sale of Full Coverage Collision will benefit the auto owner because added care in motor car operation will reduce accidents, decrease insurance cost and benefit the public because of improved conditions of street safety.

Automobile owners desiring to cooperate with plans for increased safety in motor car operation should consult their Insurance Brokers with regard to the above change and also for information as to how the premium saved by Deductible Collision will purchase far more important protection against other risks and save insurance premium besides for the Insured.

MELLON DECLARES ECONOMY URGENT

Secretary of the Treasury Exhorts the Greatest Care in Federal Expenditures.

PUBLIC DEBT INCREASED

Up $262,816,560 Since Dec. 31 —$400,000,000 Treasury Certificates to Be Offered.

NATIONAL FINANCES SOUND

A Surplus of Receipts for the Entire Fiscal Year Is Predicted.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The greatest care and economy in expenditures by the Government must be used, said Andrew W. Mellon, the new Secretary of the Treasury, today. In a review of Government finances up to Feb. 28, sent to banking institutions through the country, Secretary Mellon stated that the combined gross and floating debts had increased by $262,816,560 since Dec. 31. He remarked:

"The country's finances are sound, but the situation calls for the utmost economy."

In connection with the March 15 offering of Treasury certificates, Secretary Mellon tells the bankers that about $808,000,000 of national debt will come due in March, in addition to the current expenses of the Government. Returns from income and profits taxes are relied upon to make up part of this, and the expectation is that they will about offset the March 15 maturities of principal and interest. To meet the rest of the debts, the Treasury will offer certificates to the amount of $400,000,000.

Current operations of the Government show that in the first eight months of the fiscal year, up to Feb. 28, there has been an excess of receipts over disbursements of $186,115,505. A total of $2,225,000,000 has been spent for the War and Navy Departments, the railroad guarantees and interest on the public debt within that period. In all receipts have been $3,433,411,141, and disbursements $3,247,295,635.

Secretary Mellon predicts that there will be a surplus of receipts not only for the first three-quarters of the fiscal year ending March 31, but for the total year.

Text of Secretary's Letter.

His letter reads:

"March 9, 1921.

"Dear Sir: At the outset of my administration of the Treasury I am addressing this leter to the banking institutions of the country to inform them of the state of the nation's finances, the probable requirements of the Treasury for the coming months and its financial plans for the immediate future.

"About $500,000,000 of Treasury certificates of indebtedness mature on March 15, 1921, and about $118,000,000 additional on April 15, 1921. On March 15, 1921, there will become payable the semi-annual interest on the Third Liberty Loan, amounting to about $76,000,000. The Treasury must also make large payments under the recent legislation authorizing partial payments on account of the railroad guarantee, which may amount to as much as $200,000,000 during the course of the next month.

"In order to meet these heavy requirements, and at the same time provide for the current expenses of the Government, the Treasury relies in large part upon the quarterly instalment of income and profits taxes due March 15, 1921. Advance payments of March taxes have been up to expectations, and though it is impossible to forecast the results with certainty, the Treasury has good reason to hope that income and profits tax payments during March will about balance the March 15 maturities of principal and interest.

"To provide for its further requirements, the Treasury has decided, on the basis of the best available estimates, to offer treasury certificates of indebtedness in the amount of $400,000,000, or thereabouts, in two series, both dated March 15, 1921, one series designated T. S. 2-1921, bearing 5½ per cent. interest, maturing Sept. 15, 1921, and the other series designated T. M. 1922, bearing 5¾ per cent. interest and maturing March 15, 1922. Applications for Treasury certificates of these series will be received in regular course through the several Federal Reserve banks, as fiscal agents of the United States, from which full particulars concerning the offering may be obtained.

"Treasury certificates of the series which mature on March 15, 1921, and April 15, 1921, will be accepted at par, with an adjustment of accrued interest in payment for any certificates of the two series now offered which may be subscribed for and allotted.

Surplus for Eight Months Shown.

"On the basis of the Treasury daily statements, the current operations of the Government during the first eight months of the fiscal year through Feb. 28, 1921, show a net current surplus (excess of ordinary receipts over ordinary disbursements) amounting to $186,315,505.53. This showing is particularly encouraging in view of the fact that during these eight months there have been extraordinarily heavy expenditures, but only two quarterly payments of income and profits taxes.

"Ordinary receipts up to Feb. 28, 1921, have amounted to $3,433,411,141.36, as against ordinary disbursements during the same period of $3,247,295,635.83 (or at the rate of almost $5,000,000,000 a year). Of these disbursements about $750,000,000 have represented expenditures of the War Department, about $450,000,000 expenditures of the Navy Department, about $475,000,000 payments to the railroads under the Transportation act, 1920, and about $550,000,000 payments of interest on the public debt—a total of about $2,225,000,000 under these four main headings.

"In the four months which remain of the fiscal year there will be two further quarterly payments of income and profi s taxes, both based on the business of the calendar year 1920. While it is impossible to estimate these tax payments with accuracy, and the prospects are that expenditures will continue heavy for some time to come, the Treasury expects that the operations of the first three quarters of the year, through March 31, 1921, as well as the completed year's operations, will show some surplus of receipts over expenditures.

"The gross debt of the Government on Feb. 28, 1921, amounted to $24,051,684,728.28, on the basis of Treasury daily statements, while on the same date the floating debt (loan and tax certificates unmatured) amounted to $2,484,032,000. These figures contrast with a gross debt on Dec. 31, 1920, of $23,982,224,168.16, and a floating debt on the same date of $2,300,656,000. As a result of the Treasury's operations, on March 15, 1921, these increases in gross debt and floating debt (which are to be expected in the odd months when no quarterly income and profits tax payments are made), should be largely offset and perhaps overcome.

Big Railroad Payments Coming.

"The progress to be made during the balance of the current year in the retirement of gross debt and floating debt will depend, of course, upon the extent of the demands made upon the Treasury and the volume of its receipts from taxes and salvage. This progress is likely to be seriously limited by reason of the heavy railroad payments to be expected during the next two or three months.

"These figures as to the public debt and the current operations of the Treasury show that the country's finances are sound, but that the situation calls for the utmost economy. The nation cannot afford extravagance, and so far as possible it must avoid entering upon new fields of expenditure. The heavy requirements of the Government on account of necessary expenditures, including interest and sinking fund on the public debt, and the maturity of $7,500,000,000 of short-date debt within the next two years or thereabouts make it imperative that the greatest care and economy be exercised in matters affecting Government expenditures.

"The people generally must become more interested in saving the Government's money than in spending it. A thoroughgoing national budget system must be established, and the Government's expenses brought into relation to its income.

"The period which has elapsed since the last quarterly instalment of income and profits taxes has been marked by important developments in the market for Treasury certificates of indebtedness. On Jan. 15, 1921, the Treasury successfully sold an offering of three-months 5½ per cent. certificates and nine-months 5¾ per cent. certificates. On Feb. 15, 1921, an offering of five-months 5½ per cent. certificates was likewise promptly oversubscribed.

Investors Buying Certificates.

"Treasury certificates of indebtedness now enjoy a broad and active market, on a straight investment basis, and all issues now outstanding are quoted in the open market either at par or at a premium. The last three months have also been marked by still further distribution of Treasury certificates among investors and a reduction in holdings of Treasury certificates by banks. The reporting member banks of the Federal Reserve system (about 825 banks in leading cities, which are believed to control about 40 per cent. of the commercial bank resources of the country and to have subscribed in the first instance for about 75 per cent. of the Treasury certificates of indebtedness now outstanding) held on Feb. 25, 1921, only about $235,000,000 of Treasury certificates, as compared with reported holdings on Nov. 26, 1920, of about $313,000,000, and on Feb. 27, 1920, of about $673,000,000.

"On March 4, 1921, the Federal Reserve Board reported that there were pledged with the Federal Reserve banks only about $110,000,000 of Treasury certificates to secure loans and discounts, or less than 5 per cent. of the aggregate amount of loan and tax certificates then outstanding. These figures strikingly show the success of the efforts which have been made for the last year or more to bring about a distribution of Treasury certificates among real investors and to keep them out of the banks.

"The two series of six months and twelve months certificates now offered are both acceptable in payment of income and profits taxes, and should prove peculiarly attractive to taxpayers as well as to persons having idle funds awaiting investment. I know that I can count, like my predecessors in office, on your hearty co-operation in the distribution and sale of Treasury certificates, and hope that, as in the past, you will subscribe liberally in the first instance for the certificates and use your best efforts to resell them to investors.

"Cordially yours,

"A. W. MELLON,

"Secretary of the Treasury."

ATTEMPT TO MEDIATE ATLANTA RAIL STRIKE

Federal Commissioners Are Hopeful, but All Trains on Road Remain at a Standstill.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 8.—Conferences through which the Federal Mediation Board hopes to settle the wage reduction strike on the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic Railway continued here today but with no announcement from any of the parties concerned as to results.

The fourth day of the strike found service on the road at a standstill, only one train having been operated since the company employes struck last Saturday, but W. L. Chambers, Commissioner of the Mediation Board, appeared hopeful of a final settlement. He and Whitehead Kluttse, Assistant Commissioner, met with Colonel B. L. Bugg, receiver of the road, today and also talked with members of the joint committee of the brotherhoods and crafts involved.

"We have held brief conferences," said Mr. Chambers. "We have proceeded only in a preliminary way, however, and cannot make an announcement as to progress. We expect to hold further conferences during Wednesday."

He would give no estimate as to the time the conferences might take place.

Truck lines have been instituted by the Post Office Department to reach Alabama and Georgia towns on the road that have no other rail lines to depend on, and it was expected this service would be continued. No official announcement as to prospects of resuming service has been made by the receiver, although it was said steps are being taken to examine candidates for places as trainmen.

OPPOSES MILLER BILL.

But Harlem Chamber of Commerce Approves Transit Commission.

The Harlem Board of Commerce, at the end of a two-hour discussion in its rooms, 290 Lenox Avenue, last night, went on record, with but two dissenting votes, as opposed to the so-called Miller Transit bill now before the Legislature, but subsequently adopted a resolution approving that portion of the bill "providing for a transit commission which will improve transit conditions in New York City, reserving all rights and interests which the city now possesses and providing private operation for its transit lines."

Middletown Carpenters at Work.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., March 8.—Carpenters signed an agreement this afternoon with the Building Trades Union here, effective at once, to run for one year, whereby 250 carpenters return to work. This is the result of a private conference between carpenters and builders. The terms of the agreement are being kept secret, but it is stated that concessions were made by each of the parties. The masons and hod carriers will meet the builders next week.

Motion Pictures Show Fliers Killed Wild Duck Unlawfully

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 8.—Pictures in a motion picture news weekly showing an airplane crashing into a flock of wild ducks, and which were taken near Colusa last October, resulted today in the filing of criminal proceedings here against Louis Hutt, photographer; Lieutenant Harry Halvorson of San Francisco, J. M. Fetters, commercial aviator, and Richard Done.

The complaint was filed by Charles S. Hauser, chief of the Government division in charge of violations of the Migratory Bird act, and charges the men hunted ducks in airplanes in violation of this act.

Letters protesting against this method of hunting were forwarded to Washington and an agent was sent to California to investigate.

INDUSTRIAL BOARD CHANGES DISCUSSED

Governor Hears Opponents and Supporters of His Plan for Reorganization.

LABOR FEDERATION OBJECTS

Present Commission Also Voices Opposition—Manufacturers and Senator Knight Uphold Measure.

ALBANY, March 8.—Organized labor, representatives of the State Industrial Commission and spokesmen for the City Club of New York City, the Women's Municipal League and the Consumers' League appeared before Governor Miller today in opposition to the Knight-Brady bill, designed to reorganize the State Industrial Commission, which is now before the Governor for approval.

The measure was defended by Senator Knight, Chairman of the Special Legislative Committee which has been studying the labor laws, and by Mark A. Daly, representing the Associated Industries.

President James P. Holland and John M. O'Hanlon of the State Federation of Labor presented a brief embodying organized labor's objections to the measure; Bernard I. Shientag, counsel for the Industrial Commission, submitted a brief from Edward F. Boyle, its Chairman and Miss Frances Perkins, a member of the commission, spoke in opposition to the bill.

The opponents argued that enactment of the measure would break down the existing labor laws which are the product of thirty years' study and legislation and that the bill does not embody the Governor's reorganization recommendations in that it leaves with the proposed single Industrial Commissioner the reorganization of the Labor Department.

"The announcement that the appropriation for next year will be cut to $1,500,000 makes it certain that many features of the work now performed by the Industrial Commission must be discontinued," said Miss Perkins. "There is no real economy for people of this State in reducing the tax rate by a tenth of a mill if a great department handling a problem new almost in our civilization, namely the regulation of modern mechanistic industrial life, is left without the force or the obligation to do those things which if done now will prevent that harvest of disease, fatigue, unhappiness and social unrest which will surely be the inheritance of the next generation if we who are charged with the responsibility of controlling life during our own generation do not fulfill our part.

Senator Knight's argument was a general reply to the specific objections. Mr. Daly asserted that four or five years' experience with the Industrial Commission as at present constituted had convinced the members of his organization that its administration had been a failure. "It is good business," said he, "to substitute the so-called overhead plan for bureaucratic control, and we believe that great economies may be effected thereby."

DENOUNCE RAYHER BILL AT ALBANY HEARING

Speakers Attack Proposal to Penalize Strictures on Groups, Races or Denominations.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 8.—Assemblyman Edward R. Rayher of New York, was the only one to appear before the Assembly Code Committee at a public hearing today to defend the bill making it a crime to hold up a group, race or religious denomination to hatred, contempt, ridicule or obloquy," which he had introduced.

Among those who appeared to oppose the enactment of the bill were Assemblyman Louis M. Martin of Oneida, Chairman of the Assembly Judiciary Committee, ex-Senator Martin Saxe, who spoke for the Publishers' Association, Canon William Sheafe Chase of Brooklyn, and some up-State newspaper editors, including Lynn J. Arnold of the Knickerbocker Press and Charles F. Willoughby of the Albany Journal.

Speakers branded the Rayher bill as a "gag" measure which would prevent newspapers from doing their full duty to the public or penalize them if they did.

"This bill," said Assemblyman Ernest A. Cole of Steuben, "would make criminals of almost every writer living, not to mention publishers of books by writers dead. Nearly every book published would constitute a violation of the penal law if this bill were to be enacted."

Chairman Martin of the Judiciary Committee denounced the bill as a piece of particularly pernicious and dangerous legislation, and urged the committee not to report it.

SHIPYARDS REDUCE WAGES.

Atlantic Coast Builders Announce 10 Per Cent. Cuts.

PHILADELPHIA, March 8.—Shipyard wage reductions approximating 10 per cent. were embodied in a revised schedule of rates submitted today by the shipbuilders at a joint meeting held here under the leadership of the Atlantic Coast Shipbuilding Industrial Board, attended by representatives of shipyards on the Atlantic seaboard and Gulf of Mexico, and by international officers of labor unions affiliated with the metal trades department of the American Federation of Labor.

Clarence Samuel King, Secretary of the Atlantic Coast Shipbuilders' Association, explained that the proposed readjustment of shipyard wage rates would be made effective Monday in twelve yards signatory to an agreement with the metal trades department, under which the Joint Industrial Board was created.

In addition to a 10 per cent. cut in hourly rates, the shipyards plan to eliminate the existing allowance of 10 per cent. over the old piecework schedule established at the beginning of the war and later increased by the Government.

It is further planned to establish intermediate rates and correct certain existing inconsistencies in the present piecework rates.

CRIES ROUT THREE ROBBERS

Man Slashed in Hold-Up Identifies Alleged Assailant in Station.

Charles W. Parsons of 325 West Fifty-eighth Street and two friends were passing Eighth Avenue and Forty-sixth Street early this morning when three men stepped from a doorway and ordered all hands up. Two of them pointed pistols and the third menaced Parsons and his companions with a knife. Parsons grabbed the knife, which badly lacerated his hand. The three friends yelled and the hold-up men ran.

A policeman arrested William McGarvin of 127 West Twenty-fifth Street, who denied participation, but Parsons, after an ambulance surgeon had dressed his injury, is said to have identified the prisoner. Soon thereafter Jack Friedman, living at the Mills Hotel, complained of having been robbed of $2 by hold-up men. He was sent to the West Forty-seventh Street station, where the police said he, too, identified McGarvin.

Constabulary Bill Passed at Trenton; End of a 12 Years' Conflict in New Jersey

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, March 8.—The House this afternoon passed the bill by Senator Case of Somerset County providing for the establishment of a State constabularly, along the general lines of that in Pennsylvania. The vote was 37 for the bill and 13 against it.

Enactment of the law ends a fight of about twelve years for this kind of a police force. Organized labor vigorously opposed the measure, but its leaders were unable to get enough votes in either the House or Senate to defeat the bill.

The bill provides for two troops of constabulary, with a director at an annual salary of $5,000. The troopers will be paid $1,200 a year, and will be equipped with horses and motor cycles. There is an appropriation of $800,000 to establish the force. The bill also provides that the director, Captain and Lieutenants of the constabulary shall have served at least two years in the United States Army, with a rank not below that of Lieutenant.

'DRY' LAW TEST VOTE ALARMS SUPPORTERS

ONLY 75 AID THE LEADERS

Overnight Drive Is Begun to Assure Needed Majority for Third Reading Today.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 8.—The first test vote in the Assembly today on the Gage-Mullan bills carrying out Governor Miller's recommendations for State enforcement of the Federal prohibition law was anything but reassuring to the leaders charged with forcing the measure through.

The bills came up for second reading, after being reported with amendments from the Excise Committee. Only 75 votes could be mustered in favor of advancing them to third reading, as the result of a revolt within the Republican majority. Twenty-nine Republican Assemblymen from New York City and Buffalo refused to vote for advancement of the measure. The vote stood 75 to 55.

While this number was sufficient to send the bill along to another stage of legislative procedure, an identical vote tomorrow, when, under ordinary circumstances, the bills should have their third reading, would not be enough to pass them, the Constitutional majority required for passage being 76.

The disappointment of the leaders over today's vote is not minimized by the fact that at a caucus of the Republican Assemblymen, held after yesterday's night session, it was decided to make the Gage-Mullan bills a party measure. The Assemblymen from New York City to a man left the meeting before caucus rules, which would have bound them to abide by the result, were established.

The vote today was on three bills, companions in the Governor's scheme. With the bills caucus measures, the leaders should have no difficulty in getting the necessary number of votes to pass them, but the disappointing showing today has made them apprehensive, even though there are ninety Republican members of the Assembly in addition to the twenty-nine who have revolted.

Whether the bills will come up for final passage tomorrow depends entirely on what assurances the leaders receive over night. Their drive for votes is now on and drastic measures will be employed if necessary to whip members of the seemingly reluctant majority into line.

A short debate between the majority and minority leaders preceded the advancement of the bills. Republicans voting against advancement were Aronson, Baum, Bly, Borkowski, Caulfield, Doherty, Druss, Dipirro, Fox Gempell, Glacone, Halpern, Hawkins, Lieberman, J. G. Moore, Morrissey, Moses, Mullen, Neary, Nichols, Rayher, Reiss, Seelbach, Steinberg, Stitt, Ullman, Wallace and Warren.

BEER FOR MEDICINE GETS AID OF PALMER

Ruling, Made at Last Minute by Retiring Official, Gives Hope to Breweries.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, March 8.—The prohibition lid was removed today from beer with "a kick" when used for medicinal purposes.

A ruling from the Department of Justice, bearing the signature of A. Mitchell Palmer as Attorney General and made public today for the first time, permits physicians to prescribe beer when the use of it will aid in recovery from illness. It is said that physicians will be allowed wide latitude in prescribing it.

New regulations will, it is expected, be adopted by the Internal Revenue Department to make the ruling effective.

The decision is the climax of a considerable amount of discussion between officials of the Government. Prohibition Commissioner Kramer opposed such a ruling on the ground that it would mean merely the loosening of the machinery to enforce prohibition and that the operation of the breweries and the sale of their products would be difficult to control.

Several Baltimore breweries have been pressing Prohibition Commissioner Richard S. Dodson for some time for a ruling on their right to manufacture beer with a "kick" to be supplied on physicians' prescriptions. Mr. Dodson sent such requests to Washington only a few days ago.

ALBANY, March 8.—Lawmakers were told this afternoon that enactment of proposed legislation which would in effect restrict treatment of drug addicts to institutions, would result in increasing underworld traffic and force untold sufferings on victims of the drug habit who now resort to family physicians for treatment.

SEEKING TO AMEND TRANSIT MEASURE

City Republican Leaders Urge Changes on Miller to Avoid Higher-Fare Issue.

GET LITTLE SATISFACTION

Committees Discussing Amendments Hope to Report the Measure Before End of Week.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 8.—The Republican leaders in New York City have subjected Governor Miller today to renewed pressure with a view to gaining his consent to amendments in the transit bill which they hope will eliminate the higher fare and home rule issue from the municipal campaign this Fall.

Samuel S. Koenig, Chairman of the New York County Committee, came to the Capitol as their spokesman. He had a conference with Governor Miller this afternoon of more than an hour's duration. Mr. Koenig pleaded warmly to gain his end. He got little satisfaction.

Governor Miller told the New York leader that the bill was in the hands of the Legislature and that he had no intention of interfering at this stage.

Then Mr. Koenig went upstairs to the third floor and tried his luck with the legislative leaders, with what results will not be known until tomorrow, when it is expected the transit bill will be reported with about fifty amendments by the Senate Public Service Committee and the Assembly Judiciary Committee.

The amendments wanted by Mr. Koenig would provide a flat prohibition against any immediate rate increases by the proposed new transit commission for New York City, and would make necessary the consent of the Board of Estimate to such increases, when made, as well as the readjustment plan looking to the Governor's "unified, municipally-owned" transit system.

Regards Board as Chief Obstacle.

In his transit message to the Legislature Governor Miller pointed out that the Board of Estimate had been the real obstacle to the settlement of the transit situation in New York City, and that the elimination of that body as a factor in the final adjustment was essential to the success of the plan.

Governor Miller was asked this afternoon, while his conference with Mr. Koenig was in progress, if the latter had given assurances of support from the New York men if the amendments he proposed should be accepted.

"We did not discuss that," said the Governor, with a smile. "We talked only about the bill. We are still talking."

Senator John Knight, Chairman of the Public Service Committee, said late today that the demands for a new hearing on the transit bill made by Corporation Counsel O'Brien and the Citizens Union would not be granted.

The committee met today to discuss amendments, but no decision was reached. The committee will meet again tomorrow in joint executive session with the Assembly Judiciary Committee to take up the question again. Senator Knight said he hoped the bill could be reported out this week.

Proposed Club for the Commission.

Among amendments which were discussed today was one which would give the proposed Transit Commission a club over the traction corporations in the event of moves by them to block the transit readjustment.

The new amendment would give the commission the right to order a temporary change in fares in the city after a readjustment plan had been perfected and promulgated, and pending the necessary consent from other parties to make the settlement effective.

It was pointed out tonight that this could affect only the corporations, as under the Governor's bill the city would be eliminated as a factor in the settlement and could not tie up the readjustment plan except through court action. The corporations, on the other hand, would be in a position to hold off indefinitely, and thus make the creation of the municipally-owned system the Governor contemplates impossible unless the transit commission could devise some means of forcing them to make terms.

Under the Court of Appeals decision in the rent cases today, it is believed that the Transit Commission, in the exercise of the police power of the State which will be delegated to it through the bill, could go further in bringing pressure to bear in that direction than the Governor thought possible when he sent his message to the Legislature. But the amendment which was discussed today, it was pointed out, would make it possible for the commission to impose an adverse rate change upon any corporation resisting readjustment unduly or unreasonably or too long.

Of two other amendments that were under discussion today one would provide power for the Public Service Commission to order a sliding scale of gas and electric light rates, in accordance with the amount of light or power used by a consumer. The other would cut down from fifteen to ten years the term of office of the new Public Service Commissioners.

Maine Woolen Mill to Resume.

MADISON, Me., March 8.—The Indian Spring Mill of the American Woolen Company, which has been idle since May, received orders today to resume operations. It is expected that it will be running at full capacity within three weeks, employing about 300 persons.

STOKES SUIT BEGINS; HER COUSIN NAMED

Admits, on Cross-examination, That Stokes Still Pays Her $55 a Month and Her Board.

The first day of the trial of W. E. D. Stokes's suit to divorce Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, before Supreme Court Justice Finch, brought out testimony chiefly involving Dr. Hal C. Billig, a dentist and cousin of Mrs. Stokes. While Mrs. Stokes took the witness stand for a short time to identify pictures in her husband's possession, most of the evidence consisted of testimony by Juliette Gassner, nurse for the Stokes children in 1917.

Mrs. Stokes was attractively gowned and replied to questions clearly and firmly. After she had answered questions by Francis L. Wellman, her husband's counsel, as to her marriage, her attorney, Martin W. Littleton, protested against calling the defendant on the ground that Stokes could have given the same evidence, but his attorney wanted to shield him. Justice Finch overruled the objection.

Mrs. Stokes then identified a picture of Dr. Billig and others of her children. Another picture was of a man named Wallace, named as co-respondent. She didn't know his first name, but thought the initial was "T." Several pictures of herself were taken at a house party in Ripon, Wis., three years before her marriage. Another, in which Mrs. Stokes was smoking a cigarette, was taken in boarding school, she said. She made no effort to conceal them during her marriage, she said.

Wellman Springs Surprise.

One of the surprises of the trial was an announcement by Mr. Wellman that no evidence would be presented concerning the defendant's alleged conduct with her husband's son by a former marriage.

In opening, Mr. Wellman said Mr. Stokes was 68 and his wife 30 years old, and that they had not spoken since New Year's night, 1917, when they separated.

"We do not claim that our client is perfect," said Mr. Wellman, "but we do claim that he has many fine characteristics. There is no dispute as to the love for the children which exists on both sides. The question of the custody of the children is a very vital issue in this suit."

When Mr. Littleton addressed the Court he said:

"These charges are monstrous and atrocious. They have penetrated the home of Mrs. Miller, the mother of this defendant, a respectable home in Denver, and have set the slimy accusation of wrongdoing with the defendant's own step-brother, her cousin with whom she was reared as a child, and occasional visitors brought to the house by the plaintiff. They have charged wrongdoing on unknown dates in three States. We shall bring every person mentioned to court to repudiate these charges except those who are dead."

Nurse Tells of Visit.

Juliette Gassner, the nurse, who now lives in New Jersey, said she attended the children at the Hotel Ansonia and went with them to the Hotel Nassau at Long Beach. She said Mrs. Stokes was away from the hotel two or three days at a time. At the end of three weeks, the defendant and her children went to the home of Mrs. Arthur Miller, mother of Mrs. Stokes, in Denver. The second nurse, Dorothy Bush, accompanied them.

The witness told of a visit of Will Meyers at the Denver House, and said Mrs. Stokes went out with him. "She said he used to be a friend of hers when she was a girl and that he had come to say good day," the witness testified.

The nurse said Dr. Billig took Mrs. Stokes to many places of amusement, and on occasions her sister, the children and the other nurse went along.

"I saw her give him money to pay bills at a hotel," said the witness. The nurse testified Dr. Billig accompanied the family to Estey's Park, Col., where they occupied a bungalow, in 1919. A bathroom connected the rooms of Mrs. Stokes and Dr. Billig. She said the bathroom doors were never locked.

The witness said she saw Dr. Billig kiss his cousin in Denver, and that once he walked into her room without knocking. Asked what Mrs. Stokes wore, the witness said:

"Oh, combinations, silk, or whatever it was, corsets and slippers."

The nurse was then questioned concerning incidents on New Year's Eve, 1917, after which Mr. and Mrs. Stokes separated because of the presence of Dr. Billig in the Stokes home at 317 West Seventy-eighth Street. Dr. Billig's relationship to Mrs. Stokes had been questioned by her husband, the witness said, and Stokes insisted that he should take accommodations at the Ansonia. Mrs. Stokes on New Year's Eve consented to the arrangement.

The nurse said that Stokes got up from a sickbed to protest because his wife disrobed in a room with the door leading to Dr. Billig's room open, while he was inside, to which she quoted Mrs. Stokes as replying:

"Why, he is only my cousin."

Mrs. Stokes and Dr. Billig then went to the theatre and Mr. Stokes spent the evening nailing up the door between the two rooms. Dr. Billig left the house soon afterward.

Dr. Billig arrived in the courtroom when the testimony against him was being given and heard the witness say that in Mrs. Stokes's room in the Ansonia were several of his pictures, on one of which was written, "To My Only Sweetheart."

In the afternoon Miss Gassner said that Stokes was never cross to his children. Asked if the mother also was kind to the children, the witness said:

"She never allowed the children to come to the table if Mr. Stokes was not there. She said she wanted her meals in peace and didn't want to be bothered by the children while eating."

Still Gets Salary From Stokes.

Questioned concerning leaving the employ of Mrs. Stokes, the witness said:

"I told her I was leaving because I was nervous and couldn't stand it any longer. She begged me to stay, and hugged and kissed me. I was in her bedroom and the door was closed. She said she would shoot me if I said anything against her character, and unless I got down on my hands and knees and swore to take back anything I had said against her and Dr. Billig. I said I had told nothing."

In concluding her direct testimony the nurse said the only time Mrs. Stokes spoke pleasantly to her husband was "when she wanted to get money out of him."

Cross-examined by Mr. Littleton, the witness said she had made several statements to Mr. Stokes and his attorneys after leaving Mrs. Stokes. For a year and six months she has received $55 a month, in addition to $12.50 a week for her board from Mr. Stokes, and she is now the wife of a machinist.

The witness admitted that on the occasion when Dr. Billig entered the defendant's room, Mrs. Stokes wore a kimono, and her sister, Marcella Miller, and her children were in the room.

The trial will continue today.

3,600 Shop Employes Laid Off.

ELKHART, Ind., March 8.—Thirty-six hundred New York Central Railroad shop employes will be laid off indefinitely next Saturday, according to bulletins posted in the Elkhart shops today. The road's shops were closed on a previous retrenchment order from Feb. 19 to March 1. Officials here today said the order would affect 1,200 at West Albany, N. Y.; 900 at Collinwood, Ohio; 800 in New York and 700 in Elkhart.

Printers' Strikes Stop Papers In Binghamton and Okmulgee

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., March 8.—Printers of Binghamton went on strike at 6 o'clock tonight to enforce demands for increased wages and reduced hours. As a result The Press, evening, and The Morning Sun, newspapers, have suspended publication, and the plants of the Vail-Ballou Company, book manufacturers, and the Johnson City Publishing Company, job printers, are crippled.

The employers today offered to continue the present rate of pay and working conditions or to submit the whole matter to arbitration. This was rejected.

OKMULGEE, Okla., March 8.—Publication of two Okmulgee newspapers, The Times, a morning paper, and The Democrat, evening, was suspended today because of a strike by printers of their respective plants, over failure of union officials and their owners to reach an agreement on new contracts for a wage scale for the year.

RAIL WAGE CUT PUT UP TO N. Y. C. LABOR

10 to 30% Reduction for Unskilled Workmen Submitted at Grand Central Conference.

EMPLOYES ASK FOR TIME

Union Leaders Expect Scale to Be Lowered, but Doubt Men Will Agree to Amount Proposed.

A scale of wage cuts was presented to unskilled labor on the New York Central Railroad, one of the integral lines of the New York Central system, at a conference held in the Grand Central Terminal yesterday between the road's general managers and representatives of the employes. It is estimated that about 20,000 men will be affected.

All the other railroads in the Eastern region with representatives in the General Managers' Association have decided to take similar action. They contemplate reductions of 10 to 30 per cent. from the basic pay of about 48½ cents an hour for unskilled labor. The Central Railroad of New Jersey, the Lehigh Valley, the Lackawanna and other roads have meetings scheduled for March 15, and the New Haven management already has met its employes in Boston. The new scale will eliminate the pay increases granted last Summer by the Railroad Labor Board.

When the new pay scale for the New York Central, with reductions ranging from 10 to 30 per cent., was presented to the employes' representatives, they asked for time to sound the opinion of the employes. It was agreed that the conference should be called again in two weeks, on Tuesday, March 22, and that quick action should be taken to put the new scale into effect on April 1.

It was the opinion of union representatives that the employes would be unwilling to accept so large a cut, although it was believed some lowering of the pay scale might be made. They argued that labor conditions and the cost of living did not justify such reductions. There were few hints of a strike and both the railroad management and the union representatives expect to settle the scale satisfactorily at their next meeting.

After the conference, which was closed to all but officials of the railroads and the unions, the union representatives signed the following notice, which they said had been presented to them at the conference:

"Proposed revision in rates effective on April 1, 1921. Proposed rate for labor on piers in the New York district, now receiving 57 cents an hour, to 45 cents. For track laborers at principal points, reduced to 40 cents an hour, which will be the maximum, with lower rates at intermediate points.

"Rates for other classes covered in company circular of Feb. 28, which announced proposed reductions to be reduced to those in effect prior date of Decision No. 2 of the United States Labor Board."

The classes of labor affected include "all laborers—station, platform, warehouse, crane, dock, pier, storeroom and stockroom employes; freight handlers or truckers, baggage porters, janitors, station and warehouse watchmen, track laborers, crossing watchmen, lamplighters, lamp tenders, fire builders, ashpit men, flue cleaners, coal passers, coal chute men and car cleaners."

It is the attitude of the railroad men that the pay increases granted last Summer by the Railroad Board must be wiped out. Some officials would like to see reductions on all classes of labor, not alone unskilled, with the aim of reducing rates, so that traffic and travel might be stimulated.

The unions represented at the conference were the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way and Railway Shop Laborers, Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, Brotherhood of Railway Signalmen, Brotherhood of Railway Station Employes and the International Brotherhood of Stationary Firemen. The New York Central Railroad was represented at the conference by A. S. Ingalls and W. J. Fripp, General Managers, and S. R. Payne, manager of the Ottawa Division.

THROUGH TRAINS TO BE CUT.

Pennsylvania Road Announces Changes to Reduce Expenses.

PHILADELPHIA, March 8.—Curtailment in train service, including the annulment of several through trains, was announced today by the Pennsylvania Railroad. It will become effective next Sunday, and forms part of the company's plan to cut expenses. Among the changes announced are these:

To be withdrawn: 10:30 A. M. from Philadelphia to Washington; 10:50 A. M., Washington to Philadelphia; 3:10 P. M., Washington to Baltimore; 9:40 P. M., Washington to Baltimore.

To be combined: 8:25 A. M. and 8:40 A. M., from Philadelphia for Harrisburg, Buffalo, Pittsburgh and the West, the combined train to leave at 8:25 A. M.; 7:30 P. M. and 7:40 P. M., from Philadelphia to the same place, the combined train to leave at 7:30 P. M.

Boston and Albany Cuts Wages.

BOSTAON, March 8.—Boston & Albany Railroad officials at a meeting held today with representatives of various classes of unskilled labor notified them that, effective April 4, the rates of pay in effect April 30, 1920, would be restored. The rate for section men was announced as reduced from 48½ to 40 cents an hour, car clearners from 50 to 40 cents, freight handlers at Boston and other large stations from 55 to 43 cents and similar reductions to apply to the various classes of unskilled labor employed in shops, engine houses and storehouses, crossing watchmen, janitors, baggage porters and mail porters.

Central Closes Locomotive Shops.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., March 8.—Notice was posted at the New York Central locomotive shops at Avis tonight announcing the complete shutdown of the shops until further notice. The shops were re-opened about ten days after a short shutdown.

PACKERS CUT WAGES; STRIKE THREATENS

Pay of 100,000 Employes Is Reduced by 12½ to 15 Per Cent., Effective on Monday.

TEN-HOUR DAY IS RESTORED

Union Leaders, Charging Move to Force Strike, Leave for Omaha to Consider Action.

THEY PROPOSE ARBITRATION

Packers Declare That "an Economic Necessity" Makes This Course Impossible.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, March 8.—Following the announcement by the packers today of wage reductions of from 12½ to 15 per cent., and of general revision of working hours, affecting their 100,000 workers on Monday, heads of the Packing Workers' Unions left tonight for Omaha for two days' conferences on what action to take. Some union leaders before departing charged that the packers wanted a national strike as a two-month shutdown would enable them to dispose at high prices of large stocks stored in warehouses and purchased at the lowest prices in years.

Dennis Lane, Secretary of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butchers Workers' Union, said the conference would urge the packers to submit the wages and hours revisions to arbitration, but the packers declared that arbitration was out of the question and that the new schedules would go into force Monday as "an economic necessity."

If the Omaha conference, at which 400 unions will be represented, decides on a strike, the question would be quickly submitted to the locals for a vote and a walk-out might be expected early next week.

One barrier, however, is the prevailing unemployment. With so many out of jobs and unemployment growing instead of diminishing, the question of whether a strike could be won becomes more than usually doubtful. Tonight it loomed up as the largest possible deterrent. Besides, the unions take the view that the packers might perhaps be glad to shut down their shops for a month or two.

Outlines Unions' Program.

Three points which will come up at Omaha were formulated by Mr. Lane as follows:

1. The packers must respect the sancity of the arbitration agreement and allow it to run its course until one year after the declaration of peace.

2. If any wage reduction is necessary and just, it should be settled in conference or by arbiters.

3. The bas

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Irregular in Light Market — Foreign Exchange Declines Sharply.

While the stock market went irregularly lower on the positive news of the entry of the allied troops into parts of Germany not previously occupied, it was not active and the declines were spasmodic; being most noticeable in the industrial stocks, and occurring in very evident response to attacks by professional traders on whatever seemed to be the vulnerable points. The market did not close at the lowest and the majority of changes were not important, but the hesitant undertone was plainly enough visible.

In so far as the European situation was reflected in financial markets, it was in foreign exchange. Sterling led the way in a rapid decline of 4½ cents from Monday's closing; its low rate of yesterday being 6 cents below the week's high figure, reached before the positive news of the rejection of the Allies' terms by Germany. Other European exchanges followed sterling, the French franc losing more than ⅛ cent and the German mark touched 1.51 cents, as against a high rate of 1.67 on Monday; but nearly all recovered from the lowest. The foreign exchange market, having been advancing of late in a more or less speculative way while the stock market was declining, was naturally the more sensitive to the influence of the German complication; it is yet to be seen which market more correctly measured the real significance of the breaking-off of negotiations. In European markets a rather sharp decline in British Government bonds (consols falling ½ point) and weakness also in the French 3 per cents, were the noteworthy response to the news. At London the point is made that, however the dispute with Germany eventuates, increased public expenditure by the allied Governments is involved in the extended occupation. This of itself would influence French and British Government securities.

Yesterday's weakness in the wheat market, like that of the day before, had more reference to the Government's expected estimate of wheat still held on the farms from the 1920 crop than it had to European politics. The estimate was given out after the wheat market had closed. It showed that, although the crop was 144,000,000 bushels less than that of 1919 and 127,000,000 below 1918, nevertheless there were still held on the farms March 1 more wheat by 42,900,000 bushels than a year ago and more by 78,800,000 than two years ago. More than one-fourth of the total 1920 harvest—26.4 per cent. is the exact estimate—is still reckoned as held in "farm reserves." This is the largest March estimate of actual holdings since 1916, after the billion-dollar harvest of 1915; except for that year, it is the largest in at least two decades. In the two States of Nebraska and Kansas alone, the present hold-over of wheat is 13,400,000 bushels beyond last year's. The bearing of all this, both on wheat prices and on the question of farmers' credits, is of considerable interest.

The statement of England's foreign trade in February, cabled from London yesterday, reflects both the influence of falling prices on the volume of foreign trade and the continued pressure to reduce the country's surplus of imports over exports. As compared with January, the value of last month's total foreign trade decreased 21 per cent., and the decrease from February, 1920, is 36½ per cent. Part, but by no means all, of this heavy shrinkage is a matter of lower prices, and the decrease of imports as compared with a year ago is so much greater than the decrease in exports that the month's balance of merchandise trade against Great Britain, which was £61,900,000 in 1920, was only £20,700,000 this year. The last-named sum is with three exceptions (last January, November and July) the smallest monthly import surplus since the beginning of the war. In the two completed months of 1921 this excess of imports has been only £7,200,000 greater than in 1913. The same months in 1920 produced an import surplus £88,000,000 greater than in the pre-war year.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

Sharp Decline in Sterling and Other Rates on the European News.

Foreign exchange, which had reacted late Monday afternoon on the news of the break-off of negotiations with Germany, showed weakness from the start yesterday. In the afternoon it reached $3.85, a decline of 4½ cents from Monday's closing, but recovered to $3.86 before the closing. French, Italian and German exchange followed sterling, both in the decline and the recovery.

Rates on the Central European markets were slightly lower, and a decline of ¾ to ⅞ cent per krone occurred in Danish and Norwegian exchange. Argentina was ⅛ cent lower, Brazil ¼. Montreal was quoted at 87.5 cents, against 87.7 Monday.

SUBMARINE PROFITS HELD FIRM FOR 1920

Boat Corporation Earned $2.43 a Share on Smaller Business Than Year Before.

The Submarine Boat Corporation and its subsidiaries, despite a falling off in gross income for 1920 amounting to $58,812,030, showed little change in net profits, the amount available for the capital stock being $1,865,995, or the equivalent of $2.43 a share on the 765,920 shares issued. This amount was after the deductions of all operating expenses and fixed charges with the exception of Federal taxes. In 1919, with a gross business of $93,991,824, profits were only $2,063,561, or $2.69 a share.

Henry R. Carse, President of the company, reviewed the contract with the United States Shipping Board, pointing out that the contract as amended had been completed and that all of the vessels, 118 in number, were accepted by the board. He further pointed out that of thirty-two vessels built for the company's account thirty-one were launched and ready for sea.

"Owing to the great depression in commerce over the entire world, the greatly reduced amount of freight offering and the consequent lower freight rates, we have not undertaken the construction of any additional cargo or passenger ships during the year," he said, "and have reduced our force at the Newark Bay shipyard to sufficient only to complete the work in hand, which, besides our steel cargo vessels, includes twenty steel barges of 440 tons capacity for operation on the New York Barge Canal.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Market Continues Professional.

There was again no change in the stock market situation yesterday, trading continuing on a small scale and mostly for the account of floor traders. Commission houses reported a dearth of outside buying orders. Professionals, however, once more tried to make as much as possible of the foreign news, and continued to attack what were considered the weak spots. But in the attempts they were not very successful, as declines were in most instances confined to fractions. There were numerous issues which registered losses of a point or more, but with the exception of the declines in the railroad shares they were mainly in the inactive issues. Those stocks which were exceptions to the general rule were United Fruit, which sold down to a new low record for the year, on poor shipping conditions; Marine preferred, and such issues as Remington Typewriter, Brown Shoe and other specialties.

Allied Chemical Recovers.

After breaking to 38¾, a new low record for the year, the common shares of the Allied Chemical and Dye Corporation recovered to 42½ and ended the day with a net advance of 2 points. This recovery in the stock was due to a statement credited to the President of the company that the Executive Committee had recommended that the stock be placed on a 1 per cent. quarterly dividend basis at the Directors' meeting to be held on March 29. The "raids" against the stock in the late trading on Monday and again yesterday morning were due to the assumption in speculative quarters that the Directors might not declare the dividend in view of the statement made at the stockholders' meeting on Monday that the action to be taken by the Directors would be governed by the reports of operations of the subsidiary companies for last year.

Copper Stocks Again Heavy.

Copper stocks again displayed a heavy tone during the greater part of the market session yesterday, Utah Copper, Chile and some of the other issues recording losses from substantial fractions to a point or more. The selling of Chile was unusually heavy. There was nothing new in the copper situation to account for the decline in these stocks and Wall Street jumped to the conclusion that the selling might come from holders in need of cash to meet the first instalment of the Federal taxes, due next week. News from the copper trade continues to report stagnation in buying on the part of both domestic and foreign consumers and prices are quoted at the low levels of 12¼ and 12⅝ cents per pound according to delivery. The large producers continue to quote from 12⅝ to 12¾ cents per pound.

Trading Less Than Half Million.

Sales on the Stock Exchange yesterday were less than half a million shares, that being the sixth consecutive trading day on which the turnover fell below that mark. The only day this month on which sales exceeded 500,000 shares was on March 1, and on only eight of the twenty-two business days in February did sales exceed 500,000 shares.

Tight Money.

For some reason, possibly preparations in anticipation of next week's tax payments, the money market developed considerable tightness yesterday. Call money was quoted at 7 per cent. all day on the Stock Exchange, and there was no superabundance of it. In the outside market there was none at any better rate, and very little at 7. Time money was not to be had, and the whole money market was strained. Bankers' acceptances were marked up, too, the ninety-day being quoted at 6⅝@6 per cent., with the others in ratio.

That Burlington Plan.

Bankers and railroad men are to go to Washington today to confer with the Interstate Commerce Commission relative to the drafting of a new "Burlington Plan." Previously the bankers and railroad men submitted a plan to the commission, and after four months' deliberation the commission rejected it in its most important part. Now, less than four months before the C., B. & Q. joint 4 per cents mature, it would appear that the interested parties are not taking further chances on a rejection, but will try, to the best of their ability, to find out just what the Interstate Commerce Commission will permit. George Whitney of J. P. Morgan & Co. and Jackson Reynolds and E. B. Sweezy, Vice Presidents of the First National Bank, are among the bankers who will go to Washington today.

The Liberty Bank.

The Liberty National Bank ceased to exist as such at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and the Liberty Bank of New York, a State institution, came into being. This was preparatory to the consolidation with the New York Trust Company, which will take place on April 1, and while the merger is a highly desirable development, there are people in the financial district whose joy at witnessing its consummation will not be untinged with sorrow over the passing of the Liberty, which has held its place for thirty years and has numbered among its Presidents such men as Henry C. Tinker, Henry P. Davison, E. C. Converse, Frederick C. Schenck, Seward Prosser, Thomas Cochran and the present chief executive, Harvey D. Gibson.

Not a Promising Outlook.

The percentage return on aggregate railroad property value earned since the termination of the extended guarantee period and the inauguration of increased rates Sept. 1, 1920, has not presented a particularly favorable picture of what may be expected in succeeding months. In the last four months in 1920 the roads actually earned, according to complete statistics compiled by the Bureau of Railway Economics, $233,110,000, which was $175,000,000 short of the 6 per cent. called for in the Transportation act. If the return earned during the year 1921 shows no improvement over the final four months of last year, the roads will fall $200,000,000 short of earning the 6 per cent. return. Actual percentage returns earned in September were 4.11 per cent.; in October, 4.6 per cent.; in November, 3.3 per cent., and in December 1.17 per cent.

Rail Shares Reflect Poor Earnings.

The decline in prices for the railroad shares in yesterday's market was attributed in large part to the poor showing made by those roads which had submitted their January earnings statements to the Interstate Commerce Commission. At the same time the uncertainty surrounding the outcome of negotiations between railroad managers and unskilled labor over wage cuts was a depressing factor and served to further cloud a murky situation. In fact, in some quarters the opinion was expressed that the labor situation was the more important factor, and that poor January earnings had been quite generally discounted. At the same time the bulk of the statements gave visible proof that many of the carriers need traffic badly and the fact that the reports were not better certainly had some effect on sentiment.

D. & R. G. Affairs.

The question was raised yesterday as to how the Denver & Rio Grande stockholders would take care of the $38,000,000 Western Pacific judgment which hangs over the railroad if they bought in the property for $10,000,000. Counsel for the Stockholders' Protective Committee has started litigation attacking the legality of the judgment and makes charges against former Denver & Rio Grande Directors. The outcome of this action will, of course, influence the situation materially, and if decided in favor of the stockholders will simplify their acquisition of the property. If the judgment is approved by the courts it may be a big obstacle to the stockholders.

A Record of Investments

can be kept in a most convenient way by the use of our specially prepared loose-leaf folder. These folders contain detachable sheets, properly marked and spaced for keeping complete information regarding all income - producing property (bonds, stocks, mortgages and real estate)—time purchased, price paid, income therefrom, etc. There are also sheets for keeping records pertaining to all forms of insurance.

A complimentary folder will be sent to any investor on request.

Time to Buy Motors?

MOTOR STOCKS have declined on the average more than 50% from the highs of 1919. In some ways it would appear that this group has been thoroughly liquidated.

REPLACEMENT DEMAND—current output—prices and costs — likelihood of Spring recovery in the industry and other facts bearing upon the future market action of the motors are discussed in an analysis of the motor situation which we have recently prepared.

Investors (not speculators) will find this letter interesting and helpful and may obtain a copy by sending two-cent postage for Circular No. 34.

NATIONAL CITY BANK BUYS A STATE BANK

TO OPERATE ITS BRANCHES

Plans Already Made to Transfer Office at the Biltmore to the National City Building.

The National City Bank has practically completed negotiations for the purchase of the Commercial Exchange Bank of New York, a State institution with its main office at 330 Bowery and with branch offices at 1,133 Broadway, 321 Broadway and the Hotel Biltmore. As soon as the purchase and consolidation can be consummated, the National City Bank will take over and operate as its own the branches of the Commercial Exchange Bank. The branch at the Hotel Biltmore will be transferred to the National City Building, formerly the Manhattan Hotel, at Forty-second Street and Madison Avenue. It is expected that the whole matter will be completed by May 1 and an official announcement is looked for within a few days.

By acquiring the Commercial Exchange Bank, the National City will be able to maintain and operate branch offices. Under the National Bank act, no national bank is permitted to open branches in this country, but it has been found possible for a national bank to purchase a State bank which has branches and then to continue them as its own. The National City Bank has been contemplating a move of this sort for several years, or ever since the big State banks and trust companies started opening elaborate uptown branches when the uptown business developed on a scale to warrant special localized attention.

About a year ago the National City Company, a subsidiary of the National City Bank, purchased the Manhattan Hotel Building and started remodeling it. At that time it was reported that the bank was negotiating for a State institution, but this subsequently was denied. Later it was reported that interests identified with the National City Bank would apply to the State Banking Department for authority to create a new bank and that, if the authority were granted, the new institution would be turned over to the National City.

Other Reports Denied.

Last July, soon after the Directors of the National City Bank had recommended an increase in its capital stock from $25,000,000 to $40,000,000, it was stated that the National City and the Hanover National Banks were to be consolidated, but this report, like others, was speedily denied. About three years ago it was reported that negotiations were being carried on looking to the merging of the National City and the Corn Exchange Bank, but nothing ever came of this. Wall Street has been regaled for many years by rumors of the merging of the National City and the National Bank of Commerce.

The Commercial Exchange Bank, according to its latest official report, dated Feb. 28, had total resources and liabilities of $10,584,494. Its capital was placed at $400,000; its surplus at $700,000, and its undivided profits at $347,583. Its total deposits were $8,748,033 and its total loans were $5,830,606.

Of the three branch offices which the Commercial Exchange Bank now has, two have just recently been established. Approval was granted by the Superintendent of Banks on Jan. 22 for the opening of the branches at 321 Broadway and the Hotel Biltmore. It is understood that the Broadway branch will be continued at its present address, but the Biltmore branch is to be moved to the remodeled National City Building. The branch at 1,133 Broadway is expected to be continued, but there is some question as to whether it will be legally possible to maintain the bank's main office at 330 Bowery, as a branch of the National City.

To Increase Competition.

The acquisition of the new branches will give the National City Bank opportunity to more actively compete with its closest rival for leadership in the banking field, the Guaranty Trust Company. The latter institution, operating under a State charter which permits of branches, has been developing this field aggressively for several years, and now has three very active branches. They are, respectively, at Fifth Avenue and Forty-fourth Street, at Madison Avenue and Sixtieth Street, and at 268 Grand Street. Both the National City and the Guaranty Trust Company have many foreign branches.

Three other national banks in this city now operate branch offices. These are the Chatham and Phenix National, the Mechanics and Metals National, and the Irving National. Before the year is out it is expected that the Chase National Bank will join the group, for that bank, through its subsidiary, the Chase Securities Corporation, owns a majority interest in the capital stock of the Metropolitan Bank, which has several branches here and one in Brooklyn.

The stock of the Commercial Exchange Bank has been extremely strong in the open market in recent weeks. Starting from a price in the neighborhood of $400 a share, it has advanced to close to $900 a share. Its book value is computed at $627 a share.

OIL PRESIDENT THINKS PROSPERITY IS NEAR

Head of Barnsdall Corporation Says Shortage Will Insure This —$4.54 Per Share Earned.

The annual report of the Barnsdall Corporation and its subsidiaries for 1920 shows net earnings after depreciation, depletion and taxes of $2,542,386, or $4.54 per share on the common stock issued, compared with $1,406,967, or $2.70 a share in 1919. After the payment of dividends the company carried to surplus $1,167,386, bringing that account up to $6,122,485. Gross income for the year was $7,105,715, compared with $4,064,314, and operating expenses were $2,970,079, against $1,782,412.

The consolidated balance sheet showed current assets of $4,855,305, of which $2,638,300 was cash, $708,760 Liberty bonds at market prices and $727,071 bills receivable. Oil inventories at market prices were carried at $347,313. Current liabilities were $2,082,998. Total assets amounted to $31,705,483.

In his remarks to the stockholders Robert Law Jr., President of the company, said:

"Despite the cuts that have taken place in the market for crude oil during the first quarter of the present year, your management views with optimism the outcome of the 1921 operations. Crude oil has evidently gone far below its real value and the next few months will undoubtedly witness an upward revision in prices. Today there is a world-wide shortage of crude oil and while in some fields there has been a temporary overproduction this condition will undoubtedly be of short duration."

The Cuban-American Sugar Company

First Mortgage Collateral 8% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds

The Business Back of these Bonds

The richness of the soil in this section enables the growing of cane at a cost substantially lower than the average; practically no fertilizer is necessary.

The Company's expansion has been steady and gradual. These Bonds constitute its only funded debt.

The net income of The Cuban-American Sugar Company available for interest and Federal taxes in the year ended September 30, 1920, amounted to $19,116,155, or over 23 times the maximum annual interest requirements on these Bonds.

During the last five years, the Company's net income has averaged $11,702,949, or over 14 times, and in none of those years has it been less than $8,600,000, or over 10.75 times, such interest requirements.

THE ISSUE

Interest payable March 15 and September 15. To mature March 15, 1931

Both principal and interest payable in United States gold coin. Coupon Bonds in denominations of $1,000 and $500, registerable as to principal only.

Redeemable only as a whole at 107½ on any interest date on thirty days' published notice.

As a sinking fund the Company will set aside quarterly the sum of $250,000 beginning with the quarter ending June 15, 1921, which shall be used to purchase bonds in the market up to 105 and interest if obtainable; any unexpended balance to be credited upon the next quarterly sinking fund installment. All Bonds so purchased will be cancelled by the Trustee.

THE NATIONAL CITY BANK OF NEW YORK, TRUSTEE

These Bonds will be secured by the pledge of $16,000,000 First Mortgage Bonds of subsidiary companies secured upon tangible fixed assets conservatively valued at over $35,000,000.

Upon completion of this financing, net current assets will amount to over $23,000,000, and net tangible assets to over $52,000,000; against which the Company will have these $10,000,000 First Mortgage Collateral Bonds outstanding as its only funded debt.

The entire proceeds of this issue will be used in the reduction of present outstanding bank loans and other notes and accounts payable, and to increase working capital.

The equity behind these Bonds, as evidenced by the present market prices of Cuban-American Preferred and Common stocks, is valued at over $37,000,000.

We offer these Bonds, if, as and when issued and received by us and subject to the approval of counsel, at

100 and interest

TURKISH FINANCES ARE NEAR COLLAPSE

ESTABLISHED BRANCH THERE

Only Income From Customs, and These Fail to Meet Nation's Requirements.

The financial condition of the Turkish Government is critical, according to Sigmund Metz, Assistant Vice President of the Guaranty Trust Company, who has just returned from Constantinople, where he was instrumental in establishing a branch of the trust company.

The revenue of the Turkish Government, Mr. Metz explained, was confined practically to the proceeds of the Constantinople Custom House, and was faced with what the banker believed to be a problem almost past solution.

"The taxable capacity of Turkey's population, impoverished through long periods of war and unsettlement, is reduced to the vanishing point and, up to the present, the foreign element—the only one able to bear the burden—has been exempt," he said. "Nor are the Government finances alone in a condition of bankruptcy. The City of Constantinople is likewise reduced to dire straights and is unable to provide properly for some of the most essential public services, with the result that the city presents a neglected appearance.

"One of the most important features in the Turkish situation is the gradual recognition that the followers of Mustapha Kemal represent economically, strategically and politically, a force that has to be reckoned with in any settlement arrived at with Turkey. Constantinople is incapable of separate existence, severed from the producing parts of the Turkish dominions. Participation of the national delegates at the conferences in London may be regarded as a hopeful development.

"From a commercial point of view present conditions in Constantinople present a more or less complete analogy to other parts of the world, possibly in somewhat aggravated form, due to the complete exhaustion or inaccessibility of its chief outlets. Losses incurred by the trading community have been very severe, but failures of importance have, in comparison with other markets, been few in number, mainly due to the assistance rendered by the banks. As a result the local banking position is strained.

"No recovery can reasonably be expected until the political horizon clears, world conditions generally improve and until the natural markets, both of supply and of consumption, are again accessible to the merchants of Constantinople. When this is achieved it seems inevitable that Constantinople will again occupy its former position as the distributing and banking centre of the Near East, for as Gibbon puts it: 'The single spot united the prospects of beauty, safety and of wealth formed by nature for the centre and capital of a great monarchy.'"

COMMODITY PRICES.

Tendency of Cash Markets Continues Downward—New Low Levels Reached.

Softness in some of the cash options, particularly for the grains, was again in evidence in yesterday's wholesale markets. Wheat dropped 1 cent, corn ⅛ of a cent and oats ½ of a cent per bushel, with flour unchanged. In the grocery line, coffee declined ¼ of a cent per pound, to a new low for the year, with sugar unchanged; in the dairy products, butter declined 2½ cents per pound, and eggs 1 cent per dozen. There were no changes reported in the provisions, likewise the metals, with the exception of tin, in the latter group, which dropped 50 cents per ton to a new low for the year. In the textiles, spot cotton declined 5 cents per 100 pounds, with printcloths unchanged.

DENVER & RIO GRANDE PLANS

Stockholders' Protective Board Discusses $10,000,000 Railway Bid.

Following a meeting of members of the Denver & Rio Grande Stockholders' Protective Committee yesterday it was stated that the raising of funds to buy in the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad Company for $10,000,000, the price set by the Western courts, was discussed. It was also said that the stockholders would probably bid $10,000,000 for the property on March 25.

No formal statement was issued but one of the members of the committee said that efforts will be continued to upset the $38,000,000 judgment obtained by Western Pacific stockholders some years ago.

Robert Reis & Co. Reports a Deficit.

The annual report of Robert Reis & Co. for 1920, published yesterday, showed a deficit of $29,571, as compared with a profit of $402,172 in 1919. The net profits from sales last year amounted to $797,432, as compared with $768,212 in the preceding year. The deficit for 1920 was due to the writing off of $782,873, due to depreciation in inventory.

Is Your Income Being Reduced by Taxation?

In addition to protection for principal, at this time it is important for the investor to select securities, the income from which will not be materially reduced by taxation.

We therefore suggest the purchase of a 6% bond, obtainable to yield 6½%, exempt from Normal Federal Income Tax, and possessing other valuable tax exempt features.

RAILROAD SITUATION WORSE, SAYS CLARK

EARNINGS ARE FALLING

Large Deficits Are Shown in January Reports of Some of the Roads.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Railroads of the country are in worse condition than in December, declared Edgar E. Clark, Chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, in a letter written yesterday to Senator Harris of Georgia. This explanation was made in reply to a query by the Georgia Senator whether it would be possible to bring about a reduction in the freight rates on fruits and agricultural products.

Chairman Clark informed Senator Harris that on Dec. 3 the business of the railroads did not justify a reduction of freight rates.

"The situation is not so good now as it was in December," wrote Chairman Clark. "The average operating ratio of the railroads of the United States is something over 90. That means that for every dollar that the railroads earn they pay out in operating expenses more than 90 cents. Due to the narrow margin between revenue and operating expenses and fixed charges, a good many are not even earning their operating expenses.

"Under these circumstances it is difficult to find an argument in favor of reducing the rates unless in instances in which it can be shown that the rates are stifling the trafifc, and that lower rates, which would still be compensatory, would effect a movement from which there would be some return."

Sees Move to End Agreements.

CHICAGO, March 8.—The railroads of the country are fighting to "do away with all agreements and with all negotiations" between the roads and their employes, Daniel W. Helt, President of the Railroad Signal Men of America, declared today in giving rebuttal testimony in the rules hearing before the Railroad Labor Board.

Statistics tending to show decreases in signal failures under the national agreements were introduced by Mr. Helt. Examples cited included: Lehigh Valley Railroad, Seneca Division, average failures a month in 1917, 46; in 1920, 20; New York Central, Cleveland Division, 240 failures in 1918 and 94 in 1920.

The figures, according to the witness, were taken from reports on the railroads.

Two rules regarding promotion and overtime were advocated to supplant the present agreements regarding these conditions.

A telegram read into the record stated that at the Grand Central tower, New York, a 360-lever tower, but one avoidable failure had been recorded in the last six months of 1920. Mr. Helt cited this condition as typical of working conditions under the national agreements.

REPORT TRAFFIC SHRINKAGE.

Many of the Earnings Statements for January Reveal Big Deficits.

Railroad earnings in January, as submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission, continue to reflect the big shrinkage in the volume of traffic carried, and many of the reports show disheartening deficits. At the same time many show a big decline in revenues from mail which should not be considered as decreased earning power, for it was in January, 1920, with which period comparisons are made, that most of the roads received large amounts of back mail pay.

Two of the outstanding reports which became available in the financial district yesterday were those of the Union Pacific System and the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company. In the case of the former there was a decrease in railway operating revenues of 29.4 per cent., or $5,527,304, to a total of $13,267,375. Of the $5,527,304, however, $3,025,832 was accounted for in the payment to the company of back mail pay for 1918 and 1919, in January of last year.

Under the head of operating expenses for January, 1921, the Union Pacific report showed an increase in maintenance of way expenditures of 6.7 per cent., as compared with the corresponding period in the preceding year, while there was an 18.8 per cent. increase in maintenance of equipment expenditures to $3,527,997. Railway operating expenses for the month increased 5.6 per cent. to $12,092,006, while net revenue from Railway operation declined $6,171,121 to $1,175,369. More than $3,000,000 of this decrease was again traceable to the back mail payment made to the road in January, 1920.

The Lehigh Valley report was particularly significant not only because the net railway operating deficit in January was less than in the corresponding 1920 period, but in view of the fact that the company spent in maintenance of equipment during the month $2,185,350 as compared with $1,744,758 expended in January, 1920. This means that the company during a period of light traffic is straining every effort to get its equipment back into good condition. The Lehigh Valley is one of the comparatively few roads which so far has made no reference to a cut in its shop forces. These have been keeping at the job of rejuvenating freight cars and other equipment. In addition to this high pressure work the company has let some of its repair work out on contract.

Lehigh Valley's railway operating revenue for January was $6,036,114 as compared with $5,475,496 in January, 1920, and railway operating expenses were $6,301,952 as compared with $5,785,231. In January, 1920, the company received total mail pay amounting to $222,654. The item in last month's earnings statement was only $28,107. This discrepancy was due to the back mail pay received in January a year ago. The net railway operating deficit for the month was $267,837 as compared with $300,735 in the corresponding 1920 period.

COTTON RALLIES; UNDERTONE FIRM

Late Months, From October On, Close With Small Net Gains Over Monday's Prices.

The action of the cotton market yesterday surprised everybody. Instead of following the break of Monday afternoon, on the unfavorable London news concerning the German reparations muddle, the list opened only moderately heavy and then, when the expected heavy volume of selling orders failed to materialize, rallied and gradually worked up through most of the session thereafter. At the close near months were a shade lower than at the close on Monday but the late months, from October on, closed at small net gains.

Liverpool, too, surprised the trade here. The British market had closed on Monday before the news of the proposed allied march into Germany was known, and it was expected that Liverpool yesterday would display a good deal of weakness. But it did not. It started quiet and at losses of only 18 to 20 points, and it recovered more than half of this initial loss before its closing. Spots there were down only 2 points to 6.80d.

Apparently, so far as the local market is concerned, most of the operators had expected some one else to do the selling, and from the way the market acted it looked as if most of them had expected to scale profits if there was a sharp early decline. When the break failed to come along these operators bought anyway and their buying took the list from its opening prices, which were 34 points down for March, to 10 points down for December, up to slightly higher brackets than had been made on Monday's final. March was the only option which did not get above Monday's last.

The performance, to many, seemed to indicate a firmer undertone than had been generally appreciated and to this extent was "good news."

Yesterday's quotations follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Day.

The local market for spot cotton was quiet, down 5 points to 11.50 for middling upland; sales, 3,300 bales. Southern markets were: Galveston, 12c, unchanged; New Orleans, 10.75c, down .25; Savannah, 11c, unchanged; Augusta, 10.50c, unchanged; Memphis, 12c, unchanged; Houston, 10.75c, unchanged; Little Rock, 11.50c, unchanged.

Yesterday's cotton statistics were:

	Yesterday.	Last Wk.	Last Yr.
Port receipts	20,459	19,569	27,011
Exports	10,491	11,756	6,522

Liverpool cables: Spot cotton was quiet, but steady, at 6.80d for middling. Sales, 3,000 bales, of which 2,000 were American. Imports, 2,000 bales, all American. Future opened quiet, 18 to 20 points down, and closed barely steady, 6 to 8 points down on the day. Prices: March, 7.07d; May, 7.28d; July, 7.47d; October, 7.68d.

Manchester: Yarns and cloths were dull and irregular.

ENGLAND'S FOREIGN TRADE REDUCED

Further Shrinkage in Value of Exports and Imports During February.

IMPORTS LEAST SINCE 1918

Excess of Imports Lowest, With Three Exceptions, of the War Period.

LONDON, March 8.—Following are the Board of Trade figures for the month of February of Great Britain's foreign trade: Total imports, £96,970,000; exports of British products, £68,220,000; re-exports of foreign merchandise, £8,000,000; total exports, £76,220,000; excess of imports, £20,750,000.

Compared with January of 1921 the above statement shows the following changes:

Exports of British prod.	decreased	£24,536,094
Re-exports	decreased	1,955,119
Total exports	decreased	26,491,215
Imports	decreased	20,080,783
Excess of imports	increased	6,410,432

The trade for February, 1921, compares as follows with February, 1920, and February, 1919, (000 omitted):

	1921.	1920.	1919.
Exports of British products	£68,220	£85,964	£46,914
Re-exports of foreign goods	8,000	22,003	5,119
Total exports	£76,220	£108,367	£52,033
Imports	96,970	170,514	106,689
Excess of imports	£20,750	£61,946	£54,656

The exports for last month are the smallest in value since July, 1919; the imports the smallest in value since September, 1918. Exports of British products during the last twelve months compare as follows:

	1921.	1920.	1919.
January	92,750,000	105,880,000	47,342,943
	1920.	1919.	1918.
December	96,630,000	90,857,720	38,282,035

	1921.	1920.	1919.
February	£96,970,000	£170,514,272	£106,689,341
January	117,050,000	183,498,000	134,518,054
	1920.	1919.	1918.

The surplus of imports over exports is larger than that of last January or November or July; otherwise it is the smallest of any month since the beginning of the war. For the twelve past months the monthly excess of imports, after allowing for imported merchandise re-exported, compares as follows:

	1921.	1920.	1919.
February	£20,750,000	£61,946,353	£54,655,263
January	14,350,000	52,154,000	82,014,754
	1920.	1919.	1918.
December	33,480,000	52,716,977	74,848,636

March	35,886,000	43,714,519	68,020,378

	Feb., 1921.	Feb., 1914.
Exports, Brit. products	£68,220,000	£41,261,797
Re-exports	8,000,000	10,228,981
Total exports	£76,220,000	£51,490,778
Imports	96,970,000	62,050,744
Exc. s of imports	£20,750,000	£10,559,966

Warner Sugar Sales $113,049,828.

Gross sales of the Warner Sugar Refining Company for 1920 were $113,049,828, according to the annual report. This compares with $52,138,951 in 1919, the increase being the result of the high prices for sugar obtained last year. Net income after all charges, including Federal taxes, but exclusive of reserves and dividends, amounted to $1,437,689, against $1,910,054 in 1919. The profit and loss surplus was increased by $799,809 last year.

LIFE'S ESSENTIALS

THE great structure of civilization with all its systems and ramifications depends for its existence upon three basic essentials—food, clothing, and shelter.

America is a provisioner, clothier, and builder of civilization. From our fields and factories we produce in vast quantities food, fabrics, and structural materials which are transported to the world's four corners. In these activities lie enduring wealth and prosperity.

It is the business of this institution to handle the banking transactions of organizations engaged in developing and distributing these basic essentials of life.

If Tempted—Don't

A well-known New York business man speaking intimately to his associates of a recent personal experience warned them against accepting appointments as executors or trustees. Such work, accepted often through a sense of duty to some friend, always proves burdensome, unprofitable and hazardous.

He strongly advised that such work be turned over to a financial institution like the Brooklyn Trust Company which makes a specialty of trust functions and carries them out more satisfactorily to all concerned.

PLEASE PAY TODAY, TAX MEN REQUEST

MANY EXEMPTIONS VALID

Collector Edwards Issues List of Earnings on Which Impost Will Not Be Levied.

With the time limit for payment of the first installment on income taxes only a week away, the rush to file returns began yesterday in the Custom House and branch offices of the Collector of Internal Revenue, at Lenox Avenue and 126th Street, 306 West Fifth-eight Street, 146 West Thirty-fourth Street and 4 Union Square.

Collector William H. Edwards has posted representatives of his office in all of the branches and many of the banks to aid in the preparation of returns. Mr. Edwards yesterday issued a statement warning taxpayers, particularly those who wanted assistance in preparing returns, not to wait until the last day or two before filing returns.

"Taxpayers will make it easy for themselves and help this office if they send in their returns and check or money order payments by mail," he said. "But do not send cash by mail."

Collector Edwards also gave out this statement prepared by the Internal Revenue Department for the guidance of taxpayers:

A "But" of Importance.

"The Revenue act of 1918 under which the income tax for 1920 is being collected provides that in the taxpayer's returns gross income from whatever source shall be included, "but." The word "but" is important, because following it is a list of items which are specifically exempt from taxation. Among these are:

"The value of property acquired as a gift by will or by inheritance. The income from such property is taxable.

"Proceeds of life insurance policies.

"Returns of premiums on life insurance, endowment, or annuity contract.

"Amounts received through accident or health insurance, or under workmen's compensation acts, plus the amount of damages received, whether by suit or agreement.

"Interest on obligations of any State or any city, town, county or village and the District of Columbia. Interest on obligations of the United States is exempt from taxation, except that interest on obligations issued after Sept. 1, 1917, is exempt only to the extent provided in the Liberty Loan acts.

"Interest on securities issued under the provisions of the Federal Farm Loan act of July 17, 1916.

Small Bond Lots Exempt.

"Interest on Liberty Bonds to the par value of $5,000 is exempt from all taxation. Holders of large amounts of Liberty Bonds are advised to consult their bankers or Collectors of Internal Revenue as to their exemptions.

"None of the above items is taxable (with the exception of securities issued under the provisions of the Federal Farm Loan act and Liberty Bonds), but must be shown in the taxpayer's return.

"Persons in active military or naval service are entitled to an exemption of $3,500 from amounts received for such services.

"This exemption is in addition to the personal exemptions of $1,000 for single persons and $2,000 for married persons and heads of families.

"Salaries paid employes of a State or political subdivision thereof,' such as a city, county, town or hamlet are also exempt from taxes. This applies to school teachers, policemen, firemen and all such employes, but does not apply to employes of Federal Government or to employes of the District of Columbia, part of whose salary is received from the Federal Government.

"With respect to any taxable income received in 1920 from other sources the taxpayer is subject to all provisions of the law and must file a return on or before March 15, 1921, if such other income amounted to $1,000 or $2,000 or more according to his status as a single or married person."

PLUMBERS' JURY IS CHOSEN.

Three More Plead Guilty While Talesmen Are Examined.

The jury in the case of the master plumbers on trial for violation of the Donnelly anti-trust law was selected and the State's case presented by Kenneth M. Spence, Special Deputy Attorney General, yesterday. The trial opened with seven individuals and plumbing corporations as defendants. Later the firm of Canavan & Dlegan and its two members, David Diegan and Michal J. Canavan, pleaded guilty, leaving four defendants to be tried. They are Charles A. Murphy, the Wells & Newton Company, Frank J. Fee and John L. Knight.

John W. Radel, engineer, of 420 West 121st Street, was elected foreman of the jury. The other jurors are Stewart Denning, bonds, 27 West Thirty-sixth Street; W. Irving Daley, salesman, 325 Amsterdam Avenue; Cornelius Renner, jeweler, 592 West 178th Street; William F. Orr, draftsman, 599 West 178th Street; William B. Porter, superintendent, 605 West 177th Street; Samuel N. Schwartz, broker, 230 West 105th Street; Adam F. Fish, clerk, 1 West 100th Street; William G. Schrader, auditor, 1,137 Third Avenue; William A. Hamilton, bank solicitor, 200 West Fifty-eighth Street; William R. Waddell, manufacturer, 521 West 178th Street, and Solon Schiller, insurance, 250 West 103d Street.

The trial will continue at 10:30 A. M. today.

RALLY AFTER DROP IN CHICAGO GRAINS

CORN AND OATS HEAVIEST

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, March 8.—Government report on farm reserves, showing 208,000,000 bushels of wheat, 1,572,000,000 of corn and 690,000,000 of oats on March 1, was materially in excess of the expectations of the trade, and compared with 165,000,000 bushels of wheat, 1,071,000,000 of corn and 419,000,000 of oats last year. The trade had been expecting a bearish report on coarse grains, but was unprepared for such figures, the holdings of corn and oats being by far the largest on record, and of wheat the largest since 1916, when they were 244,000,000 bushels.

As soon as the report was issued wheat dropped 2 cents to around $1.57 for May, compared with an official close of $1.58¾ to $1.59, which was about ¼ cent lower for the day. March finished with a net loss of 1¼ cent, the narrowing of the spread being due to free selling of March and buying of May by the Armour interest.

The report on coarse grains was construed as decidedly bearish by the trade. On wheat, it showed more on farms March 1, in a majority of the leading Winter wheat States, than on Jan. 1. The latter report eliminated the amount needed for Spring seeding. But, it was figured, such a difference cannot account for the fact that Kansas, which seeded 17,000 acres of Spring wheat last year, has now over 2,000,000 bushels more than on Jan. 1. Illinois, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Kansas combined have total wheat supplies of 88,500,000 bushels, compared with 71,200,000 bushels on Jan. 1, and seeded less than 600,000 acres of Spring wheat last year. In addition to which there has been a two months' movement from the farm to terminal markets.

On the whole, however, the report was regarded as probably right, as far as March 1 was concerned, but as confirming the trade contention that the Jan. 1 figures were 100,000,000 bushels too low in all positions. Based on the Government report as to farm reserves and allowing for 100,000,000 bushels at terminals, in country elevators and in mills the total supplies are figured at 308,000,000 bushels, compared with 334,000,000 last year, and were regarded as indicating between 30,000,000 and 40,000,000 bushels for export from March 1 to June 30, after allowing for a carry over of 70,000,000 bushels.

The figures on corn suggested a disappearance, so far this crop year, of 1,778,000,000 bushels against 1,858,000,000 last year and of oats 858,000,000 bushels against 873,000,000 last year.

Trade in futures was light and mainly of a local character. The late rally in wheat was due to short covering and a report of 500,000 bushels being sold for export. Argentine wheat, cost, insurance and freight, European ports, was figured about 1@1¼ cents higher than American via the Gulf. Crop reports continue very favorable, with losses from green bugs in Oklahoma small. Omaha offered No. 2 hard, track Chicago, at 1½ cents over March. Corn closed ½ cent and oats ⅝ cent lower, with the trading featureless.

One of the leading local houses expressed the belief that wheat would open lower, but would be followed by a bulge. Political developments failed to have the effect anticipated Monday.

Primary arrivals of wheat were 835,000 bushels; week ago, 737,000; last year, 491,000. Shipments were 529,000 bushels; week ago, 414,000; year ago, 276,000.

Corn receipts were 2,001,000 bushels; week ago, 1,770,000; year ago, 852,000, and shipments 770,000 bushels; week ago, 1,052,000; last year, 398,000.

SHIP SPAGHETTI TO ITALY.

Fifteen Tons of American Product Dispatched—Italians Prefer It.

Carrying coals to Newcastle or onions to Bermuda would be only slightly paradoxical compared to shipping spaghetti to Italy. But this latter happened yesterday when the Princess Matoika of the U. S. Mail Line left here for Genoa and Naples with fifteen tons of American spaghetti in her hold. The spaghetti filled 45,000 cases and took up a lot of space.

Why this sudden demand for American spaghetti in Italy? An Italian buyer on the steamer explained that many Italians returning home on visits had samples of spaghetti prepared here and the product found immediate favor and wide demand. He said it was made from much better wheat than could be obtained in Europe last season.

Seattle Must Pay, Court Decides.

The Superior Court at Seattle, in a suit brought by taxpayers, has handed down a decision which again obliges the City of Seattle to pay both the principal amount and interest of the bonds issued to acquire the street railway lines out of the gross earnings of the municipal street railway system and the traction lines acquired from the Puget Sound Traction, Light and Power Company.

Last Snow Cost City $1,800,000.

It cost the city $1,800,000 to remove the snow from the city's streets after the last snow storm, according to a report made yesterday by Street Cleaning Commissioner John P. Leo. The amount was only for Manhattan, the Bronx and Brooklyn, for Queens and Richmond take care of the removal from a fund provided by special revenue bonds.

Coal Co. Earns $27.30 Per Share.

The annual report of the Pittsburgh Coal Company for 1920 shows net profits after deductions of fixed charges, depletion, depreciation, but before Federal taxes, of $10,932,715, or $27.30 a share, compared with $4,559,716, or $7.46 a share, in 1919. The amounts earned on the common stock are after payment of preferred dividends.

Ansco Co. to Increase Capital Stock.

A special meeting of the stockholders of the Ansco Company has been called for March 22 to approve a proposal of the Directors to increase the capital stock from $1,300,000 to $2,300,000.

GRAIN ON FARMS AT RECORD MARK

Excepting Wheat, Holdings on March 1 Exceeded Those of Any Previous Year.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Larger stocks of grain were held on farms March 1 this year than on that date in any other year in history. Wheat was the only exception, the holdings in 1916, the year following the only billion-bushel crop, having exceeded this year's holdings by 37,000,000 bushels.

Almost half of the country's record corn crop of last year remained on farms March 1, with more than a quarter of the wheat crop and almost half of the large crop of oats, according to the Department of Agriculture's estimates, announced today.

The large crops of last year and decreased grain prices are believed to be largely responsible for the heavier holdings of farmers. Holdings of corn were more than half a billion bushels larger than a year ago, while wheat holdings were about 43,000,000 bushels more.

Iowa, premier corn State, had 100,000,000 bushels more corn on its farms than on March 1, 1920, and Illinois had 40,000,000 bushels more than a year ago, while Nebraska's holdings exceeded last year's by 87,000,000 bushels.

The principal wheat-producing States were holding larger stocks on farms than a year ago. Farm holdings of Kansas were largest, being about 5,000,000 bushels more than a year ago. Nebraska's holdings were second largest, and were more than 8,000,000 bushels larger than last year, while North Dakota's stocks were third largest, about 4,500,000 bushels greater than last year.

Grain Totals on Farms.

The detailed figures of the Agricultural Department's statement give wheat held on farms March 1 as about 207,591,000 bushels, or 26.4 per cent. of the 1920 crop, compared with 164,624,000 bushels, or 17.6 per cent. of the 1919 crop held a year ago.

Corn held on farms was about 1,572,307,000 bushels, or 48.6 per cent. of the 1920 crop, compared with 1,070,677,000 bushels, or 37.5 per cent. of the 1919 crop so held a year ago. About 87 per cent., or 2,811,266,000 bushels of the 1920 crop is merchantable, compared with 87 per cent., or 2,486,296,000 bushels, of the 1919 crop.

Oats held on farms was about 689,506,000 bushels, or 45.2 per cent. of the 1920 crop, compared with 418,983,000 bushels, or 34 per cent. of the 1919 crop so held a year ago.

SPHINX CLUB 25 YEARS OLD.

F. J. Gibson, Blind Founder, Gets Special Watch at Waldorf Dinner.

The Sphinx Club, said to be the oldest advertising club in the world, celebrated its silver anniversary with a dinner last night at the Waldorf-Astoria. A feature of the program was the presentation of a specially designed gold watch with raised figures to Frederic James Gibson, founder of the club, who has been blind for many years.

Mr. Gibson who, despite his infirmity, is actively engaged in the publication of the Bronx Home News, spoke of the early history of the club. Oscar Tschirky of the Waldorf-Atsoria management, who has arranged and attended every dinner of the club, received a loving cup on which was engraved the names of all the members.

EX-GOV. SMITH APPEALS FOR SIMPLIFIED RULE

Hailed in Albany Appeal for Constitutional Amendments—Wants No Other Office.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 8.—Reconstruction of the State Government by constitutional proviso, rather than by statutory enactment, was advocated by ex-Governor Alfred E. Smith at a public hearing today before the Judiciary Committees of the Senate and Assembly on a series of reconstruction measures which call for amendment to the organic law. In this stand the former Governor was supported by Elihu Root, George W. Wickersham, Henry L. Stimson and John Lord O'Brian, who, while not present at the hearing, sent letters which were filed with the committees.

Ex-Governor Smith had a great reception on his first visit to the Capitol since his retirement from office. On his way up Capitol Hill he was stopped every few steps by men and women who wanted to shake hands with him. In the Capitol corridors the handshaking was almost continuous. When he arose to speak in the Senate Chamber there was applause which lasted a minute or more.

One of the amendments before the committee provides for reorganization of the State Government by aggregating all the civil activities of the State within twenty-one different departments with the proviso that no new departments must be created by statute, except commissions designed for some specific purpose not within the scope of an existing department. Another would give four-year terms to the Governor and the Lieutenant Governor. Provision is made for making the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Controller and Attorney General the only elective State officials. The third amendment provides for the institution of an executive budget system and the fourth for inspection of State institutions.

The proposed amendment for the consolidation of State departments was adopted by the Legislature last year. If again adopted by the present Legislature and ratified at the polls in November, it would become effective on Jan. 1, 1922. The other measures under the most favorable circumstances could not become effective under two years later.

Former Governor Smith in his address said that no partisan motive had brought him to the Capitol and that he had held all the officers he would take. He called attention to the fact that no opposition had been registered to the general reconstruction plan.

"Do you know why?" he asked. "I'll tell you. The people are for it. This amendment would not be before you now if that was not the case."

The ex-Governor said that New York State was struggling along under an organic law which it had outgrown. He declared that the shortening of the ballot was a good thing.

"What good can ever come of having a State Engineer, a Secretary of State or a State Treasurer elected?" he asked. "I have had difficulty in finding people who know their names. And is there any reason why the engineering activities of the State should be divided among five or six agencies?"

Speaking of the budget, ex-Governor Smith pronounced the present system a "joke." He strongly commended the four-year term of office.

"If a Governor wants re-election he must give up six months out of his term of twenty-four to campaigning," he said.

SHIPPING BOARD IN DOUBT.

Attorney General Asked to Pass on Status of Its Members.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Attorney General Daugherty has been asked to render an opinion on the present status of the Shipping Board in order to determine if any of the present Commissioners can remain in office until their successors are named by President Harding.

While all seven of the members were recess appointees whose nominations were not acted upon by the Senate, the Chairman and Commission John A. Donald were members of the original board before the passage of the Jones act. Mr. Daugherty's opinion is sought, Chairman Benson explained tonight, to determine if the two members of the old board could remain in office until formally relieved and, in that event to what extent they can function.

President Harding, the Chairman said, had expressed his appreciation of the decision of the seven former members of th board to remain as trustee of the Emergency Fleet Corporation to safeguard the Government-owned merchant fleet until the new board has qualified.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday ..7½ to 7¾ p. c. for the best names

Thick-Edged Brims Coming In.

A new note that is beginning to make itself felt in Spring millinery is the thick-edged brim, which, because of the youthful effect it produces, is doing very well abroad. Horsehair, due to its lack of weight and bulkiness, is especially adaptable for use in the new brims, but rows of visca and other straw braid are also used in them successfully. Similar brim treatment is seen in some of the newer ribbon and fabric hats, in which the brim shows a kind of padded effect.

Stripes in Neckwear Silks.

Authentic opinion in the tie silk trade is that striped materials will see increased sales and that designs of this order will be especially strong for the Fall season. This is regarded as an augury of improved business and one that will get away from the present price consideration, for the reason that stripe goods are only carried out well in the better grades of fabric. One of the leading men's retailers has featured diagonal striped designs in brilliant colorings with enough success to warrant the prediction that such patterns will be popular.

Gray Goods Sales Smaller.

European developments put an effective check on gray goods trading here yesterday. Although several constructions of goods were dealt in, the volume of sales was not large in the aggregate, and most of the sales were for delivery during the present month. First hands were the principal sellers. Printcloth business was done in 39-inch 68-72s at 7¾ cents, 38½-inch 64-60s at 6¾ cents, 38½-inch 64-56s at 6½ cents and 38½-inch 60-48s at 5⅞ cents. Among the day's limited sheetings sales were 5.50s at 5¼ cents. Buyers again paid 12¼ cents for 39-inch 4.20-yard sateens.

Grays Still Top the Demand.

The feature of the business being done at the moment in the finer grades of silk hose, which is by no means small, is the continued heavy demand for grays and "African" browns. These two shades are, it was said yesterday, to dominate the demand for street hose almost to the exclusion of the others. Even blacks, excepting in the sheerest goods, are running far behind them. For "Harding blue" and "Coolidge brown," no matter how much they may be favored in other directions, there was said to be very little demand in the silk hosiery field.

Getting Their Price.

There was a good deal of talk when prices were at their peak of buyers favoring, those sellers who endeavored to keep prices within reason and not load on all that the traffic would bear simply because conditions permitted. With the situation turned about and buyers in control, the latter have not always carried out their promises, but there are instances where scrupulous manufacturers have benefited through their just policies in time of stress. One such case is that of a leading silk house which sold a certain article it manufactured at well below the speculative market during the boom of last year. Now it is having a brisk sale for the same article even though it is somewhat above the open market.

Later Deliveries for Silks.

Some of the representative silk houses are refusing orders which call for deliveries within three weeks. On wanted goods they ask from four to six weeks for making delivery. Rush order business is the rule of the day in the trade but, despite the apparent size of the demand, the manufacturers are proceeding cautiously and not looking very much further than two months ahead. Canton crêpes continue to be the material in most demand though other constructions are gaining in strength. Among these might be mentioned foulard, for which a well-known maker predicts a popular run. This concern, probably the oldest in the business, resumed full-time operation of all its mills this week.

Possibilities in Woolens.

Woolen representatives make no claim that the market has returned to normal, but they are certain of a much-improved feeling on the part of buyers. Liquidation of clothing stocks has been going on for some time and has about exhausted desirable merchandise and reduced other holdings. The jobbers are not carrying very much of a surplus, and there is every sign that a fully restored trade will see values become stronger. Sellers are attentive to general conditions of employment and business and believe that, once there is a decided turn for the better outside their industry, the market will see restored prosperity. The fact is not forgotten that the openings are almost two months behind their usual date and that at least six months' production must be crowded into four.

Hosiery Buyers Interested.

Between 700 and 800 jobbers and retailers, from all parts of the country, were in this city yesterday looking over the men's and women's hosiery which is to be sold today, by order of the Ipswich Mills, at a peremptory auction that will begin at 10 A. M. in the salesrooms of Wilmerding, Morris & Mitchell, 470 Broome Street. The goods, which consist of first quality two-thread lisle and mercerized hosiery, in black, white and colors, will be sold in case lots only, and are packed 30 to 60 dozen to the case. More than 5,000 cases are to be sold. Buyers were registered yesterday from points as far separated as San Francisco, New Orleans and Portland, Me. Because of the widespread interest in the sale it is expected that the entire offering will be disposed of in four or five hours.

Consumer Education in Styles.

The United Waist League announced yesterday that a plan has been adopted, in conjunction with skirt manufacturers, whereby styles produced by both trades will be shown in public places on mannequins. This will follow the method employed by the French dressmakers in the exploitation of their designs, whose models visit the racetracks and other fashionable resorts. It is the opinion of executives of the league that, whereas American women are well dressed in the main, nevertheless further education in the selection of styles and colors would be desirable and promote even better taste in matters of dress. The mannequins will be dispatched on their errand of display around Easter and a little later, when blouse and skirt combinations can be worn with comfort.

To Discuss Shipping Situation.

Organizations of shippers throughout the United States are invited to send accredited representatives to a meeting that is to be held on Monday next at the Congress Hotel, Chicago, with a view to taking some action to relieve present transportation conditions and the situation in the commercial world which has grown out of the current high freight rates. All farm organizations and manufacturers' and consumers' associations are invited to be represented. A representative of railway labor and of railway corporations has been asked to address the meeting, the call to which has been signed, among others, by executives of nineteen different associations and the Attorney Generals for Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Michigan, Washington, Idaho and Nevada. Communications concerning the meeting should be sent to Clifford Thorne, Lytton Building, Chicago.

SEEK WATERPOWER PERMITS

Applications to Develop 5,000,000 Horsepower Before Federal Commission.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—When the new members of the Federal Power Commission, consisting of Secretaries Weeks, Wallace and Fall, hold their first meeting, they will find before them applications for water power permits proposing to generate about 5,000,000 horsepower, or about five times as much as is generated on the American side of Niagara Falls.

Several projects to develop power and irrigation from the Colorado River have been proposed. The majority propose to dam the river and furnish power and irrigation for the upper Salt Lake mining and agricultural region and to the lower river district in Arizona. However, a large part of the power would be transmitted to California. The Colorado River, engineers of the commission say, has possibilities for the development of from 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 horsepower.

An application by the Westinghouse Company has been filed by Paul T. Brady of New York for permission to develop the Delaware River in New York and Pennsylvania, with the intention of supplying 300,000 horsepower of electricity to factories in and around New York City.

Applications filed for development of the St. Lawrence River probably will be held up awaiting the decision of the International Joint Committee on several proposals for power and navigation projects for the river, it was said at the office of the Power Commission.

BANK EMPLOYE INDICTED.

J. J. Hallihan Charged With Stealing Cash and Liberty Bonds.

John J. Hallihan of 101 Berkeley Place Brooklyn, was indicted in the United States District Court yesterday on a charge of abstracting funds and credit belonging to the importers and Traders National Bank and converting the money to his own use.

The indictment recites that on Oct. 4, 1918, Hallihan took $200 in cash; on Oct. 15, 1918, $1,000 in cash, and on May 18, 1920, $6,000 Liberty bonds. Maxwell S. Mattuck, Assistant United States Attorney, said that Hallihan had been in the employ of the bank since Dec. 8, 1902, and that since the beginning of the Liberty Loan drives he had been in charge of the handling of the bonds.

ANDERSON RICHES WILLED TO CHARITY

Woman Philanthropist's Chief Gift Is $1,500,000 to Memorial Fund Association.

$60,000 GOES TO HUSBAND

$250,000 Trust Funds for Daughter and Granddaughter With Earlier Provisions.

The will of Mrs. Elizabeth Milbank Anderson, one of the best known women philanthropists, who had given away about $10,000,000 for public purposes during her lifetime, devotes the bulk of the $5,000,000 remaining for similar uses. Her largest gift is of $1,500,000 to the Memorial Fund Association established by her in 1905, to which she first gave $3,000,000, and has since donated $5,000,000 more. She directs that the name be changed to the Milbank Memorial Fund.

Mrs. Anderson, who died Feb. 22, was the wife of Abraham A. Anderson, artist, and daughter of the late Jeremiah Milbank, noted financier at the time of his death in 1884, Director of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, and founder with Gall Borden of the Borden Company. Inherited her fortune from her father, and had been diligent ever since in using it in a beneficial way.

Mrs. Anderson gave her husband $60,000, and makes trust funds of $250,000 each for her daughter, Dr. Elenor Anderson Campbell, and granddaughter, Elizabeth Milbank Anderson 2d, but it was stated that liberal provision for them as well as for other relatives was made during the lifetime of Mrs. Anderson. Each of her employes with her more than two years got $500, and the residuary estate went equally to Dr. Charles M. Cauldwell and Albert G. Milbank, cousins.

The Children's Aid Society received $100,00 for the convalescent home at Chappaqua, N. Y., which was founded by Mrs. Anderson and is located on property which she gave for the purposes. Her total gifts to the society have aggregated $1,000,000.

The New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor received $250,000, and $100,000 went to the National Committee for Mental Hygiene, Inc., which devotes itself to improving the condition of the insane and the mentally deficient.

The following received $50,000 each: Henry Street Settlement, Fisk University, at Nashville, Tenn.; New York Hospital and the Legal Aid Society for the Harlem branch.

Barnard College, which received many gifts from Mrs. Anderson during her lifetime, gets $40,000, to be used for the construction of Brooks Hall, to which Mrs. Anderson previously gave $200,000. Mrs. Anderson was a Trustee and Vice Chairman of the board of Barnard.

Her first gift to Barnard had been Milbank Hall, the first of the buildings into which the college moved when it left its old location on Madison Avenue in 1895. She later bought three blocks of land from New York Hospital between 116th and 119th Streets and Broadway and Claremont Avenue for $1,000,000 and on the site had been constructed Brooks Hall and a students' building presented by the late Jacob H. Schiff.

The will gives $25,000 each to the National Child Labor Committee, Tuskegee Institute, and State Charities Aid Association. Gifts of $10,000 went to the American S. P. C. A., Baptist Home for the Aged, and the Society of the Music School Settlement of New York. The Oneida Baptist Institute of Oneida and the Ladies' Christian Union of New York City got $5,000 each.

The Milbank Memorial Fund, which gets the largest gift under the will, is managed by Directors including Elihu Root, Edward W. Sheldon, President of the New York Trust Company, who is President; Thomas Cochran of J. P. Morgan & Co., John G. Milburn, George L. Nichols and Dr. Charles M. Cauldwell. Among the recent gifts from the fund were $100,000 for the Serbian children and $50,000 to the Hoover Fund. Mrs. Anderson received the medal of honor for her gifts to France during the war.

Mrs. Anderson's gifts to relatives and friends include bequests of $50,000 each to Dixwell D. Davenport of San Francisco, Kate Clemeny Hewitt of San Francisco, and Clara B. Spence of Miss Spence's School, Manhattan. Legacies of $25,000 each go to Mina Roman, 18 West Fifty-first Street.

The will of Mrs. Mary G. Quimby, who died Feb. 3, leaves $50,000 to her friend, Mary R. Matches of Hamilton, Ontario, $5,000 to James Fagan, an employe, and $5,000 to Martha L. Legge of Temperanceville, Ontario, "in appreciation of her thoughtful care and attention to my husband." Mrs. Gertrude T. Black, wife of General William M. Black, Chief of Engineers, U. S. Army, gets $10,000, and life bequests go to Mary Gamble Young, cousin, and Will P. and Robert E. Quimby, grandsons, of 315 West Ninety-ninth Street, who get the residue.

The public bequests are $25,000 each to St. Luke's Hospital and the Home for Old Men and Aged Couples, and $10,000 to the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

UNION IS ENJOINED IN NEEDLE FIGHT

$2,000,000 SUITS PENDING

Local Is Threatened With Further Damage Actions—Pickets to Be Withdrawn.

Supreme Court Justice Erlanger yesterday enjoined the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, through Sidney Hillman, General President of the union, other oficers and members, from interfering with the business of Joseph Skolny & Co., clothing manufacturers, of 906 Broadway, with two branches in Brooklyn. This firm employs 400 non-union workers, and does an annual business of $3,000,000.

The decision was considered important, in view of the number of other similar suits brought by clothing manufacturers against the union, as a result of the controversy between the Amalgamated and the Clothing Manufacturers' Association of New York, now in its fourteenth week. Suits asking for more than $2,000,000 in damages are pending against the union, and that of the J. Friedman Company, clothing manufacturer, for $500,000 asks also for the dissolution of the Amalgamated.

In granting an injunction pendente lite—awaiting the trial of the union in a suit for $250,000 damages—Justice Erlanger refused to grant a motion for judgment on the pleadings, dismissing the complaint, and charged $10 costs against the union.

"In violation of the contract rights of the plaintiff and contrary to the terms of said contracts of employment," reads the decision, "and without complaint, grievance or dispute among said employes, and with the intent solely to prevent the plaintiffs' said business and bringing about disorder therein and chaos into the community, the members of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America prior to the commencing of this action unlawfully and maliciously agreed together, confederated and combined and forced themselves into a conspiracy, the purpose of which they are proceeding to carry out, to cause the plaintiffs' factory to be shut down, their plant to remain idle, their contracts to be broken and unfilled.

Unlawfully Enticed Workers.

"This until such time as plaintiffs shall submit to the demand of said Amalgamated Workers to unionize their factory and by employing workers who shall be members of and subject to the orders of such association and in furtherance of said conspiracy and unlawful combination are wrongfully and unlawfully instigating plaintiffs' employes to cease working for the plaintiff and to join said association in the accomplishment of the aforesaid purposes."

Justice Erlanger recites the picketing of the Skolny factory, the congregating about the premises of strikers and pickets, cases of intimidation, threatening and the like by which they are enticing employes under contract with plaintiffs to desert their employment and to breach their contracts and to join said association and hampering and hindering the free dispatch of plaintiffs' business.

"In the last analysis the papers do show grounds for the injunction. At one time denial of the equities of the bill defeated the application for such relief. That time is gone. Acts which amount to a crime are not usually admitted. Courts look into the merits of the motion. It is now the rule that only a prima facie case need be made.

"And if the court can spell from the case that that has been shown, it has been held to be enough. The plaintiffs' claim that they have established an open shop; that employment in their factories depends upon an agreement in writing from week to week with their employes that they have ceased to be affiliated with the union, that they will not join any union while so employed, and that they will abstain from all efforts to bring about the unionizing of the plaintiffs' employes. The defendants attack the form of plaintiffs' contracts and insist they are invalid because no definite time is fixed and the employe can be discharged at any moment, that they are invalid for lack of consideration, that there is no evidence of an attempt to procure a breach of them, that their picketing is lawful, that they have a right to combine to strike and to persuade others to join them to improve their economic condition, that they have no notice of plaintiffs' contracts, &c.

Calls Picketing Lawful.

"It is clearly established that picketing is lawful—that a man may work or not as he shall choose, that he may strike with others and peacably seek others to join. But it is equally well settled that a worker may work whereSoever it pleases him, that he may labor and provide for himself and family without being subjected to the danger of assault or threat of bodily harm, that he cannot be compelled to join a union if he is not disposed to do so, that employes may not be enticed from their employment by threats or otherwise, that the right to live and let live is a God-given right to be observed by all, and that all rights, whether of greater or less magnitude, will be protected by the courts, which the people have created for the protection of all.

"Intimidation does not necessarily carry with it an act of violence. The application of the term 'scab,' the use of insulting epithets, the fear of going back and forth to the workshop and the visitations at the homes of workers and threatening them if they did not quit working for plaintiffs; that the union would see to it, if they won the strike, that they would never again get employment in the clothing trade and the like has been found effective. It is a silent weapon, but carries with it a menacing attitude.

"Parties placed in the position of plaintiffs and their workers are not obliged to resort to criminal proceedings for protection against unlawful combinations or conspiracies. Under modern decisions courts of equity are more apt to restore order and confidence than doubtful results in a criminal court."

An order embodying the decision will be signed as soon as the attorneys for both sides agree on the form of the order. Harry A. Gordon, counsel for the Clothing Manufacturers' Association of New York, who argued the case for the Skolnys, is also counsel in the other suits referred to. It was indicated yesterday that still other similar actions would be brought in behalf of members of the Clothing Manufacturers' Association.

It was said that the Amalgamated would immediately withdraw its pickets from the Skolny plants.

BOUGHT BY F. A. VANDERLIP.

Rogers Homestead to Be Part of Scarborough School.

Special to The New York Times.

SCARBOROUGH, March 8.—Frank A. Vanderlip, the banker, has purchased the Colonial mansion and adjoining grounds, known as the Rogers homestead, at the corner of Albany Post Road and Briarcliff Road in Scarborough.

The property, bought for the use of Mr. Vanderlip's private educational institution known as Scarborough School, is across the street from Mr. Vanderlip's home.

The homestead was sold by Miss Jessie Rogers to William Rockefeller a few years ago and he in turn sold it to the Sleepy Hollow Country Club, which leased it to O. C. Macy, whose family is occupying it now. Mr. Vanderlip bought it from the club. It is reported that he will erect an overhead bridge across the Post Road for children attending the school.

BUILDING LOANS PLACED.

$325,000 for New West Side Garage, Leased From the Plans.

William A. White & Sons, have placed a building loan of $325,000 with William Henry Barnum & Co., for the erection of a four-story garage on the northeast corner of Twenty-third Street and Thirteenth Avenue. The structure, which is to be built and owned by the Chelsea Moore Corporation, will have a frontage of 205 feet on Twenty-third Street and 101 feet on Thirteenth Avenue.

The garage has been leased by the owners to Simkovits, Levi & Simkovits for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of about $50,000.

Charles B. Van Valen has placed for the Lebertan Corporation a loan of $300,000 on the twelve-story office building at the northeast corner of Broadway and Maiden Lane.

A mortgage of $600,000 has been obtained by the Phipps estate on the building at 501-503 Fifth Avenue from the Bank for Savings. Harvey B. Nevins acted as broker.

Commercial Leases.

The six-story building at 719 and 721 Washington Street, northeast corner of West Eleventh Street, on a plot 75 by 100 feet., for the last two years occupied by the California Wine Growers' Association, has been leased for ten years by William A. White & Sons for the 20th Realty Corporation to the American Express Company.

P. M. Clear & Co. have leased for Adolph S. Landau the five-story building at 230 West Twenty-seventh Street, to the Shapanka Realty Company. The latter will alter the building as a cost of about $25,000, converting it into a store and loft structure.

The Harris-Dibble Company, publishers, have leased through Frederick Fox & Co. the fourth floor in the Fox building, 297 Madison Avenue, southeast corner of Forty-first Street.

Henry Shapiro & Co. have leased for the Fifth Avenue-Fourteenth Street Corporation to Harry Rhoades the store at the southwest corner of Fourteenth Street and Fifth Avenue. The owners were represented by Spear & Co.

Tankoos, Smith & Co. have leased for the 305 Broadway Company, represented by H. S. Ely & Co., agents, the northerly store at 309 Broadway in the Landon building, northwest corner of Broadway and Duane Street, to the Robey Hat Stores.

Joseph P. Day has leased for the Touraine Chocolate Company the five-story building now occupied by that company at 379 and 381 Washington Street, northeast corner of Beach Street, on a plot 59.3 by 60 feet, to the Northwestern Electric Equipment Company.

M. & L. Hess have leased the store at 132 West Thirtieth Street, to Moses N. Berlin, cotton goods.

Realty Notes.

Cornelia G. Mackenzie is the buyer of 19 Broad Street.

Joseph W. Mantell and others are the buyers of the southwest corner of Eighth Avenue and Thirty-sixth Street.

In the Vesey Street Auction Salesroom yesterday Bryant L. Kennelly sold in partition for $1,000 the small interior parcel, 10.7 by 23.1 oy 12.7 by 23.10, in the rear of 116 and 118 Wall Street and 61 and 62 South Street. Particular interest attached to this offering because it was reported that more than 100 persons were defendants in the partition action, which was brought by the Lawyers Realty Company on behalf of a large sugar concern, to clear title. The plaintiff acquired the property on a single bid.

H. L. Moxley & Co. leased for Butler Brothers, Inc., the fifth floor, consisting of 21,000 square feet, in Building "E," Hoboken Factory Terminal, Hoboken, to the United States Mail Steamship Company. Joseph P. Day was associate broker.

New Jersey Buyers.

The residence on Grove Road, South Orange, recently owned by Edward Broege, has been purchased from the latter by Le Roy La Voke. The plot is 115 by 210 feet, and it was held at $28,000. The Raymond Connolly Company acted as brokers.

Harvey B. Nevins sold for the Rythmodik Music Company its plants at Newark, containing 40,000 square feet, and held at $100,000. Louis Kamm represented the purchasers.

Bronx Apartment Sale.

Edward H. Burger sold the five-story apartment house on the southeast corner of 194th Street and Briggs Avenue, north of Fordham Road, to Alexander D. Adams for investment. Mr. Adams will occupy one of the apartments. Sylvesta Mascola of D. A. Trotta, Inc., was the broker in the sale.

Eighth Avenue Resale.

Daniel B. Freedman has resold to the tenant the four-story business building at 812 Eighth Avenue, adjoining the northeast corner of Forty-ninth Street, on a lot 25 by 100. It was purchased last week by Mr. Freedman from the estate of Frances Adelaide Lawrence.

Harold L. Lewis was the broker in both deals.

Finds Bread Sold Underweight.

ALBANY, March 8.—More than half of the loaves of bread weighed recently by agents of the Food and Markets Division of the Department of Farms and Markets were underweight, Commissioner Eugene H. Porter made known today. Investigation into the weight of wrapped loaves showed, he said, that out of 1,137 tested, 680 were short weight from one-half ounce to one-half pound, 289 were overweight and 168 weighed exactly as marked.

Bans Sale of Cigarettes in Utah.

SALT LAKE CITY, March 8.—A bill forbidding the sale of cigarettes in Utah was signed by Governor Charles R. Mabey today. The bill also prohibits other smoking in public places.

IMPORTANT DEAL ON 57TH STREET BLOCK

SIXTY-THREE YEARS' LEASE

Represents Annual Rental of About $80,000 a Year—Commercial Building Planned.

An important transaction in Fifty-seventh Street's growing commercial block between Fifth and Sixth Avenues, and which is likely to lead at an early day to another big business improvement, was closed yesterday by Frederick Brown, the operator who acquired under a long lease a large parcel near Sixth Avenue. The property he has taken includes the seven-story Soncy apartment house at 49 to 55 West Fifty-seventh Street, fronting 69.7 feet, and the two abutting seven-story apartment structures known as the Blenheim and Biltmore at 56 to 62 West Fifty-eighth Street, fronting 100 feet. The three parcels adjoin the corner of Sixth Avenue, having a depth of 200 feet and a area of about 17,000 square feet.

This property has been leased for twenty-one years with the privilege of two renewals from Philip G. Bartlett, Dwight W. Morrow and George H. Howard, executors of the estate of John W. Simpson. Mr. Morrow, one of the executors, is a partner in the J. P. Morgan firm. The lease for the three periods, sixty-three years in all, will aggregate, it is stated, about $5,000,000, the annual rental being about $75,000 to $80,000 a year. The lease was closed through Bernard Smyth & Sons. Simpson, Thacher & Bartlett represented the Simpson estate in the transaction and Julius H. Zieser represented Mr. Brown as attorney.

The parcel acquired by Mr. Brown is the largest available plot in that Fifty-seventh Street commercial area under one ownership and is peculiarly well situated for an important commercial operation. The new owner will take possession immediately. The apartment leases are on short terms, and while no definite plans have yet been determined upon, it was stated that a large fireproof commercial building will probably be erected on the site within the next year or two.

Harlem Dwelling Deals.

Fitz Howell sold for Mary L. Brouner the three-story dwelling on lot 15 by 99.11 at 319 West 137th Street to James R. Goodwin for occupancy. The seller was represented by De Witt, Lockman & De Witt. Mr. Howell resold for Thomas H. Marsh the three-story dwelling on lot 19.6 by 99.11 at 221 West 130th Street to Julia Birmingham for occupancy.

The three-story dwelling at 45 East 120th Street, plot 20 by 100 feet, has been purchased by Mary A. Brosnan from Julia Dillion. The brokers were Mulvihill & Co.

Suburban Buyers.

Chauncey B. Griffen & Co. have sold for George H. Bliss his residence on a half-acre plot in Prospect Park, White Plains, to H. D. Best. The property was held at $30,000.

Cornelius G. Kolff has sold for Jacob Black the six-family flat at 187 Richmond Turnpike, Tompkinsville, on a plot 58 by 140 feet, to Leon Stuhl.

Mrs. H. M. Peck has sold a corner at Wood and Keene Lanes, in the park section of Woodmere, to Rudolph Stein, who will erect a residence on the property. E. S. & S. F. Voss were the brokers.

Brooklyn Realty Activity.

The two-and-one-half-story frame dwelling at 466 Carlton Avenue, on a lot 18 by 100 feet, has been sold for Joseph Vollkommer through Louis Arnold as broker. He also sold 546 Putnam Avenue, a two-story dwelling, on a lot 20 by 100, for the Littlewood estate, and 501 Carlton Avenue, a three-story dwelling, on a lot 20 by 96, for the estate of Amelia Wright Wickstead.

The three-story dwelling at 15 Prospect Park West, near President Street, has been sold for Walter Krasiow by Henry Pierson & Co.

Tenement Investments.

The W. H. Ebbitt Company has sold for Edmund Bayliss the five-story flat at the southeast corner of Amsterdam Avenue and 179th Street. D. H. Jackson was the buyer.

The A. G. Thompson Company sold 125 West 135d Street, a five-story apartment house, on a plot 27 by 100, for Frances S. Braum to Fannie L. Wood.

Tenants Buy in Third Street.

Joseph M. May has sold for S. Liebmann's Sons Brewing Company to Beck & Fleischer the four-story brick building at 272 East Third Street. The purchasers are the present tenants and they will make alterations for their business needs.

Buys Harlem Plot for Business.

James L. Van Sant has resold to Philip Silverman 125 and 127 East 129th Street, a plot 50 by 100 feet, occupied by a four-story stable, which the seller recently purchased from the Payne estate. After alterations the property will be used as a furniture warehouse. David Pheiffer was the broker in the transaction.

Heights Plot for Apartment.

Archibald H. Sinclair sold the vacant plot on the northeast corner of 165th Street and Audubon Avenue, 50 by 90 feet. The buyer will improve the plot with an apartment house.

290 PARK AVENUE LEASE.

Restaurant In New Co-operative Apartment House Leased for $700,000.

The restaurant space in the new seventeen-story co-operative apartment house which is being erected at 290 Park Avenue by the Fred T. Ley Company, Inc., has been leased for a period of years to "Pierre," the restauranteur, now located at 1 1to 17 East Forty-fifth Street. Douglas L. Elliman & Co. negotiated the lease, which aggregates about $700,000. In addition to which the lessee will spend a large amount on decorations and furnishings.

The steel work of the new building is now entirely completed and the brick work up to the eleventh floor. The structure occupies the entire block bounded by Forty-eighth and Forty-ninth Streets, Park and Vanderbilt Avenues, and when completed next October will be the finest and largest co-operative apartment house ever erected. Almost all the stock in the scheme has been sold to prominent New Yorkers. Involved in the operation is a total of about $7,000,000; $4,500,000 for the construction and over $2,000,000 in the ground rental to be paid to the New York Central for the use of the property.

$1,000,000 Broadway Lease.

The United Cigar Stores Company has leased to Benjamin Winter, for a term of twenty-one years, its property on the southwest corner of Eighty-second Street and Broadway at about $50,000 a year, or an aggregate of $1,000,000 for the term.

The property consists of a seven-story building occupying a plot fronting 90 feet on Broadway and 175 feet on the street. Harvey B. Newins negotiated the transaction.

COUNTRY-SUBURBAN HOME BARGAIN
Because the purchaser for whom it was finished cannot complete the financial part of his contract, this very attractive, pretty Colonial type of suburban home, located in a beautiful, strictly residential section, near New York, specially built for comfortable year-round occupancy, can be bought for ¾ less than cost today. The desires of the neighbors as to personality of buyer will be respected. The house itself is in perfect condition, ready to occupy immediately, and contains ten very large rooms and two tiled baths. The price includes an electric range, electric fixtures and shades. There is also a completely equipped garage, corresponding to the house in architecture. The plot consists of about one-third acre, with 100 ft. street frontage. Unusual care and taste have been used in landscaping the grounds, which are beautifully shaded and contain many shrubs and flowers. The elevation is about 700 ft.; wonderful scenery, very healthful living conditions. Water rights to a chain of beautiful lakes run with the title. The railroad station is within easy walk. Commuting facilities to the city are of the best. Immediate occupancy and title can be had on payment of $3,500; and the balance of $10,500 may remain on mortgages at convenient terms. Special discount for cash. Complete details and pictures can be obtained from GEO. C. BLACKWELL, Sherman Sq. Hotel, 71st and Broadway, N. Y. City. Tel. 8400 Columbus.

COPY CHIEF WANTED.

This is one of the big jobs in the Advertising Agency business and has potentialities second to none.

The requirements are, first, the ability to write the kind of copy that really sells goods, for we don't believe a copy chief can secure from his men what he can't produce himself.

Second—He must have a pleasing personality and the ability to command the respect of each member of the department and get from them the loyal, enthusiastic co-operation which is so essential.

Third—This man must have executive ability; the best writer would make the poorest copy chief if he didn't possess that.

Fourth—An appreciation of good art work is necessary, so that he can have the best co-operation of the Art Department.

The agency which is looking for this man has a national reputation for strong, convincing copy, the writers are all picked men—what is needed is a leader.

We believe that the man we want is at present located, either as a copy chief or assistant, in one of the biggest and best agencies—or perhaps he is Advertising Manager of some large manufacturer.

In either case we have a proposition which cannot fail to interest him, both from the standpoint of immediate salary and future rewards.

Please give full details in first letter. All correspondence will be held in utter confidence and letter will be returned if requested. Y 234 Times.

The Weather.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Pressure was abnormally high Tuesday night off the Atlantic Coast, low over a narrow belt extending from the Great Lakes southwestward to Texas and high over the plains States and the Northern Rocky Mountain region within the last twenty-four hours. This pressure distribution was attended by rain in the North Atlantic States, the region of the Great Lakes, the great central valleys and the West Gulf States and light local snows over the plains States and the Rocky Mountain region.

Abnormally warm weather continued during Tuesday in the Southern and Eastern States, the Ohio Valley and the lower lake region, while the weather has become much cooler over the Mississippi Valley, the plains States and the Central Rocky Mountain region.

In the New England States the weather will be unsettled, with rain, Wednesday and fair and colder on Thursday. In the Middle Atlantic States the weather will be unsettled, with rain, Wednesday and cloudy Thursday, with considerably lower temperature. In the South Atlantic and East Gulf States the weather will be unsettled, with local rains and lower temperature Wednesday and Thursday. In Tennessee, the Ohio Valley and the lower lake region rain will be followed by clearing and cooler weather on Wednesday and fair and continued cool weather on Thursday. In the upper lake region the weather will be fair and colder on Wednesday and fair Thursday.

FORECAST FOR TODAY AND THURSDAY.

Northern New England—Rain Wednesday, colder Wednesday night. Thursday fair and colder.

Southern New England—Unsettled weather and rain Wednesday. Thursday cloudy and colder.

Eastern New York—Cloudy with rain Wednesday, colder in west portion. Thursday cloudy and colder.

New Jersey—Showers Wednesday, cooler Wednesday afternoon. Thursday cloudy and colder.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

FALSE TYPHUS SCARE IN EAST SIDE HOME

Physicians Disagree Over Immigrant Mother Found in Coma in Crowded Quarter.

DIAGNOSED AS TOXEMIA

Dr. Copeland Announces Movement in Schools to Free Children of Disease Carriers.

What is believed to be a case of typhus in an immigrant living in a teeming quarter of the east side was discovered early this morning, when a policeman summoned an ambulance from Gouverneur Hospital to 84 Ridge Street, where Mrs. Lottie Warecvek, 38 years old, lay in a coma.

Dr. Barovick, the ambulance surgeon, at once diagnosed the case as typhus, but a private physician who had been attending Mrs. Warecvek arrived in time to protest her removal to Willard Parker Hospital, where the Health Department isolates contagious diseases.

The ambulance doctor insisted that the woman could not be taken to any other hospital and, upon the other doctor's continued demurrer, communicated with the Bureau of Communicable Diseases of the Health Department. There he was informed that an inspector would be sent at once and that if his diagnosis were upheld the woman would be removed, forcibly if necessary.

Mrs. Warecvek came her from Austria and brought her six children with her. Just what would be done with them had not been determined, but it was thought they probably would be quarantined in the Ridge Street tenement with a caretaker.

The Board of Health doctor diagnosed the case as one of toxemia and it was decided not to disturb the patient until laboratory tests could be made later in the day.

The Public Health Committee of the New York Academy of Medicine yesterday made public a report on the typhus situation, advising preventive measures although "no imminent danger of the spread of typhus fever exists."

The report said that the "occurrence of typhus fever in New York City is not an extraordinary event." Attention was directed to the fact that in 1917 twenty-four cases were reported here, while in 1918 there were thirteen more. After outlining the methods of transmission of the disease, the report recommended the segregation of the sick from the healthy and said that it was imperative that disinfection of immigrants be made at the port of embarkation.

"Because of the existence of the endemic type of typhus fever in this city," it continued, "the efforts of the City Health Department should be directed toward the elimination of pediculosis, from which a considerable portion of the city population suffers. The reports of school inspections show that every year over 200,000 children are found to be infested with lice."

"For the last ten days we have been carrying on a campaign in the public schools to learn of the children who are infested with vermin," said Dr. Royal S. Copeland. "We are making it a practice to tell children found infested with body vermin not to return to school until they are rid of the vermin, and if they do return to school they will be put out. The truant officers have been instructed to bring the parents of such children into court for failure to comply with the instructions of the department. All of the children who have been found with body vermin have recently come to this country from Europe."

Court Exonerates Dancers.

Magistrate Bernard J. Douras, in Yorkville Court yesterday, dismissed the complaint against three actresses and two men arrested last Friday night at an entertainment of law students of New York University in Anderson's Hall on Third Avenue. It had been charged that they gave an improper performance. They exhibited their stage dresses in disproof and repeated the dance they gave.
